MAD DOG BITES 6, KILLED

Today

We're Happy.
Wall St. Nervous? Why?
Einstein's Discovery.
Publishers, Cheer Up.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

RAMSAY MacDONALD, formerly British prime minister, says "relations between the United States and Great Britain grow increasingly unhappy." Not on THIS side of the water. We are happy, although rather foolish, with our peace pacts and other poor substitutes for airplanes, submarines and cruisers.

ACCORDING to Prof. Scott Nearing, writing for "Masses," Great Britain in 1876 produced 6,400,000 tons of pig iron, while this country in that year produced only 2,000,000 tons. In 1925 Great Britain produced only 6,400,000 tons, as against 10,400,000 tons in 1913, whereas the United States in 1925 produced 37.4 million tons. In other words, Britain in 1925 produced exactly the amount produced 50 years earlier. This country in 1925 produced almost 18 times as much pig iron as in 1875.

IN 1875 Great Britain produced 132,000,000 tons of coal, as against 47,000,000 tons in the United States.

In 1925 Great Britain produced 247,000,000 tons of coal. In 1925 this country produced 528,000,000 tons.

That's part of the trouble with our British friends, but they should blame, not their Uncle Sam, but something or somebody nearer home.

WALL STREET was nervous for awhile yesterday, didn't quite know why. Afraid of "dear money," perhaps.

But England is shipping gold to us, and more is expected.

Steel has gone to the highest price ever, and promises to go higher.

Copper is selling for 17 cents a pound, and Uncle Sam has the copper. We ought to be happy, not frightened.

But nervous prosperity is the worst kind of nervousness.

MR. SLOAN, head of General Motors, looks forward to regular annual production of 5,500,000 automobiles a year—a reasonable estimate.

With more than 30,000,000 cars running, 6,000,000 new cars a year will be needed merely as "replacement."

THE world of science, including Bertrand Russell, called the greatest living mathematician, is interested in Prof. Einstein's announcement that electro-magnetism and gravity are practically the same. This discovery, says the learned Dr. Pupin, of Columbia University, places Einstein beside Galileo and Newton.

ALL interested in physics await a demonstration that there is only one kind of force in the universe, that light, heat, motion, electro-magnetism, gravity are all the same. Einstein seems to confirm part of Herbert Spencer's definition of evolution which describes the "retained motion" as undergoing a transformation from "an indefinite, incoherent homogeniety to a definite, coherent heterogeniety."

MORE interesting to practical publishers of newspapers is the fact that the big Woolworth concern plans an enormous advertising campaign amounting to $3,000,000 the first year. Abandoning the theory that selecting the right location makes advertising unnecessary proves the wisdom of Woolworth's president, H. T. Parson.

GET the best position for your store, by all means. But get also the best "position," and the best copy, for your advertising in a newspaper.

Have what the people want, then let the people know you have it. That's the secret of success.

BOOTLEGGERS plying their trade between Canada and Detroit had a happy day on the ice. The Detroit River was entirely frozen over in some places, almost entirely frozen over in others, ice six inches thick.

Old-fashioned sleds, toboggans, sleighs were taken out, loaded with liquid refreshments containing more than half of one per cent alcohol, and whisked over the ice. On the United States side of the frozen river large furniture vans were waiting.

When water turns to ice and helps the whisky trade, it's discouraging.

JAMES DE LASOS, Greek, with his first naturalization papers, is rejected as juryman in Washington. He did not know there was a prohibition law in this country.

A visitor from Mars might be here some time without suspecting that we have a prohibition law either.

MANY respectable visitors from Europe, entertained in New York, beginning with strong cocktails, going on through champagne to brandy, say they find it hard to believe that we have a prohibition law.

LORD ROTHERMERE, who owns many British newspapers, says Labor will return to power and select a prime minister to write the King's speeches at the next election. British Labor, he says, will revise the treaty signed at Versailles.

Lord Rothermere may be mistaken, probably is.

WOOD HELD AS BANK BANDIT

International News Service.

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—Ralph A. Wood and Cecil T. Holt, two of the principal figures in the alleged kidnaping and murder conspiracy plot case, in which Wood's wife, Grace M. Wood, was claimed to have been involved, were arrested here early today in connection with the $75,000 robbery of the Sturgiss National Bank at Sturgis, Mich., on December 17, 1928.

Holt, the "squealer," and Wood, purported intended victim of the asserted murder conspiracy, were arrested on warrants signed by Justice of the Peace Charles L. Hener, of Sturgis.

WOOD IDENTIFIED

Assistant Prosecutor J. P. Sloane, acting for Prosecutor Lawrence, of St. Joseph County, recommended the warrants.

Wood has been identified as one of five bandits, who held up the Sturgis bank in a daring daylight robbery, and escaped with $15,000 cash and $60,000 in negotiable securities, police said. Both men were arrested by deputy sheriffs and state troopers operating under orders of the prosecutor's office of St. Joseph County.

Wood was taken into custody at his fashionable suburban home at Wyandotte by State Troopers J. M. Sheridan and Fred Lally. Holt was arrested in the county jail here where he had sought refuge after an alleged attempt on his life last Tuesday.

Blanche Sweet Denies She'll Seek Divorce

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Blanche Sweet, screen actress wife of Marshall Neilan, motion picture director, today emphatically denied recent reports in Hollywood film circles that she and her husband had separated. WCAE WILL MOVE TONIGHT

Radio station WCAE will sign off at 11 o'clock tonight until Sunday afternoon, it was announced today following receipt of permission from the Federal Radio Commission to remove the broadcasting studio from Gimbel's store, in the heart of the city, to its warehouse at Twenty-first and Wharton streets, South Side.

The change is expected to improve the local station's broadcasting, removing the sending apparatus from interference occasioned by power lines and towering steel structural work in the city's downtown buildings.

In connection with the change in location, it was announced by Karl Kaufmann, superintendent of Gimbel's, new equipment will be installed in the hope of improving the station's transmission. A new speech amplifier and input system is being installed, it was announced.

BETTIS FIELD REPORTED SOLD

St. Louis, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh interests have purchased Bettis Field, Dravosburg, it is understood in aviation circles. The field is Pittsburgh's largest airplane landing field.

S. J. Brendel and Harry C. Neel, who have owned the property since its development into an airplane landing field, have accepted a proposition involving $500,000, said to have been submitted in behalf of the purchasing group by D. Barr Peat, who originated the idea of establishing the field. He has been the manager "without salary" since the field opened in May, 1924.

ADMIT NEGOTIATIONS

Neither the owners nor Peat would confirm the sale early today, but they admitted that negotiations had been in progress for months.

A new concrete and steel hangar to house 15 planes was recently completed at the field. Work on a second was to begin in February and it

SOUTH SIDE DISTRICT IN PANIC

Six persons are known to have been bitten and police say many more weer attacked by a mad dog which today dashed wildly through South Side streets until shot by Patrolman Louis Foster, after a chase of more than 20 blocks.

The victims include Prof. Grover Washabaugh, principal of the South Side High School; John Zew, 705 Carson street, and John Manko, 22 Enon way, treated at South Side Hospital; Joseph Fink, 2123 Carson street, treated at St. Joseph's Hospital, and Thomas McElhan, 154 South Twentieth street, and Fred Dusdech, 204 Elnora street, Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation mill employers, treated at the plant.

CHASE STARTS

The first intimation that a mad dog was on a rampage in the district was a telephone message to the South Side Police Station.

At South Thirteenth and Carson streets, Foster saw the dog. It ran down South Carson street. Foster commandeered the automobile of H. W. Jeschke, 3201 West Carson street and pursued. The animal seemed to sense the pursuit. In its mad dash it snapped at passersby, tore their clothing, bit at automobile wheels and at street cars.

Up side streets, down and back into Carson street the hunt led, with Foster emptying his revolver several times at the animal. The chase ended when Foster cornered the dog at Thirty-sixth street, in an alley. The eighteenth shot killed the dog.

TRACED TO COARAPOLIS

With the exception of McElhan and Dusdech, all the victims were attacked in Carson street. McElhan and Dusdech, it is said, were bitten while at work in the Jones & Laughlin plant. In its wild flight the dog also bit a dog owned by A. J. Friend, 2228 Carson street. Police ordered this dog tied up.

Records in the County Treasurer's office show that the license on the mad dog's collar was issued to Allen Greaves, 1705 State street, Coraopolis. Police believe that the dog made its way up from Coraopolis, but have no reports that it bit other persons or other dogs in its wanderings.

Minnesotan Named Track Commissioner

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—The nomination of Charles H. March, of Minnesota, to be Federal Trade Commissioner was ordered favorably reported today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

UNDERWOOD KILLED BY STROKE

Do You Remember?

"Ala-BAM-a casts 24 votes for UN-der-WOOD!"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.) — Oscar W. Underwood, former Senator from Alabama, and a powerful figure in American political life for 20 years, died at his home in Woodlawn, Va., today after a long illness.

A cerebral hemorrhage early in December, a stroke of paralysis two weeks later from which he rallied, and a fatal relapse a few days ago brought his career to an end.

The death was announced by his son, Oscar W. Underwood, Jr., a Washington attorney.

DEMOCRATIC LEADER

Senator Underwood was noted for his leadership of the Democratic party in the House and Senate.

Mr. Underwood assumed leadership of his party in the House of Representatives in 1911. The tariff bill passed during the Wilson administration bore his name, and he was placed in nomination for the Democratic presidential nomination at several conventions.

During his service in the Senate he became party leader and delegate to the Washington Arms Conference. He retired voluntarily from the Senate, declining to let his name go before the voters in 1926.

SENATE PAYS TRIBUTE

The Senate adjourned immediately on announcement of his death out of respect to his memory.

His work in handling an unwieldy majority when the Democrats came into power in the House for the first time in years placed him at once into a conspicuous position in the nation's political life.

He would have been 67 years old on May 6 this year.

HOUSE HEARS OF DEATH

The House listened to the announcement of Mr. Underwood's death, but did not adjourn. It passed the appropriation bill for the District of Columbia and grappled with problems of a minor nature.

Underwood was praised as a statesman, public servant and gentleman by Senators Curtis, Walsh, Harrison, Robinson and Borah, and Representative Garrison and Secretary Kellogg.

UNTERMEYER ASKS SUPREME COURT TO EASE CENSURE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Asserting that the court's censure had affected him more deeply than any other happening in his professional life, Samuel Untermyer, New York attorney, asked the Supreme Court today to remove from its record criticism of his conduct in a bankruptcy case decided recently.

A decision handed down January 2 by Chief Justice Taft arraigned Untermyer for what the court declared to be a demand by the lawyer for $70,000 of the fees paid to the Pittsburgh law firm of Weil and Thorp.

Untermyer today asked the court to permit him or counsel to appear in defense of his professional honor and expressed a hope that the court would modify its censure.

"I am only appealing to the court as a member of its bar," Untermyer's petition read, "to reconsider such portions of the opinion as question my ethical standards and condemn me for a breach of professional ethics of which I am wholly innocent."

BRADDOCK WILL FETE SEA HERO

Citizens of Braddock today were preparing to heap honors due a hero upon one of their own—Fonce Kellams, one of the crew of the liner America who distinguished himself in rescuing 32 men from the sinking Italian freighter Florida 700 miles off the Virginia coast Wednesday.

While two nations were planning to recognize the feat of Capt. George Fried's crew, Braddock claimed the right to fete the young man who first read of the sea in the Braddock Borough schools.

BOROUGH LAYS PLANS

Joseph Shermar, secretary of Braddock Council, announced that the borough would sponsor a homecoming celebration for Kellams and that Council would request participation of the American Legion, Chamber of Commerce, Business Men's Association and civic clubs.

The rescue liner is expected to reach New York tomorrow and it is likely that Kellams will be able to return to Braddock early next week.

VOLUNTEERED FOR JOB

Kellams played a conspicuous part in the heroic victory over a stormy sea that was swallowing the Italian freighter when the America, after a three-day race, reached its side. He asked to be one of the eight men who set out in a lifeboat to remove the Florida crew from the sinking vessel, and was chosen.

Alongside the ferighter, the rescue squad of eight Americans was un-

Booth Injunction Hearing Postponed

LONDON, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—The legal battle between Gen. Bramwell Booth and the high council of the Salvation Army again was postponed today. The hearing on Booth's injunction restraining the council from selecting his successor, will be heard in the Court of Chancery next Tuesday, instead of today. Meanwhile the General's injunction remains effective.

Anti-Wet Loses Move to Escape 60-Day Sentence

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Judge Robert C. Baltzell in Federal Court here this morning overruled the petition of Dr. Edward S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, for a writ of habeas corpus.

Mr. Shumaker is seeking to evade serving a 60-day sentence imposed by the State Supreme Court for contempt.

Unless attorneys for the dry leader take other action he will be compelled to go to the Indiana State Penal Farm to serve the sentence.

Shumaker was convicted of contempt on the basis of statements published in the annual report of the Anti-Saloon League. These statements criticized members of the Supreme Court for their decisions on liquor appeal cases.

WIND RIPS UP POLES, WIRES, SIGNS

A violent squall, forerunner of a predicted 10-degree cold wave, hit the Pittsburgh district this afternoon, wreaking damage and sending pedestrians scurrying for cover.

Veering from southwest to northwest the wind blew 50 miles an hour while the mercury fell 14 degrees in 15 minutes, as heavy rain fell.

POLES BLOWN DOWN

Three poles of the Postal Telegraph Company were snapped off near the base in Carven street at Paulson avenue and hung suspended by the wires. An emergency crew was rushed to the scene to prevent the poles and wires toppling on nearby houses.

Signboards were leveled in various places and electric light service was impaired in many buildings because of damaged wires.

SIGNS CRASH

Several signs were blown down and sent crowds on the sidewalks into store doorways and office building corridors for shelter.

A temperature of 10 degrees above zero by tomorrow morning, was predicted by Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. The cold wave will be the sixth of this month.

The storm felled a pole carrying light wires in Woodside avenue, Forest Hills, and sanpped several wires in Rebecca avenue near Swissvalle avenue, Wilkinsburg, police reported.

A plate glass window was blown in at 2801 Penn avenue and an awning blown down.

In Fifth avenue, at Beechwood boulevard, several large trees were blown down, blocking the sidewalk.

Snow flurries and high northwest winds will accompany the cold.

A rainstorm last night put a coating of slush on streets and highways. With tonight's freeze, following on this afternoon's heavy rainfall, motorists likely will face hazardous driving, the forecaster said.

Forney Charge Quash Asked

Alfred W. Forney, through his counsel, today asked Judge James B. Drew in Criminal Court to quash the 15 indictments which charge him with maintaining gambling devices.

Attorney Hiram Hirsch argued that the indictments against the erstwhile boss of the slot-machine racket were not properly drawn, that they did not list the witnesses who had testified against Forney before the grand jury.

Forney, having finished serving a six-months' federal sentence for violation of the prohibition law, accompanied his counsel to court.

Two Youths Arrested On Burglary Charge

Caught in the act, police say, of looting an Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company store at 2173 Wylie avenue early today, Solomon Lewis, 17, and Ernest Moser, 18, Negroes, of Mahon street, are being held in the Center Avenue station. Patrolmen Edward Scanlon and John Connors say they caught the two boys in the store and that $5 in change, which had been taken from the cash register, was found in their pockets. A door window had been broken with a brick.

WAYNE B. WHEELER TOOK HIS ORDERS, SAYS M'BRIDE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Asserting that the late Wayne B. Wheeler took orders from him, F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, said today it would make "mighty little difference" to him whether the league appointed a successor to Mr. Wheeler.

McBride has been acting as legislative representative of the league, the post Wheeler occupied. There have been reports that someone else might be appointed to the place, especially in view of the series of statements from dry leaders over whether the $24,000,000 prohibition enforcement item now pending in Congress should be approved at this time.

McBride challenged published statements that the indorsement of the fund by members of the executive committee of the league were a repudiation of him.

Explaining his relations with Mr. Wheeler, McBride pointed to the constitution of the league, which held that the legislative representative should perform his duties with the counsel and under the direction of the general superintendent. He frequently has asked the executive committee to name a successor to Mr. Wheeler, he said.

FAULKNER BRANDS ORR'S OUSTER DEMAND UNJUST

VERONA, RIVAL STAGE BATTLE IN NIGHT CLUB

"I didn't even see Joe Engelsberg"—John J. Verona.

"He beat me up, he and 20 others"—Joe Engelsberg.

Those were the official communiques today in the political prizefight, which took place after midnight in the Club Alabam', Wylie avenue black-and-tan cabaret, between two political leaders of the Hill district.

Verona, alderman and Republican chairman of the Third Ward, allowed himself a chuckle as he denied scattering aldermanic rights and lefts, to say nothing of a good old-fashioned Wylie avenue boot or two, about the anatomy of Mayor Kline's new leader on the Hill.

JOE REMEMBERS

Engelsberg, in the mood of a man who has fought a Dempsey for the first and last time, wasn't able to forget so easily. Not only did Verona and 20 of his colleagues mishandle him, said Engelsberg, "but Verona took my coat and vest and there was $300 in my coat and my glasses and some important papers."

The town was full of fight gossip today and among boxing bugs there was genuine, if unwarranted, admiration for John J. Verona. In fact, there was a movement under way to crown him the light heavyweight champion of the Hill district, let the political titles fall where they may.

In political circles there could be but one conclusion. Verona, fired as magistrate and succeeded by an Engelsberg aide—Leo Rothenberg—had vented his spleen on the hide of Engelsberg.

ADMITS BEING AT CLUB

Be all that as it is or isn't, the uncrowned light-heavy champion refused to accept the pugilistic laurel.

"Yeah, sure, I was in the Alabam'," the former magistrate admitted after he had been found in the Amerita Club, "but I didn't see Joe Engelsberg. How could I have his clothes if I didn't see him, let alone beat him up? Ask him, he'll tell you there was no fight."

CHARGES "LIE"

Engelsberg was asked. He answered:

"Verona lies. He beat me up. I was sitting at a table with a couple of friends and he came in with a gang and without saying a word pulled me out of my chair. His constable, Lovola, was the first one to get me. Then they all jumped in, about 20 of them. Now I got only the pants to this suit and he's got the coat and vest with important stuff in them. I was afraid to go home until I got police protection."

Verona couldn't understand how the witnesses had mistaken him for the guilty person.

"Why," Verona chuckled, "you remember how Mussolini told that barber to quit looking like him. Well, maybe I've got a double. Lots of people tell me Andy Garavini looks like me. 'Course, I wouldn't say it was Andy that beat up Joe, but lots of people call me Andy by mistake."

Engelsberg said that heretofore his relations have been distantly pleasant, that when they passed each other on the street John said, "Hello, Joe," and Joe said, "Hello, John."

Will Leaves Farm To Son, Daughter

The will of William H. Snively, Poketa road, Penn Township, disposing of an estate valued at $11,000, was filed for probate today. It directs that six acres of the farm be given his daughter, Eliza Jane Snively, and the balance of the farm to a son, Ralph G. Snively. Furniture also goes to the daughter and farm stock to the son. Each of three grandsons are to receive $200, after which the balance of the estate is to be divided equally between the son and daughter, both of whom are named executors.

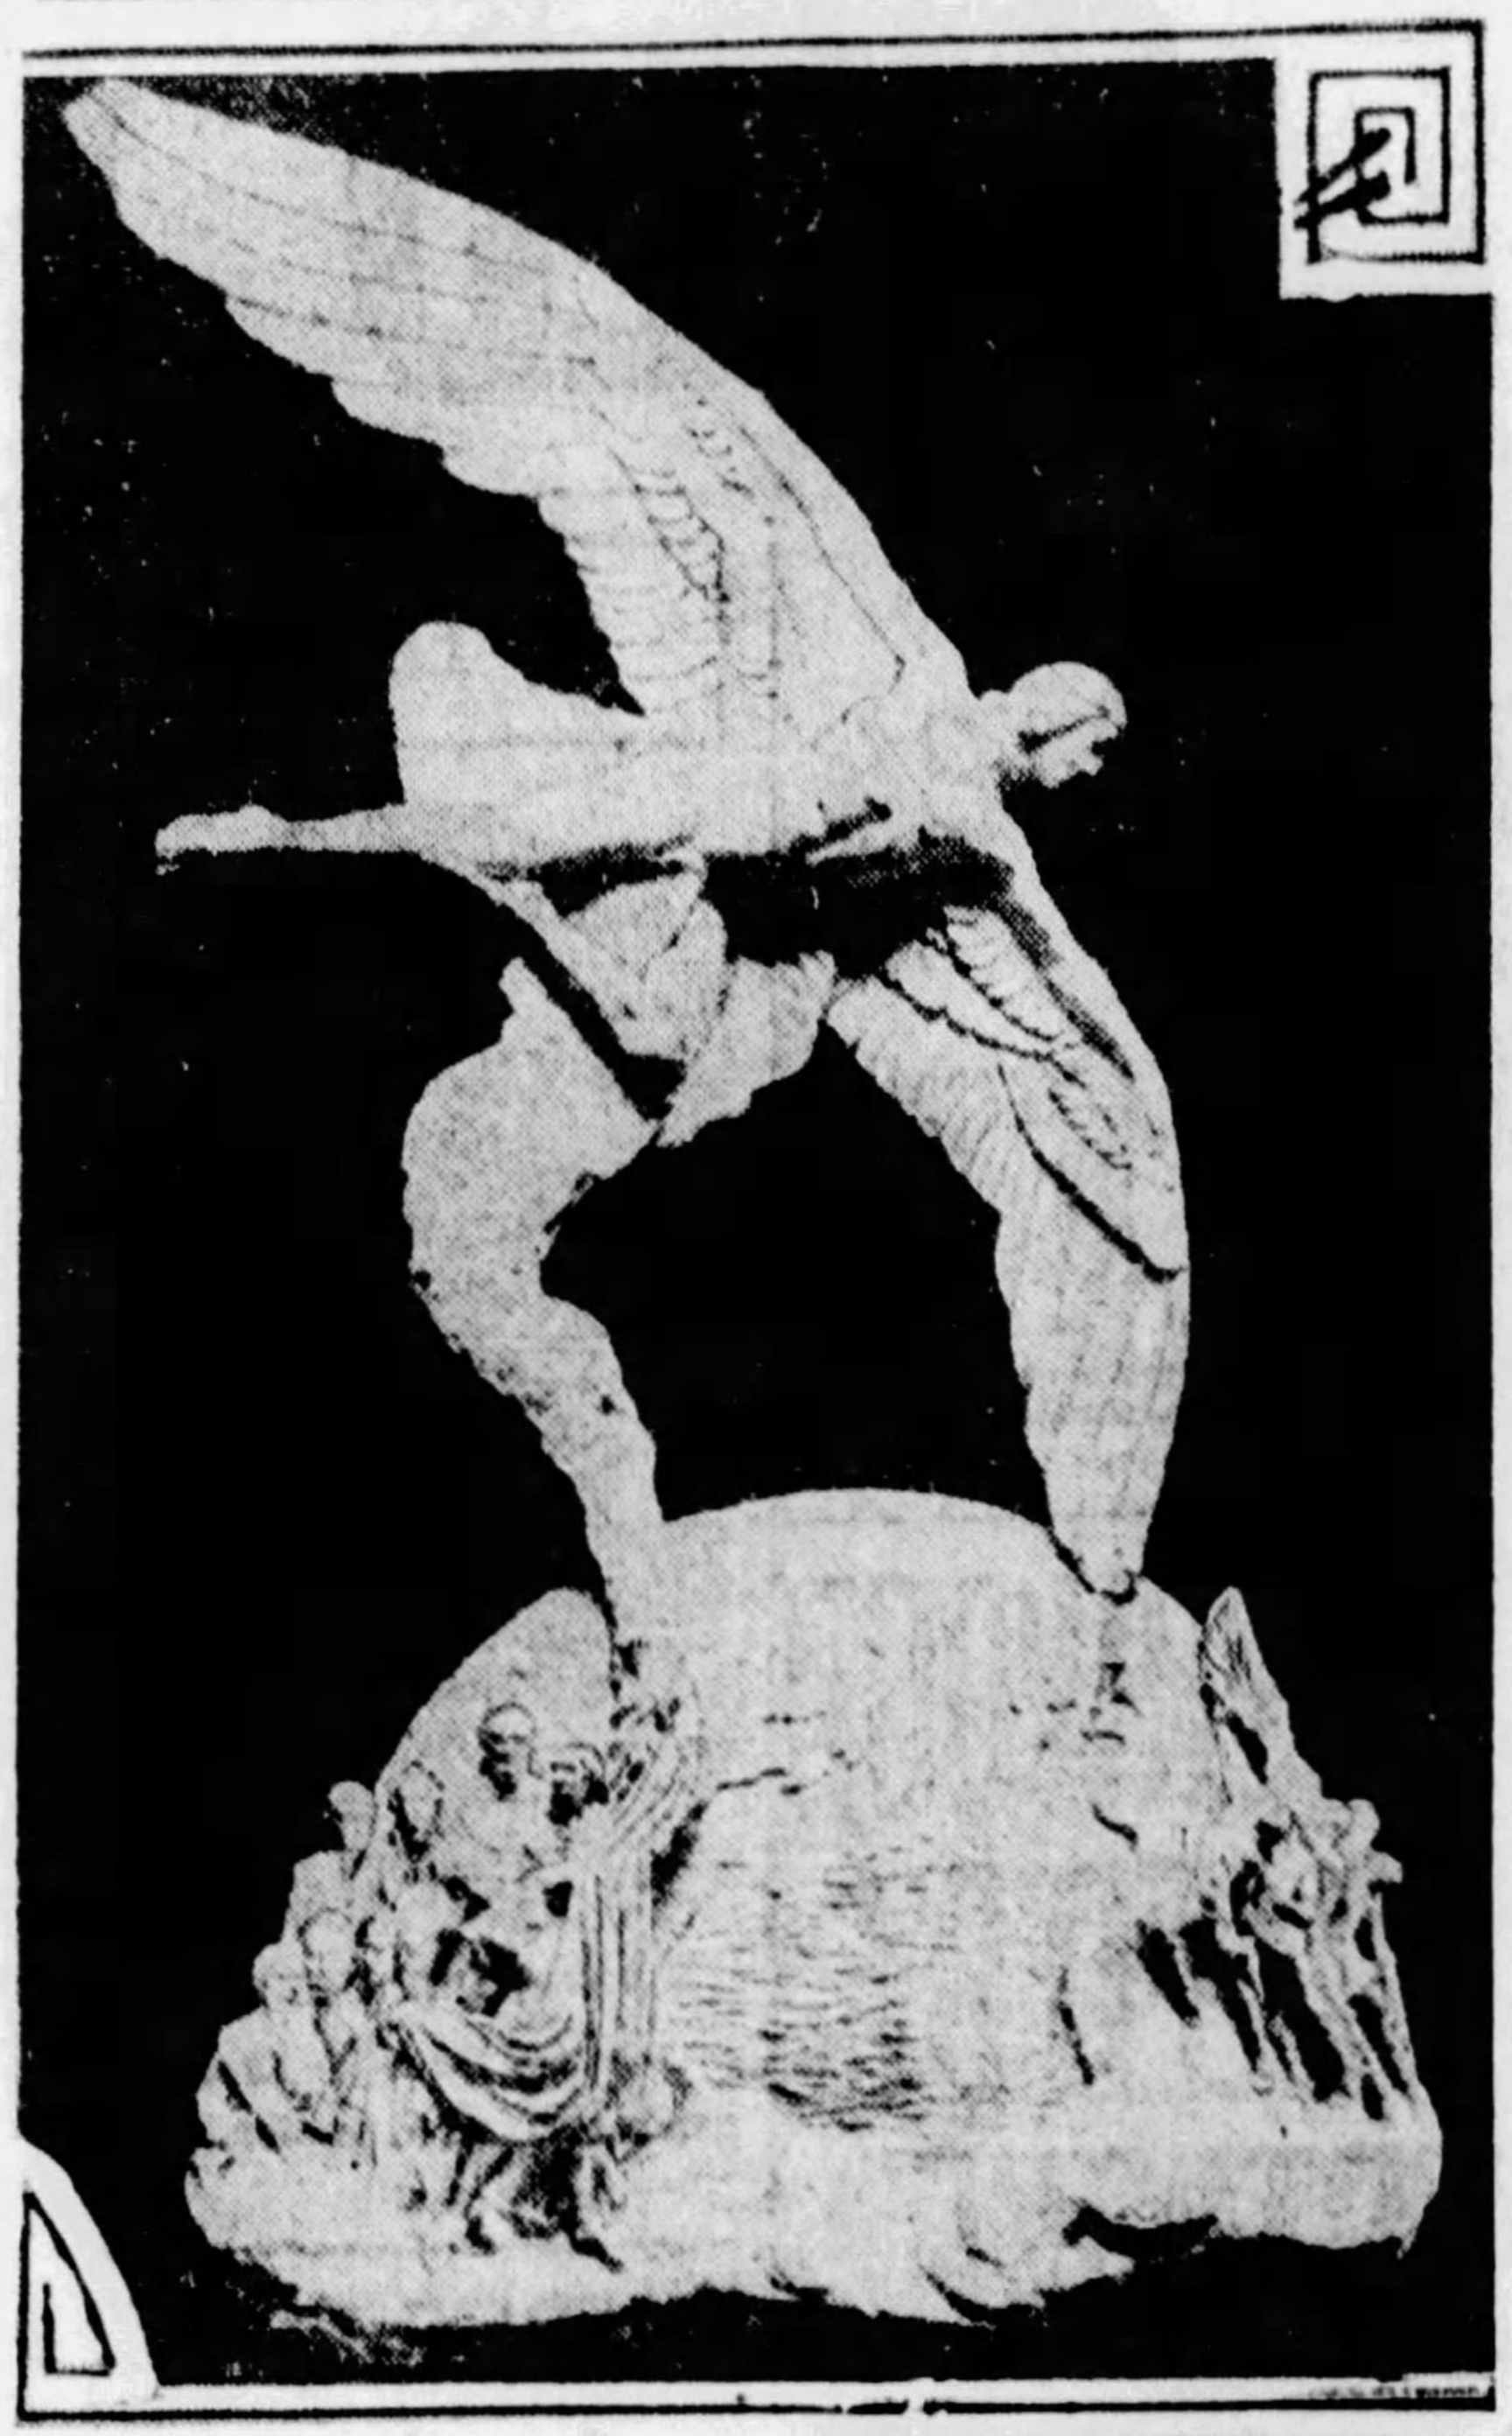
VITTOR TO SEND STATUARY HERE BY AIR



VITTOR'S "LINDBERGH"

A winged figure, in helmet and supported by a cloud, which springs from a miniature of Bartholdi's "Liberty" and spans the Atlantic Ocean to touch Eiffel Tower — that's Sculptor Frank Vittor's conception of Lindbergh's flight. The statue, announced completed in bronze, is 50 feet high and may be placed at Mineola Field, N. Y., or Le Bourget, France.

CONGRESSMAN KELLY AND BUST

STATUE COMING BY AIR MAIL

That puts art on a high plane.

Frank Vittor, local sculptor, recently completed a bust of Congressman Clyde Kelly, which is to be presented to him at a dinner in the Schenley Hotel next Wednesday evening by his Italian-American friends of the Thirty-third Congressional District.

It is a life-size bust and will probably be one of the heaviest consignments to ever be brought to the local air mail port.

By special arrangement with the postoffice department the bust will be shipped by air mail to Cleveland, and thence by air to Bettis Field.

Sculptor Vittor, like other artists, prizes his creations to a high degree, but he expressed enough faith in the safe transportation by air mail of this valuable statue to give his consent to flying it here from New York. Vittor recently completed a figure of President Coolidge, for which the President posed 23 hours in a three-day period.

Congressman Kelly is being honored by the Italian-Americans, principally for his action in getting the passage through Congress of a measure which obviates the necessity of Italians now American citizens being forced to serve in the military if they return to their native land for more than a six months' visit.

It is expected that more than 600 will attend the dinner, at which there will be many distinguished men, including Secretary of Labor James J. Davis.

BETTIS AIRPORT RUMORED SOLD

is believed that the new owners will carry it through.

AIR MAIL CONTINUES

The air mail "for the present at least," will continue to operate from the field, according to Clifford E. Ball, Pittsburgh-Cleveland air mail contractor.

Bettis Field comprises about 400 acres fronting on Lincoln Place, between Hays borough and Dravosburg-McKeesport, with the Lebanon road joining at the northeast corner. It is 9.2 miles from downtown Pittsburgh. Most of the property belonged to the Neel estate and much of it descended to Harry C. Neel, from colonial times. The Neel homestead, adjoining the field, and which was not included in the reported sale, was built more than 125 years ago. It was remodeled recently.

Peat Sells Air Mail Interests to Ball

Clifford Ball, Pittsburgh-Cleveland air mail contractor, became sole owner of the air mail contract yesterday when he purchased the interest of D. Barr Peat, manager of Bettis Field, McKeesport, the air mail terminal. Peat is reported to have received $50,000 in return for his original $3,000 investment.

The line, inaugurated in the spring of 1926, is reported to have earned net profits last year in excess of $50,000.

Peat, who established Bettis Field as Pittsburgh's first landing field, interested Ball in bidding for the air mail contract when the line was opened by the Postoffice Department in 1925.

Wales Inspects Speed Test Auto

LONDON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales, driving alone in his automobile, made one of his typical impromptu visits to a London motor house last night to inspect the car, "Golden Arrow," and the speedboat, "Miss England," with which Maj. H. O. Segrave intends to attack world's speed records this year.

The Major "happened" to be present and he showed his vehicle to the Prince, answering many questions about the sensations of speed riding.

2 MORE SHIPS IN DISTRESS

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Two steamers and their crews of nearly 60 men were in jeopardy in Southern Atlantic waters today as relief was speeding to them. Neither is in immediate danger.

The Dixiano, an American sugar transport, was held fast on a reef off the Cuban coast while the Norwegian motorship Fernlane, was reported wallowing helplessly southeast of Bermuda with her rudder and stern frame broken.

The salvage steamer, Warbler, the same which assisted in the rescue of passengers from the grounded President Garfield, was en route to the Dixiano. The salvage tug Relief put out to aid the Norwegian ship.

Another near disaster in the North Atlantic was averted when the steamer City of Lowell went to the aid of the liner Georgia, helpless off the Connecticut coast with a broken propeller, and towed her to New Haven, Conn., after transferring passengers.

AMERICAN TANKER SAFE

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The American tanker Dannedaike, which has been slowly making her way toward Bermuda after being in distress on the night of January 22, notified port authorities here today that she expects to reach Murray's anchorage easily tomorrow.

The ship had started on that day to the aid of the Italian freighter Florida, but had to abandon the attempt because of her own peril.

able to communicate orders to the Italian crew until Kellams, who speaks both English and Italian, filled the role of interpreter.

When Kellams, who joined the Navy 10 years ago, returns to Braddock to visit his stepmather, Mrs. Alice Fox, of 414 Oak street, he will probably be able to display two medals of honor, one from Uncle Sam, the other from the Italian government.

The International News Service reported from Washington that Congress greeted with enthusiastic applause a resolution which would award medals to Capt. Fried and the rescuers.

MUSSOLINI SPEAKS

Premier Mussolini was expected to authorize similar rewards for the American heroes. A cable dispatch from Rome said Mussolini was particularly interested in the rescue and probably would instruct the Italian ambassador at Washington to express the thanks of the Italian nation.

Kellams has a brother, Forest Kellams, in Chicago. His parents are dead. His father, Carl Kellams, was, for 13 years, a motorman in the Pittsburgh district. He married Mrs. Alice Fox after his first wife, Kellam's mother, died, 13 years ago.

Most of Kellams' 10 years on the sea have been spent as a member of the crew of the S. S. Raleigh.

This is not the first time that Kellams' superior, Capt. Fried, has been identified as a hero. Three years ago he and his crew saved the crew of the British freighter Antinoe in mid-Atlantic.

Side by side Fried and Kellams, with their mates, will be motored up Broadway tomorrow to the cheers of admiring thousands. If the America docks late tomorrow, the celebration will be deferred until Monday.

Radio Regulation Is Needed, Expert Avers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Radio needs real regulation, M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, declared today before the House Merchant Marine Committee at hearings on a bill to continue the present authority of the Federal Radio Commission for another year. A governmental agency, either administrative or functioning as an appellate body, is needed along with capable engineers, Aylesworth said.

W. Va. Road to Honor "Stonewall" Jackson

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Both Houses of the West Virginia Legislature adopted a resolution which would change the name of U. S. Route No. 19 to "Stonewall Jackson Memorial Highway."

The resolution requests other states to take similar action. Beginning at Erie, Pa., the route traverses Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida, passing near the birthplace in Clarksburg, W. Va., of Gen. Jackson.

COUZENS DROPS FIGHT TO OUST MELLON

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, has virtually abandoned all plans for pressing for action on his resolution seeking to have Andrew W. Mellon ousted as secretary of the treasury in the Coolidge cabinet.

The resolution of the Michigan Senator, together with a similar one offered by Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr., of Wisconsin, was presented to the upper chamber at the last session and came as a culmination of the long-standing political fight between Couzens and the Treasury Department head.

It is not that Couzens has abandoned entirely his fight on Mellon. During the 10 days of political conferences held with congressional leaders by President-elect Hoover while here, he is understood to have voiced spirited opposition to Mellon being retained under the new administration.

VOTE FUTILE

The legislative situation in the Senate is said to have forced the conviction upon him that any effort to bring the resolution to a vote would be futile. For one thing, it would be sure to precipitate a determined filibuster which would likely defeat all pending bills.

As the spokesman for the Treasury Department head in the upper house, Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, would be counted upon to lead the opposition to any movement aimed at Secretary Mellon.

The resolution of Senator La Follette falls in the same category. He would not be expected to take the initiative with Couzens abandoning his plans.

SKIRMISH SHORT-LIVED

The Senate yesterday had a brief skirmish on the Couzens ouster proceedings. As its place was reached on the Senate calendar, Senator Reed Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, raised perfunctory objection to its consideration, which automatically caused it to be laid aside.

Neither Couzens nor La Follette moved to demand action, which could have been accomplished only through majority sentiment as expressed in a roll call.

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, who occupies the role of Democratic heckler, "warned" Republican leaders in a light vein that they had "better consider the resolution before March 4, or you might not get an opportunity to act on it after that."

Friends of Secretary Mellon were on hand prepared to defend him in the event of a fight.

BLINDS WIFE, SHOOTS TOTS

AKRON, O., Jan 25.—(INS.)—A jealous husband, who blinded his beautiful young wife, killed his four-year-old son and wounded his two-year-old daughter, died by his own hand early today as the climax of the most frightful domestic tragedy in the city's history.

Driven to a maniacal frenzy by jealousy, the husband, George Thomas, 30, a rubber worker, carried out his threat to claw out the eyes of his wife and to kill himself and his children. Thomas and his son, Robert, 4, are dead. Rosemond, 2, is expected to die from two bullet wounds in her breast. Mrs. Helen S. Thomas, 24, is expected to remain blind the rest of her life.

Maddened by the knowledge that his wife had been down town seeking witnesses for a divorce, Thomas, after a violent quarrel, committed the quadruple crime.

Mrs. Thomas said that though she loved her husband she had come to fear him because of his jealousy. It was because of this that she decided to get a divorce, she said.

"I would have died for him or the children," the suffering woman sobbed. They were married November 16, 1922, at Lorain.

Four Children Found With Throats Cut

ROMFORD, Essex, England, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The bodies of four children, cousins, between the ages of 2½ and 6½ years, were discovered with their throats cut in a shed near here today. The eldest boy and girl were children of Sidney Percy Gray, a former London policeman, and the other boy and girl were children of Gray's sister. Police are searching for Gray, who recently was released from a home of the mentally ill.

Miss Craine was shown the pictures. Even before she saw them, she had given a minute description that, officials said, fitted Holt. When she saw the picture of Holt she exclaimed:

"I'll bet $10 that's the man that came into the cage." Officers next went to see Roy Borchert, Burr Oak farmer, who had stepped into the bank while the robbery was in progress.

Borchert recognized none of the pictures until he came to one of Wood. "This looks more like it," he said.

SUSPECTS TRICKED

With these identifications to work on, officers brought Parrish, Borchert and Miss Craine to Detroit and placed them where they could see the suspects. Too small rooms, across the court from each other, were rented in a downtown hotel. The three witnesses were brought into one of the rooms which was darkened.

Holt and Wood were brought into the other room, brilliantly lighted. Miss Craine positively identified Holt. "That's the man! That's the man!" she exclaimed. Parrish took more time in identifying Wood.

When the bandits swooped down upon the little bank last December, one of them stood guard while the other four entered and got the loot. Parrish identified Wood as the one-armed lookout. Wood has lost his right arm.

BARES KIDNAP PLOT

Holt, Haggerty, Thompson and Pierce, carrying out a plot concocted by Mrs. Wood, went to Wood's real estate office on the night of January 9 with the intention of kidnaping Wood and later killing him, according to Holt.

Holt told police that in the event Wood died before the culmination of divorce proceedings he had instituted against his wife, Mrs. Wood, much older than her husband, would be the beneficiary of her husband's $50,000 life insurance policy.

Acting on Holt's information, police of Detroit and Wyandotte prepared an ambuscade. On the night of the assault, Holt and Haggerty, the latter not suspecting the police ambush, came to the door of Wood's office. Haggerty was to slug Wood as the realtor came out, Holt said.

As Haggerty stepped forward to blackjack Wood the latter whipped out a pistol and killed Haggerty, an alleged Chicago gunman. Thompson and Pierce made a temporary getaway, but were later arrested as was Mrs. Wood. All three are awaiting examination on an assault with intent to kill and murder charge.

SAYS PASTORS "WOULD AID RUM RING"

Answering a demand for his dismissal as a police official, Inspector Charles Faulkner, of the North Side, declared today, in a letter to the Rev. Dr. J. Alvin Orr, that the movement, if successful, would do nothing more than further a plot for revenge engineered by two alleged bootleggers he says he forced out of business.

Dr. Orr is chairman of the committee of ministers who have called a mass meeting to be held in the North Side Carnegie Music Hall tomorrow night to urge that Faulkner be discharged.

"WELCOMES DRY RAIDS"

Faulkner says he welcomed the raids made by federal prohibition agents on the North Side lately and regrets that they had not been more active. But the city police have made three times as many raids as the federal officers, he asserts, and claims that during the past three years he has conducted 1,000 raids and confiscated 600 stills.

Commenting on indictments returned against him by federal and state grand juries, Faulkner says:

ASKS FAIR PLAY

"May I remind you that up until the present date I have not been found guilty of anything that would warrant my dismissal from public office, and that any action you may take, which must be taken on hearsay evidence, would be a gross injustice to my character and would be a violation of fair play.

"Of course you could not know that when you are sponsoring my dismissal you are but furthering the malicious, revengeful project of two men, both of them aliens, who have perjured themselves before three grand juries in an effort to connect me with a rum ring because I put them out of business—forced them by successive raids to cease the sale and manufacture of moonshine whisky."

SHOOT BANDITS, POLICE ORDER

"Get out and stop these holdups and shooting bandits, no matter how drastic the means you must use; shoot to kill, if that's the only way you can get results," was the essence of a general order issued today by Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh to patrolmen and detectives.

The order directs the officers to use the sawed-off shotguns that have been issued to all emergency squads of the various precincts.

The superintendent's action follows closely receipt of reports of a half or dozen or more holdups during the night in one of which, V. Paul, taxi driver of 35 Lafferty avenue, was the victim of a bandit bullet. Scores of "stick-ups" have been reported during the week.

Paul, who is seriously wounded, was taken to St. John's Hospital when another driver found him in the 2800 block of Preble avenue. He told police he was shot at Preble and Seymore street by a Negro passenger in his cab.

Other holdups reported were those of Theodore Zeugschmidt, of 221 South St. Clair street, who was robbed of $32; Donald Obitz, of 11 Forcet place, $1 and valuable papers; J. J. Zeglot, of 2215 North Charles street, $60, and C. J. Shannahan, 628 Hastings street, $83.

Former Opera Star Aids Ambitious Girls

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Forced to give up opera and concert singing by ill health, Anna Fitziu, former star in the Metropolitan, is devoting most of her time to free instruction in music of talented girls selected by the Y. W. C. A. and Astors' Equity. She thinks the work has saved her life and finds it more interesting than writing poems, lyrics and fiction for cash.

PAULINE GARON

Pauline Garon, movie actress, left her husband, Lowell Sherman, stage and screen star, after 18 months of married life, Sherman states in divorce action filed in Los Angeles yesterday. Miss Garon, who is charged with desertion, will not contest the suit, her attorneys say.

RUTH ELDER'S FILM DOUBLE KILLED IN PARACHUTE LEAP

NEWHALL, Cal., Jan. 25.—The spectacular death of a girl parachute jumper in a 2,000-foot leap from an airplane here caused a temporary halt today in the production of a motion picture "thriller" in which Ruth Elder, ocean flier, and Hoot Gibson, screen star, were being featured. The girl was "doubling" for Miss Elder.

PILOT TRIES RESCUE

A desperate attempt by Jim Granger, pilot of the plane from which Miss Leta Wichart, 23, jumped, to nose dive under her and catch her in the cockpit of his ship failed apparently by only a few feet.

Miss Wichard was being filmed in a scene which was to have shown the heroine leaping to safety from the clutches of an aerial kidnaper. Her husband, Floyd Bowman, along with Miss Elder, Gibson and others in the cast, saw the girl plunge to her death in a canyon. The victim was making her one hundred and fortieth jump. She and Bowman, who is said to have made 800 parachute jumps, were married only recently.

DIDN'T PULL CORD

Motion picture executives reported that Miss Wichart had failed to pull the rip cord of her parachute, but the reason she failed to release the parachute was not definitely determined. Granger, who said the girl appeared nervous just before she leaped out of the plane, advanced the theory that she had fainted. Others believed that a scarf which was a part of her costume had prevented her from getting a hold on the ring.

Miss Wichart's mother, Mrs. Lulu B. Montgomery, lives in Chicago.

EIGHTH CHILD, SON, BORN TO FUGITIVE AFGHAN QUEEN

LONDON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Daily Express today said that a son has been born in Scouriya, dethroned Queen of Afghanistan.

A Bombay dispatch to the paper quoted the India News Agency as saying that the child was born at Kandahar, where Scouriya fled with her husband, Amanullah. It is her eighth child.

The Express also said it was authoritatively stated at the Afghan legation in London that an army commanded by Leon Trotzky, former leader of the Red army, was awaiting the course of events on the Russo-Afghan frontier.

(Trotzky has been in exile at Alma Aata, Russian Turkestan, and has frequently been reported as seriously ill. There have been no advices from Russia that he had been allowed to leave his place of exile. On the contrary, recent dispatches have announced that the Communist party had declared relentless warfare on his followers.)

The Express also said that an official at the Afghan legation claimed the great Afghan provincial chiefs, each possessing an army, were waiting for the snow to melt so as to march on Kabul to restore Amanullah.

Paris dispatches yesterday said that Amanullah was believed to be marching toward the capital to deal with Habibullah Khan, who usurped the throne from Amanullah's brother, Inayatullah.

AGAINST KING

LONDON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Peshawar, India, today said that a widespread revulsion had occurred in Afghanistan against "Bachag Sakag," who is now occupying whatever throne still exists at Kabul. The fact that the northern chieftain is not a Pathan, but a Tajik, was given as the cause for the reaction.

SCIENCE TAKES AIR WAVE PHOTOS

From the pictures, taken at Bruceton, by chemists from the Pittsburgh station, U. S. Bureau of Mines, the safety factors of explosives in the coal mining industry are being determined.

The air wave pictures and the pictures of the flames, taken with an improvised motion picture machine, show that dangerous explosives send out a much greater flame than permissible ones—explosives which are considered best fitted to use in blasting coal. On the air waves surrounding the flame depend the pressure which the explosive exerts. These waves are the destroying factor.

The pictures were taken by chemists at the bureau under the direction of G. St. J. Perrott, superintendent of the Pittsburgh station. Using motion picture film, the chemists rigged up their own camera and by means of timing wheels exposed the film through a small slit in armor which protected the lens from the blast.

Investigations are now being conducted to measure the heat of the explosions.

King Now on Way To Full Recovery

LONDON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—King George's physicians announced in their medical bulletin today that the affected region in the King's chest has been completely cleared.

This assurance is interpreted to mean that his majesty is suffering only from weakness and that there is no longer any trouble from infection. With this infection removed, the hope was expressed that his progress would continue steadily.

Vice President Helps Rebuild Dawes House

LAWRENCEVILLE, N. J., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Vice President Charles G. Dawes has given $20,000 to the Lawrenceville School for the rebuilding of the Dawes house, recently destroyed by fire.

Dr. Mather A. Abbott, headmaster, in announcing the gift, said others from friends and alumni have put the total sum received at $80,000. The new building will cost $200,000.

The dormitory, a frame structure, had been donated by the United States government in memory of Rufus Dawes, the Vice President's son.

SHIP BILL HITS TIME ROCKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. — The "time clause" in the administration's big navy bill today became the chief bone of contention in the battle over its enactment in the Senate.

With the clause under attack from both Republicans and Democrats, Senator Hale (Rep.), of Maine, directing the naval fight, announced he would battle to the end to include the "time clause" in the bill. This provision would authorize work to start upon five new cruisers this year, on five more during the year 1930 and the final five during 1931.

Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, attacked the time clause yesterday, but offered to withdraw all opposition to the naval bill if it were eliminated. Hale rejected the offer.

Chairman Hale was so optimistic today as to believe that a final vote would be reached by Saturday night, but other Senate leaders felt that another week will be necessary to end the debate.

Teddy Joyce Pays $51 Fine on Borrowed Car

The city's coffers were enriched to the extent of $51 today by Teddy Joyce, master of ceremonies at the Penn Theater.

Joyce paid that sum to Magistrate John A. Staley, Jr., in Traffic Court in settling for 18 tags placed on a machine owned by A. Hamburger, 5839 Douglas avenue, for violations of the parking laws.

Joyce has been using the car, police said.

REED WINDS UP VARE PROBE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The inquiry into the primary campaign and election of Senator-elect Vare, extending over almost three years, has been concluded by the Senate's investigating committee. A decision on the seating of Vare will be sought at this session.

Mr. Vare, who now is in Florida, was unable to be present on account of illness, and counsel for him closed his case before the committee last night with a general denial of charges of irregularities and fraud in the 1926 election in Philadelphia, which had been cited by committee investigators.

Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, chairman of the committee, was the lone member present when he brought the investigation to a close. The Missourian retires from the Senate March 4 and he is hopeful of a final decision on the Vare case before that time.

Chairman Waterman, of the Senate elections sub-committee, said there was little prospect of concluding the inquiry on the election instituted by William B. Wilson, Vare's Democratic opponent, before the end of this session. Regardless of the outcome on the seating of Vare, it is likely no final disposition of his case can be completed until the election contest is concluded next session.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 25.—Lieuts. Archie Kennedy and Frank Kane, in charge of the Monongahela police department, are under suspension pending a hearing before council of that city Monday, at which the affairs of the police department will be fully aired.

The probe is the result of an audit of the accounts which showed only $30 turned in to the city from the fines collected, it is said.

PASTOR, EX-BOXER, QUITS CHURCH, WEDS DIVORCEE

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—After announcing that he had decided to leave his church to wed a divorcee, Dr. Frederick R. (Kid) Wedge, Presbyterian minister and former pugilist, today was on a honeymoon with Mrs. Jennie M. Holloway, of Oakland.

Dr. Wedge and Mrs. Holloway were married here last night a few hours after he had written Mrs. Holloway, telling her that the law of his church forbade the union as long as her former husband was living, and that Dr. Lapsey A. McFee, of the First Presbyterian Church of Berkeley, had refused to perform the ceremony.

Asked why he had changed his mind, he said:

"I rented a room in a San Francisco hotel and fought the problem out. And I decided to leave the church. I'm glad I decided as I did."

Dr. Wedge is a graduate of Harvard. He gained recognition as a boxer while working as a lumberjack in the Northwest, then abandoned the prize ring for the ministry.

NEW ALLEGHENY HIGH BUILDING NOT APPROVED

If the need for a new Allegheny High School building is found to be more urgent than other building projects recommended, the project undoubtedly will be advanced to its proper position on the building program, it was declared today by N. R. Criss, vice president of the Board of Education.

As yet, however, the board has not considered the proposal and the report of Supt. William M. Davidson recommending a new building has been returned for study and further consideration at the next board meeting.

In a statement issued today, Mr. Criss said:

"Our board has proceeded for 17 years upon the assumption that the Allegheny High School, while admittedly not a strictly modern school, was a very good example of the older type of building to be found throughout the city, and that that it was turning out graduates of a high order.

"It has no swimming pool and the gymnasium facilities are limited. As a fire risk it has never been claimed that it was worse than other non-fireproof buildings. It was quite a shock, therefore, to receive, at our last meeting, a recommendation that it be torn down and rebuilt.

BUILDING PROGRAM

"The board has just completed a survey of the entire city with a view to formulating a 10-year building program, and this survey was recently referred to the superintendent of schools for a report as to the projects which were most urgent and which should be taken up first. This report was submitted at the December meeting and recommends 13 building operations to be taken up during the years 1929 and 1930, estimated to cost $5,500,000. Some of these are under way, but the Allegheny High School is not in the list.

"Under these circumstances, the recommendation at our last meeting, to rebuild immediately the Allegheny High was doubly surprising, and both reports were naturally referred back in order that they might be reconsidered.

"The money available for new building operations is limited each year and will be applied to the most urgent needs. If it develops, after investigation, that the need at the Allegheny school is more urgent than in the case of these projects recommended in December for 1929 and 1930, it will undoubtedly be put on the list and advanced to its proper position on the building program.

RAPS PROPAGANDA

"As to the matter of permitting students to engage in propaganda work organized and supervised in the school, it is certainly a questionable practice and never does any good. Orderly methods of procedure are always more effective. Our board is always ready to be shown, but mere noise and blanket petitions are seldom convincing."

Fire drills are held regularly at the school when weather permits, according to Prof. William L. Smith, principal. Under the law, drills are compulsory once a month, but Prof. Smith said that in fair weather the students are obliged to drill much oftener than that.

Prohibition laws can be enforced provided reasonable support is given Federal enforcement authorities by local police, Mrs. John D. Pennington, wife of the local prohibition administrator assured members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union yesterday at the annual luncheon of the Dormont-Mt. Lebanon Union.

Mrs. Pennington cited figures to support her claim that the Federal authorities here are successfully coping with the wholesale liquor traffic. The luncheon was held in the Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian Church and was attended by many of the State W. C. T. U. leaders. In charge of arrangements were Mrs. R. H. Hood, president of the Dormont-Mt. Lebanon Union; Mrs. E. C. SPIRITS STALK IN OKLA. PROBE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The cold, searching eye of the State Legislature today rested on spiritualism and Hindu philosophy as alleged factors in influencing the regime of Gov. Henry S. Johnston, now under suspension and facing impeachment.

Out of the maze of testimony, charges, tales of strange Hindu chants and mystic oriental philosophy practiced by those behind the Governor's chair, one bit of practical action stood out, the addition of another charge of impeachment to the seven already voted against the chief executive by the House of Representatives.

Weird tales of an apartment, draped "in oriental splendor," where incense pots burned and James R. Armstrong hummed what "seemed to be a part of a ritual" were dragged from the reluctant lips of H. E. Sullivan, the Governor's secretary, by members of the House committee.

Armstrong is Gov. Johnston's political adviser, and an uncle of Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, confidential secretary of the chief executive, and often spoken of as the "Mrs. Colonel House" of the administration.

ALLEGHENY HIGH SCHOOL CORRIDOR

Proponents of the campaign for a new Allegheny High School building declare this corridor, into which open the only doors from the auditorium with a capacity of almost 1,000, the major fire hazard because it requires about seven minutes, according to Principal W. L. Smith, to empty the auditorium. But Fire Chief R. L. Smith says there is no serious hazard under normal conditions and that the auditorium could be emptied without endangering lives.

Papers in Pocket Save Man Shot In Mistake

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A thick bunch of papers in an inside coat pocket stopped a bullet and saved Sylvester Baronner, life insurance agent, from probable death when he was attacked by two unidentified men here last night in an insurance office.

Baronner told police that one of the men upon looking into his face following the shooting, exclaimed: "Why, this isn't Stephens," and that the two ran down the steps and disappeared.

Police expressed the belief that the men were looking for Bert Stephens, head of the insurance agency.

HUNTRESS HELD GUILTY

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Mrs. Esther Evans De Forest Wilson, 48, big game huntress, was in the Jefferson Market women's prison today awaiting sentence for shooting her husband, Dallett H. Wilson, lawyer.

Mrs. Wilson was found guilty yesterday of assault in the second degree and recommended mercy. She was remanded for sentence Tuesday.

Wilson, who was shot in his Fifth avenue office March 29, appeared as a reluctant witness against his wife. He testified the shooting was accidental and said he had threatened her with a paperweight.

Mrs. Wilson faces the alternative of two sentences. One calls for a maximum of five years in prison and a fine of $1,000 and an addition term under the Baumes law of five to 10 years for using a pistol. The other calls for penitentiary sentence of six months to three years in the discretion of the Municipal Parole Board.

FLETCHER HELD IDEAL HOOVER CABINET AID

International News Service.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 25.—The arrangements perfected here between President-elect Hoover and Dwight W. Morrow by which the banker-diplomat is to retain his ambassadorship to Mexico has served to open up a whole wide range of possibilities concerning the secretaryship of state in the cabinet.

Mr. Hoover may have his mind fixed upon the man he wants to be his foreign minister after March 4, but if he has, the fact is a very well-guarded secret. Concerning other cabinet positions, Mr. Hoover has talked with various persons, both in Washington and here at Miami Beach.

MAY KEEP MELLON

He has let it become known, in a rather unofficial way, that he plans to retain Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, and he has asked numerous questions about candidates for other berths. But with no one, so far as is known, has he discussed the state portfolio in a serious way.

FLETCHER HELD LOGICAL

Many of Mr. Hoover's friends have argued that he logically should be his own secretary of state.

Whether he agrees with this point of view remains to be seen. The speculation, however, continues to center about Henry P. Fletcher, now ambassador to Rome, and a career diplomat of long standing. Fletcher has served in many parts of the world, and under a good many secretaries of state, both Republican and Democrats, although he is a Pennsylvania Republican. The Fletcher boosters argue that his training and experience has been such as to make him an ideal "collaborator" of Mr. Hoover's in foreign affairs.

The President-elect went fishing today, but he took his work with him. He had two stenographers and a great pile of correspondence to occupy his attention.

Bridge Over 14 R. R. Tracks to Be Built

DOVER, O., Jan. 25.—Construction of the $264,000 viaduct a half mile long, from West Fifth street to the bank of Sugar Creek, eliminating crossing over 14 tracks, was assured yesterday when the State Utilities Commission sustained an order of the State Highway Department that the Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania railroads eliminate their crossing at this point.

The viaduct will be named after George E. Fertig, Dover, a director of the Ohio Good Roads Federation, who died last December 3.

Voyage of Grounded Vessel Is Resumed

NASSAU, Bahamas, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Passengers who left the Dollar liner President Garfield last Sunday when it grounded on Matanilla Reef at the north end of the Bahamas archipelago, went aboard her again yestrday to continue their voyage to Havana, Panama, and around the world.

Nineteen of those brought here by the Munson liner Pan-American, disbanded in the course of the week aboard other ships, but those left accepted the cabled assurances of the Dollar Line officials that divers had found there was no damage to the bottom of the boat.

She makes her husband and children take ACIDINE, too, because she knows this wonderful new discovery relieves indigestion and its results, gas, sourness, head colds, acid stomach, sick headaches, rheumatism, and other dangerous disturbances interfering with work and school and happiness.

You, too, can free your household from indigestion. ACIDINE, an almost priceless boon to sick and tired stomachs, tones up the entire system and puts it in shape to withstand the attacks of colds, indigestion, acidosis, and the resulting sick headaches, tired days and wakeful nights that almost put the fear of living into our hearts.

You owe it to yourself to try ACIDINE. It is so much better, so much pleasanter, so much more efficient than the hundreds of old-fashioned remedies it has displaced in thousands of homes. No yeast, no laxatives, no anything, can compare with ACIDINE for relieving 90% of the small sicknesses in any home.

Your druggist knows. Ask him about its tremendous sale, and the legion of satisfied users that have brought it to first place among household remedies.

GAS TAX BOOST NOT NEEDED, LEWIS SAYS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Opposition to any proposed increase in either the present 3-cent gasoline tax or motor license fees has been expressed by State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis.

Mr. Lewis, speaking before the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Threshermen and Farmers' Protective Association here last night, said he was "unable to understand" why any additional revenue should be necessary for extension as well as continuation of the highway construction program in Pennsylvania. He quoted figures of the State Highway Department included in Gov. Fisher's budget to show that the department will have approximately $23,000,000 more available for all purposes during the next biennium than in the present fiscal period, which ends May 31.

Members of the Legislature were informed by the budget on Monday night that the Governor felt the 3-cent tax on gasoline was sufficient for a highway program equal to the present two years. Any enlargement of that program which the Governor said would include taking over county bridges and city streets carrying state highways, would necessitate raising the levy by 1 cent per gallon, the budget said.

"Highway Department figures in the budget show a total estimate of funds available for all highway purposes from June 1, 1929, to May 31, 1931, of $147,974,780, as against the actual and estimated expenditures from June 1, 1927, to May 31, 1929, 'as estimated by the Department of Highways' of $125,028,932, or a difference of $22,946,848—approximately $23,000,000," Mr. Lewis declared.

METRO HEALTH DEPARTMENT PROPOSED

The establishment of a health department with a director to control the health activities of the entire county, is proposed by the Allegheny County Medical Association for operation under the Metropolitan Plan. The proposition was placed before the Metropolitan Plan Commission yesterday by a committee of physicians who represented the association.

The physicians suggest setting up a full department, divided into five divisions for the county. Each division, of which the City of Pittsburgh would be a unit, would come under the control of a sub-director, who would have supervising powers over any local boards of the many communities.

Garbage removal would come under the direction of the health department, according to the plan of the doctors. It is suggested that the director and the chief commissioner or mayor of Metropolitan Pittsburgh be authorized to let contracts for the removal and stipulate inspection by the health department.

At the close of the hearing, Dr. C. B. Maits and Dr. S. D. Haythorn were named a sub-committee to meet with Dr. John Conover, state health director, and Thomas H. Reed, of the Metropolitan Commission, to draft health provisions of the charter, subject to the approval of the commission.

Foes of Metro Plan In McKeesport Rally

Opponents of the Metropolitan Plan for Allegheny County will hold a parade and mass meeting tonight in McKeesport. The meeting is to be in the Masonic Building, Sixth street. Mayor George H. Lysle, of McKeesport, will be chairman. The speakers will be E. Lowry Humes, Carl C. Baldridge, of Wilkinsburg; Alex Andres, councilman of Etna, and E. C. Muir, of Duquesne.

'Autoist in Distress' Robs Cabman of $96

Trying to be a good fellow cost Earl Chambers, 32, cab driver, of 4628 Henry street, $96 last night.

Chambers stopped his cab at Murtland avenue and Bennett street to aid a motorist apparently in distress. The motorist stepped from behind the automobile, pointed a gun at Chambers and robbed him of $96, police say. The robber then jumped into his automobile and sped away.

Accused as Leader Of Freight Robbers

Alleged to be the leader of a gang of freight car robbers who have stolen articles from the Sharpsburg yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Louis Kucera, 23, of Harmar Township, was committed to jail without bail by Justice of the Peace James A. Hernon, of Sharpsburg, last night. He was arrested early yesterday when state police and railroad detectives went to his home. Kucera and two companions tried to elude police. Kucera was overpowered, but his friends escaped. Police say the prisoner confessed the robberies and also the looting of a country home near Sharpsburg. Part of the freight loot was recovered.

Exposition Planned In New Kensington

Plans are being completed for the exposition to be held in New Kensington February 23 to March 2 by the firemen and merchants of the town. Burgess Daniel Burns has been named head of the executive committee. The firemen will have charge of the affair and the merchants will display their wares at booths. Many prizes are to be offered.

SOLUTION SUGGESTIONS OFFERED BY ALL CLASSES

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—A focussing of the attention of the entire nation upon the evils attendant on prohibition and futile enforcement attempts, after its ten years' trial, was further demonstrated yesterday in an outpouring of letters with plans entered in the $25,000 temperance prize offer of William Randolph Hearst.

Clergymen, doctors, lawyers, economists, educators, scientists and business men have attacked the problem as they see it, offering solutions which they believe may alleviate the intolerable conditions which are causing criminality, insanity and disrespect for law.

The Hearst newspapers, through which the offer of the $25,000 prize was made, are also receiving expressions of opinion daily from community leaders in every part of the country on the awakening of the people through interest stirred by the contest.

These views, from men and women in all walks of life, are indicative in almost every instance of a deep conviction that legal prohibition has lamentably failed to bring about either personal prohibition or temperance, and that something must be done about it. They praise the idea behind the motive of the donor of the $25,000 prize and express the belief that a solution may be found by the temperance contest committee when it concludes its study in the spring of the plans submitted.

Subjoined are some of these expressions concerning the contest:

The Rev. T. S. Whelpley

The Rev. Thomas S. Whelpley, pastor of Chelsea Presbyterian Church, West Twenty-third street, New York City:

"I have lately come back from Canada, where I saw modified prohibition. I have never been in favor of the present American system of prohibition. The measure is entirely too drastic. It seems to me that prohibition on the surface has caused a most terrific reaction—such a reaction that one hardly would recognize it as being a part of a civilized government.

"I don't see why beers and light wines cannot be sold. They are now sold, but of the poorest grade and in the filthiest resorts. Any man who wants a drink can get one by going to the nearest place.

"Canada, to me, doesn't seem to be less godly than the United States. In fact, since the atavistic removing of prohibition there, it seems to be a much better country emotionally. At first, of course, there was a bit of revelry, but now the people take it as a matter of course and are surprisingly orderly.

"I think the Hearst contest to bring about modification will be a strong weapon—and the situation shows we need a strong one—for the stirring of interest in this country. If the public can be shown a wrong graphically enough, that wrong may be righted."

John F. Daly

John F. Daly, Boston attorney:

I agree wholeheartedly with Mr. Hearst. The idea of obtaining a substitute for prohibition is very practical. It can be accomplished to the satisfaction of all sections of the country by a little campaign of education and by letting the South and West learn of the conditions as they exist in the North and Northeast. Knowing the true picture of conditions provocated by the prohibition laws, the South and West will come to the rescue without any harm to themselves. This must come about in the interest of respect for law and order.

"The timely $25,000 offer of Mr. Hearst will stimulate thought and action in the solution of the most dangerous problem the country has ever had to face.

"When one realizes the evils which have resulted from prohibition, he must respond to this question and give a hand in solving it."

Austin G. Fox

Austin G. Fox, attorney, New York City:

"Enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment or of the Volstead act is hopeless, for any law that is not accepted by so large a proportion of the population is unenforceable.

"History is full of such cases. In England a few years ago a royal commission was appointed to go through the statute books of the realm and designate such statutes as had ceased to be accepted through the running of time.

"The result was that Parliament repealed some hundreds of statutes valid as law, but unenforceable as a matter of fact because they were contrary to the present standards of the people.

"President Coolidge, in August, 1922, in an address on 'Limitation of Law,' before the American Bar Association, stated the whole case well when he said that 'law reflects rather than creates the standard of conduct. To dragoon the body, when the need is to convince the soul, will only end in revolt.'

"Mr. Hearst's prize offer is excellent because it will sift the whole situation."

The Rev. J. H. De Vries

The Rev. John H. De Vries, Church of Epiphany, Walpole, Mass.:

"No one rejoices more honestly than I in any good that prohibition may have done, as rehearsed by the advocates of prohibition. The vast problem, however, is not solved. No one is whipped into sobriety, however strongly the measure of force may be backed up by law, or legislative enactment.

"Modification of present day drink acts or laws is, as I understand it, in the minds of some of our finest Americans and is to be condemned. Only when men seek to be wiser than God is is that civilization totters and falls. I believe the Volstead act needs modification in the interest of temperance and of restoration of wholesome trembling at the majesty of law."

M. Louise Gross

M. Louise Gross, New York:

"Intelligent women are delighted with the Hearst prize contest for the best plan to restore true temperance to the United States. That public sentiment is not in favor of present national prohibition as proven by results in recent referendums held in Massachusetts and Montana and in all states where voters have had an opportunity to vote on the question of repeal or modification. Congratulations on the contest, for the great middle class is looking for a leadership out of the prohibition chaos and feels sure Mr. Hearst will accomplish the desired result."

Dr. T. C. Chalmers

Dr. Thomas C. Chalmers, president of the Society of Medical Jurisprudence of the New York Academy of Medicine:

"My own interest in the outcome of the temperance contest is solely concerned with medical alcohol. Ever since the passing of the prohibition laws the medical profession has been stripped of its integrity.

"It is absolutely essential, for instance, during times such as the present one of influenza epidemic, to prescribe alcohol beyond the amount allotted to us. If Congress is to dictate what the medical profession is to do, then the medical profession is not the high body of men we believe it to be.

"Those doctors who prescribe alcohol in cases where the medicine is not needed, of course, are criminals in the eyes of the law, and should be punished. They are unfit to be called physicians. But there is no way for a doctor to regulate his prescriptions.

"We believe it extremely necessary to repeal Article 7, which says that physicians may prescribe only one pint of liquor to a person in 10 days."

7 Rules of $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close on April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

Mercer Roads Icy, Many Cars Ditched

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 25.—Automobiles skidded over embankments, into ditches and were strewn, disabled, along the roadside today, because of ice-covered highways, following yesterday's sleet and rain. Conditions for motor travel were pronounced the worst in many years.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—President and Mrs. Coolidge were hosts last night at the last official social function of their stay in the White House, the annual Army and Navy reception. Five receptions are held in the course of each social season, the Army and Navy affair customarily bringing them to a close.

Every one in this group, except the beautiful little flower girl, is a member of the happy Richman Family employed in the Richman Cleveland factory—East 55th Street from Harlem Avenue to Luther.

Many weddings follow the pleasant daily association of members of the Richman "family"—many lifelong friendships are developed — fathers and sons, mothers and daughters too, find happiness together in making Richman's Clothes. And because this is an unusual organization, Richman's Clothes are unusually fine in quality—unusually great in value.

Our Daily Short Story

MR. MOFFITT

By LOUISE ARMSTRONG.

GLADYS MOFFITT had come to the town of Camden five years ago and secured a stenographic position with the new firm of Winston and Nettleton, attorneys-at-law. Tom Winston had just married the most popular girl of the place, but stout, bashful Sam Nettleton seemed a confirmed bachelor. Sam was afraid of girls, and had never had a sweetheart in his life. When he and Gladys announced their engagement three years later, Tom Winston teased Gladys, saying he knew she had been the one to pop the question.

Nobody ever wondered at the fact that Gladys had invited none of her own people to her marriage. Sam's mother had come from her home in a distant farming district of the state, and later had returned to pay the young couple a prolonged visit and get acquainted with her daughter-in-law. Gladys and she had become fast friends. But of her own kin Gladys had said no word. It was, therefore, a great surprise to Sam Nettleton when Gladys told him she expected her father to come and visit them for a week or so in early February.

In a matter of fact she went about preparing for her father's visit.

"People will know he's visiting me," she explained to her puzzled young husband, "and they'll think it strange if I don't ask them to come and see him."

Sam made no comment, but looked his disapproval. His wife showed absolutely no enthusiasm, seemed not at all disposed to welcome her father.

The Nettletons had a dinner the night of Mr. Moffitt's arrival. Tom and Dolly Winston arrived 10 minutes before the guest of honor. They stood at the window with the Nettletons and watched Gladys' father drive up in a taxi. Sam was astonished beyond words. A tall, distinguished old gentleman got out, paid the driver with a flourish, and mounted the steps of the apartment house. A moment later Sam was extending his warmest welcome, introducing his partner and his partner's wife, telling Mr. Moffitt how delighted they were to have him, how they hoped it would be for a good, long visit. Sam rather overdid himself, for Gladys, as he had feared, welcomed her father stiffly, almost coldly.

The face of old Mr. Moffitt softened as he turned to his daughter and smiled. "My little girl!" he exclaimed. "All these years I've wanted to do something to add to her happiness. Well—" his voice trailed off significantly and he smiled again.

During the passing week Mr. Moffitt entered thoroughly into the life of the little southern town, met all the neighbors, charmed them all. "He's a brick, a perfect old peach," Sam Nettleton declared heartily. "I'm absolutely sold on him, Gladys. And he has such wonderful ideas!"

Gladys looked uneasily at her husband. "What's he been advising you, Sam?"

"About some investments," Sam replied blandly. "You'll be interested, dear. He advised me not to say anything to you until the deal has gone through, but that's nonsense. We've always discussed our affairs together. He—well, he tipped me off to quite a good thing. He deals in big figures, and I was almost ashamed to tell him the modest amount we'd put by. But he's been awfully kind about —about letting me in on something really worth while. He's confident this Class B Western Railway stock will go sky high."

"Sam," Gladys said hoarsely, "I've been a sentimental coward. I couldn't bring myself to say anything to you about him. Now we've got to put everyone of our friends here on guard . . . before they're completely swindled—by my father."

"Why, what on earth do you mean?" her husband demanded.

"I mean my charming father's a fraud, Sam," replied Gladys in a low tone. "I ought never to have permitted him to come here—and yet it seemed heartless to forbid my father to come to my home. He ran through my mother's modest fortune, ruined his best friend in a crooked partnership affair. He's terribly clever and terribly tricky! He'd sell you a gold brick before you could bat an eye, Sam!"

"Oh, Gladys," Sam exclaimed contritely. "And I've been thinking you—"

"Oh, I know, Sam!" his wife exclaimed. "I'm so glad now you understand. And you won't be too hard on him, Sam? In everything but business he's—magnificent!"

"Of course, I won't," said Sam loyally. "He's your father, isn't he?"

And so through the zealous efforts of the Nettletons, the magnificent Mr. Moffitt's visit to Camden came to an unprofitable end. After a short week he boarded the train for the metropolis, where in spite of boasted sophistication suckers were easier to land.

GLOWING HEALTH BROUGHT QUICKLY BY NEW KONJOLA

This Master Medicine Triumphs Where Other Remedies and Treatments Failed.

Quickly has the good news of the triumphs of Konjola, the new and different medicine, spread through Pittsburgh and vicinity, just as it has everywhere it has been introduced, and no wonder, for this scientifically blended compound is doing here as elsewhere the wonders that have made Konjola the most talked of medicine in America. There is no mystery about this remedy for the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Its amazing success is founded on just one outstanding quality—merit. Konjola is made to make good, and does it. How this super-remedy triumphs when all else tried has failed; how it brings new and abundant health in place of sickness and suffering, as being explained by the Konjola Man, who may be seen at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn ave. and Sixth street, this city. Those who suffer and who would be well again; those who are weary of a futile search for health are urged to meet the Konjola Man. But do not expect promises nor claims, rather expect to learn what this remarkable medicine is doing. After all, deeds, results are what count. Konjola is a medicine of deeds, not words. As an illustration, take the interesting experience of Miss Alice Coon, Reno, Pa.

MISS ALICE COON.

"How happy I am that I listened to the advice of friends who insisted that I try Konjola for the stomach trouble and run down condition from which I suffered for a year and a half. As I had sought relief in many medicines, treatments and tonics, all without the slightest results, I had little or no faith left in any remedy. I thought my case was beyond help. I was prevailed upon, however, to take Konjola, and I am here today to let you see how well I am again. The first bottle did not help me, but I kept on with the treatment, though I had hoped to find relief instantly. Then to my surprise and happiness, I began to feel better. By the time I had taken the fourth bottle I had a fine appetite, and to my delight and astonishment, found I could eat anything without the painful after effects I used to have. My strength is coming back rapidly, and I am gaining in weight, thanks to hearty meals thoroughly digested and to nights of uninterrupted sleep. I feel like a different person without the stomach trouble and the headaches that were so intense I feared that I would go blind. I regard it a privilege to tell of Konjola's wonderful work, and strongly recommend it to all who are going through what I suffered."

By thousands who have been released from the thralldom of pain to a new and glorious health by Konjola, this super-medicine is called a blessing, a boon, a godsend. Konjola is ready to help you as it has the happy army of men and women, young and old, who owe their new happiness in life to Konjola's powers.

Konjola is not a chemical, pill or capsule, but a remarkable liquid compound which contains juices extracted from twenty-two of Nature's finest medicinal roots and herbs. These cleanse and invigorate the inner organs, bring new feeling of health over the system in general in a natural and safe way.

The Konjola Man is at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this remarkable remedy. Free samples given.

Taught Elsie Mackay
Friend of Chrysler
Flew Inverted Loop
Setting Road Records
Real Riot of Color
Luxurious Motor Cars

By H. W. DIETRICH
Automobile Editor.

"WAIT, don't crash until we tell you to. Circle around up there until we can summon fire apparatus, ambulances, doctors and nurses, and prepare an emergency hospital——All right, come on down, we're ready."

And down came Capt. E. B. C. Herne, the man who taught Elsie Mackay how to fly, a man who has 17 German planes to his credit, one of three now living who has done the inverted loop and who has flown 9,000 hours. Neither Capt. Herne nor any of his 12 passengers were hurt, despite the fact that the undercarriage had buckled in the take-off and was hanging from a lone coupling. The landing was so perfect that the only additional damage was the breaking of a wheel through a wing.

GREATEST THRILL FROM AUTOMOBILES

"A THRILL? Yes, it was quite a thrill as I look back upon it," Capt. Herne told me yesterday, "but my greatest thrill is from automobiles." Capt. Herne is in Pittsburgh at the Auto Show in Motor Square Garden to introduce the Dodge Brothers Six, the newest product of Walter P. Chrysler, an intimate friend, to the motorists of this district.

"I am getting quite a 'kick' in describing this new car to your Pittsburghers, a most motor-wise group," Capt. Herne said. "In fact, I am getting just about as big a kick from this experience as I did at Itford, England, where I took off from a cliff 2,000 feet above the sea for a glider flight. Four hundred feet from the cliff the wings fell off my glider. A good ducking in the sea, but not a scratch, was my reward."

ELSIE MACKAY THROWN FROM PLANE IN LOOP

CAPT. HERNE, who at one time was an automobile race driver, is reluctant to speak about Elsie Mackay, who, with Capt. Walter Hinchliffe, was lost in a trans-Atlantic flight. It was during one of their flights together that he made the rarely attempted dangerous inverted loop. In performing this loop the occupants are thrown outward from the plane, and while Capt. Herne was going through the loop Elsie Mackay was thrown from the plane. Her wrist, catching in a guy wire, saved her life.

Capt. Herne was one of the British squadron of Bristol Fighters during the World War, and for three years was chief pilot of the British Imperial Airways, Limited, flying between London, Paris.

Among his other experiences has been sky writing in various parts of the globe and a trip about the world repairing automobiles. For repairing one car he and a comrade were paid $3,000. He bought the first Chrysler car ever built and is now an aide to W. T. Keller, the man who built the newest Dodge car.

AIR-COOLED GROUP OF SEDANS

NOW to get back to our motor cars. One of the most popular cars at the show is the Franklin, an air-cooled car and a favorite with aviators. The Franklin, at the present time, is gaining much renown as the car with which "Cannon Ball" Baker is breaking many road records. In this group are four sedans, a Model 130 in green, two Model 135's, one in black and a sport type in gray, and a Model 137 sport type in blue. "I can't sell you the blue one," said Bert Mustin, "because the boss sold it." C. G. McKinley and Frank Gregg are the big Franklin boys in Pittsburgh.

If you count back a few hundred words in this yarn, you will find the name of Walter Chrysler. If this fellow Chrysler and the General Motors group were to withdraw their cars from the exhibit they would leave quite a few empty booths. But this one particular Chrysler product that I want to talk about is the DeSoto. One of the best things about this car is that it is handled in Pittsburgh by J. J. Kilroy, Jr., one of the youngest of all motor car distributors. He is showing a group of special models, which, he says, will never be reproduced in design. In this group is a coupe de lujo in Don Alverdo blue, a special chromium-plated roadster in Barcelona white and Madrid cerise, a sedan de lujo in Pyrenees mist and virgin blue, and a cutaway chassis. In addition to this display which he brought here from New York, he is showing a standard sedan and a coupe, both in marine blue.

FASHION AND COLOR IN TWO DISPLAYS

ANOTHER group that is attracting unusual attention is the Marmon display. Here are five cars arranged by H. H. Blumenthal, one of the younger veterans of Automobile Row. He is showing a "78" Sport Sedan in a blue-gray, a coupe in black and chromium, a sport touring in two-tone brown, a sport sedan in gray and a sport coupe in two-tone brown.

Six cars at the show that are noted for their style are to be found at the Hupmobile exhibit of H. F. Gleason. In addition to a show chassis, Gleason nas a dark red cabriolet that is attracting more than passing attention, because of its appealing design. He has another cabriolet in black and green, a de luxe sedan in maroon, a de luxe roadster in black and green and sedans in black and gray. The roadster has the new metal tire cover.

PLANNING HOW TO USE PRIZES

IN THE Packard display are some of the most luxurious cars at the burghers are planning how they are going to spend the more than $300 that will be awarded as prizes. Why not get in the game? And I might show. If I were to attempt to describe these cars in detail I would spoil the picture for many. But in brief, here is what you will find: A sport sedan in gray-green, a phaeton in tan, a limousine in dark gray, a green sedan and a green roadster. Packard recently concentrated on the production of straight-eights.

The boss refuses to blow the quitting whistle until I once again say a piece about that question and answer contest that is being conducted by the accessory and parts exhibitors on the sub-floor. And here is my piece: More and more Pitts-add: Bill Owings thinks the suggestion of putting in cash registers to keep tract of the record sales is a good one, and is trying to find a way to get those cash registers.

P. S.—They are packing them in Motor Square Garden so tight at night that it really is uncomfortable. Visit the show in the afternoon and also save a quarter in the admission price. The show will reopen at 1 o'clock tomorrow, that is after it closes at 11 o'clock tonight. It will close for another 51 weeks at 11 o'clock tomorrow night.

THREE YOUTHS END LIVES

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 25.—"Good-by all; this was a great life while it lasted. Love to Grace and Betty."

Leaving this final note, and a bit of hastily scribbled verse, despondent 18-year-old Kenneth Marx, former high school student, ended his life with an automatic gun yesterday. The youth had been out of employment and regretted that he did not have funds to entertain his "girl."

HARRISBURG, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Brooding over a scolding for spending money he had earned for a fishing license, Richard Oliver Lockard, 17, committed suicide by hanging himself in the attic of his home yesterday.

IRONTON, O., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The body of William F. Arthurs, 21, a student at a Huntington, W. Va., business college, was found hanging by a belt from a rafter of a small building near the home of the youth's grandmother, Mrs. Esther Spurlock, at South Point, yesterday.

Girl's Letter Hints Missing Boy Married

Further support for the story that William Thomas, Jr., 18, of 314 Cherry way, West Homestead, missing, had married instead of taking his life, was announced last night by borough police. The boy's father is said to have told police that a girl, with whom his son was acquainted, had written to her parents and announced her marriage. The message, sent from Pittsburgh, was on the same stationary as that of the suicide note left by the youth. This note was found on Browns Bridge and hinted that the writer had jumped into the river.

FISHER SUPPORT HINTED FOR CITY AUTO TAG PLEA

Gov. John S. Fisher today is studying a bill submitted by Pittsburgh officials authorizing the state to return 50 per cent of the automobile license fees to municipalities from which they originate. The measure, which will be presented to the present General Assembly, is indorsed by many other cities, boroughs and townships in the state.

Members of the Pittsburgh delegation, returning from a four-hour conference with the Governor in Harrisburg yesterday, said he indicated an attitude favoring the proposal with certain reservations. The party included James F. Malone, president of Council, Councilmen R. J. Alderdice and P. J. McArdle and City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

Malone was emphatic in declaring that while the Governor's support was desired, the bill would be presented and its passage vigorously urged even though he did not openly recommend it to the Legislature.

GAS TAX NOT WANTED

The Pittsburgh officials made it clear they were not interested in any plan to refund part of the state gasoline tax. They only pressed for an equal share of the license fees and wanted them in perpetuity, the speakers declared.

Malone hinted an increase in the license fees was receiving consideration at Harrisburg and sounded a warning that the proposal would be vigorously opposed unless municipalities were assured an equal share of whatever fees are agreed upon.

Gov. Fisher said he realized the proposal would raise protests from automobile clubs and he advised members of the delegation, including representatives of Erie, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Reading to inaugurate a campaign to overcome such objections.

STREET COSTS TOLD

Malone and McArdle, as principal speakers for the delegation, pointed to the imperative need of obtaining the refund to relieve the constantly increasing tax burden on the home owner.

They said the principal problem of property taxation was brought about by the automobile through the necessity of large expenditures for streets and bridges.

During the last nine years, Pittsburgh property owners have paid $1,000,000 annually in taxes for the upkeep of streets. In addition, the voters authorized, in the same period, bond issues of $27,000,000 to meet the rapid growth of motor traffic by widening and repaving streets, building major thoroughfares and replacing obsolete bridges, the speakers said.

In addition to the cost of physical work, the city has been forced to spend more than $1,000,000 a year in wages of policemen assigned to regulate the large volume of traffic, besides a substantial amount for installing electric control signal systems.

At the conclusion of the conference, the Governor agreed the cities had not been treated fairly in the distribution of state funds and declared if a way to remedy the situation were offered he would lend his support, provided the plan did not wreck the state highway program.

COUNTY REFUND CITED

The Governor called attention to the refund to counties of part of the state gasoline tax. Allegheny County got $700,000 last year from that source to aid county roads, he said.

McArdle explained that not a penny of that amount was given to Pittsburgh and questioned the wisdom of overlooking the city which is as much a part of the state as is the county.

Malone submitted to the Governor a draft of the bill, prepared by Waldschmidt, which the city intends to present to the Legislature.

McCrory Widow Gets "Substantial" Estate

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—The will of Van Clair McCrory, son of the five and ten-cent store magnate, who was accidentally killed at Orlando, Fla., was filed yesterday in connection with an application to examine the contents of a safe deposit box.

His entire estate, characterized as "substantial" by McCrory's attorney, was left to his widow, Mrs. Helen McCrory, who with three small children, now in Florida, survive him.

"Honest Crook" Apologizes For Theft

Leaving an apologetc note, signed "an Honest Crook," a thief robbed the home of P. M. Rudd, at 2507 Wedgemere street, of a diamond ring valued at $250 and $2 in cash.

The note read, "I needed it more than you. Am very sorry."

It was found by members of the Rudd family when they opened a dresser drawer from which the money and ring had been stolen.

Museum Dedication Marked by Rioting

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—While Prime Minister Bethlen and high dignitaries of the church and state were participating in the dedication of the new parliamentary museum, 250 unemployed men gathered in front of the House of Lords and shouted, "to hell with your museum; we want work and bread; we are starving."

Police orders to retire were disregarded and 12 of the demonstrators were arrested. Later 25 in another group were arrested.

Truly outstanding performance—unparalleled long life—depths of dependability unequaled by any other car—these are only a few of the vital superiorities resulting from three great Buick features not combined in any other automobile.

The famous Buick engine is triple-sealed by gasoline strainer, oil filter and air cleaner, to exclude dust, grit and moisture, thus minimizing wear.

Buick's celebrated torque tube drive transmits the driving thrust from the rear axle to the chassis, leaving Buick's cantilever springs perfectly free to cushion the car and provide unequaled riding comfort.

EXPRESS PLANS OF RAILROADS UP TO I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Plans under which railroads of the country expect to take over and operate after March 1 all express business were outlined yesterday at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing by W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, and chairman of a committee of railroad executives which has negotiated the proposals.

The project involved the purchase of all the property of the American Railway Express Company by a new enterprise, Mr. Storey said, the Railway Express Agency, Inc. The cost will be approximately $30,000,000.

Under the arrangement projected, the express agency will distribute its nominal amount of stock among railroads and will raise all of the funds for acquiring the express property by an issue of bonds. Earnings from the express business will be distributed among railroads in proportion to their contributions of express traffic, and not on the basis of their stock holdings in the enterprise.

No opposition to the plan appeared, but Mr. Storey was questioned at some length by representatives of short line railroads and others. He agreed that, if the commission desired to do so, it could attach a condition to its approval of the new express agency which would require that organization to confine its functions strictly to the handling of express and express money orders. He also said no objection would be made to conditions which would make certain that railroads participated uniformly in joint express traffic.

The commission's decision on the proposal will be announced later.

20 AIRPORTS NEEDED HERE, SAYS FORD CHIEF

Pittsburgh doesn't need one airport. It needs 20, and will have to have that many within the next five years.

William B. Stout proclaimed that, and in the next breath promised "airplanes for the people that will cost them less than automobiles of the same capacity."

And Stout, being the head of the airplane division of the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, merely touched on these points last night in the William Penn Hotel where he envisioned for 600 members of the Traffic and Transportation Association, the future of the airplane and its companionate phenomenon, the radio.

GREAT DEVELOPMENT TOLD

"We are on the edge of the greatest development of civilization," he said, "with communication and transportation as usual going hand in hand.

"Just as the peoples of the world within three generations will have one language—and that the language of the country that presents the best radio programs, so will industry, instead of preaching the more lowly people out of the gutter, will remove the gutter.

"Last year there were 10,000 privately-owned planes in the United States. This year, that many more will be sold. Where in Pittsburgh one airport is being discussed, 20 will be needed within five years. That was so in Detroit."

Mr. Stout spoke of the Ford lines, on which 65,000 persons were carried last year without a fatality.

3 Put to Death in N. Y.

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 25.—(AP.) —Three men convicted of the murder of a Brooklyn policeman were put to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison last night. They were Harry Dreitzer, Isadore Helfant and Israel Fischer, all of New York city.

3 DIE IN TEXAS PLANE CRASH

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Municipal landing field here, which Al Henley, entrant in the Dole air race to Hawaii in 1927, selected and fostered, was the scene of his death yesterday when a plane he piloted crashed and claimed the lives of his two passengers.

The other victims, who had come from Ft. Worth with Henley to participate in a celebration formally opening the field today, were Donald Frazee, 24, former Texas Christian University star athlete, and W. E. Shytles, theater manager.

Frazee had been signed this season as an outfielder for the Shreveport baseball club of the Texas League.

ATHLETE'S HEAD IS FRACTURED

COLLEGEVILLE, Pa., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Richard Newcomber, 22, of Schwenksville, Pa., a star athlete of Ursinus College, was found last night on Ridge Pike, near the entrance to the college grounds, with his skull fractured. Police expressed the belief that he was the victim of a hit and run motorist. Newcomber, a senior, is captain of the 1929 basketball and track teams. He played halfback on the football eleven last season.

Lost Door Handle Traps "Hit-Run" Death Suspect

Searching private garages in Bruceton for an automobile from which a door handle had been broken off, County Detective Michael Stabile arrested Martin Venorveski, 32, Bruceton, as the driver of the car which Wednesday night struck and killed George Miller, 17, Bruceton, and injured C. Chepick, 18, Snowden Township, while they were walking in Cochran Mills road.

Boys who witnessed the accident told Detective Stabile that the door handle broke off when the youths were struck. A check on garages in the vicinity revealed Venorveski's automobile damaged in that manner.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Debs, Their Short Hour Over, Discuss Next Year's Bud Crop

AFTER weeks and weeks and weeks of rushing feverishly from one event to another, older folks might think the debutantes of the season might sigh with relief and pleasure at the prospect of calm, eventless days. But when one is young excitement, not calm, is sought for, as any bud will assure you. Perhaps near the end of the season some of the debs yearned for weeks of sleep, but they found they had exaggerated even to themselves, and after a day or so felt very "let down." And this "let down" feeling is the thing above all others that the younger generation with their energy and freshness and light hearts, and light toes, too, just can't endure.

Those who are still in town are seeking refuge in bridge, that life-saver socially speaking, and even in the movies. Of course, the legitimate stage always has ardent followers among the younger set.

And now that their first season is over, the buds are discovering for the first time that they're indulging in a type of conversation they had always associated with their elders—reminiscing. Of course during a hand of bridge they talk about other things too. And next season's plans are, as one might expect, the most interesting. For one's second season for all that the novelty of being "out" is over, has its own particular attractions.

Many of the buds next year will be entertained, I'm sure, by this year's debutantes, for many are old school friends very nearly of the same age. And this season's girls are keenly interested in hearing about each addition to the debutante list of 1929.

Virginia Drake, daughter of the J. Frank Drakes, of Pembroke place, will make her bow next year, I've heard.

And another addition to the list probably will be Martha Edmondson, daughter of the F. W. Edmondsons, of South Negley avenue. Martha is at the Spence School this year.

* * *

THOSE girls who'll be here until mid-February have at least one important event to look forward to—the Yale junior prom, an invitation to which is coveted by many a member of young society.

Two of this season's debutantes will be there, I know. Jane Allderdice, daughter of the Taylor Allderdices, and Louise Latimer Reed, daughter of the W. Edgar Reeds, will be seen at this important social function for the young folks.

* * *

VIRGINIA WILLOCK, debutante daughter of the Frank Scott Willocks, will go to Ormond Beach for the remainder of the winter, I've learned. And Jane Edson, another debutante, and her mother, Mrs. John Joy Edson, Jr., are thinking of a West Indies cruise.

* * *

DEBUTANTES still in the city will be among the 85 guests who'll attend what probably will be the last event of this season honoring a bud—the dinner dance Mrs. Ruth Denny, of Howe street, will give this evening at the Longue Vue Club for Rhoda Gamble, daughter of the William K. Gambles, of Oakmont.

* * *

DR. AND MRS. EDWARD A. PITCAIRN, of Woodland road, are now in New York, did you know? They are stopping at the Barclay.

* * *

THE George Schroeders, of "Oak Hill Manor," Wildwood, and their son, William M. Schroeder, are spending the winter at Miami, and I understand that Mrs. John Richey, of Northumberland avenue, has joined them there. * * *

MR. AND MRS. J. S. HALLER, of Mt. Lebanon, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Gertrude Ann Haller, and Charles S. Richardson, of West Park, which was solemnized yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson will be at home in Midway road, Mt. Lebanon, after February 1.

* * *

THE University of Pittsburgh Engineering Association will hold an informal dance tonight in the University Club. Frank Sprague is chairman, assisted by Norman Bowers, Thomas Williams and George Sauter. The special guests will include Dean and Mrs. Elmer Allen Holbrook, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bashioum, John Dent, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hallock, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hammond Smith and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Dyche.

* * *

AMONG the residents of the Schenley Apartments who are spending some time in Florida are Mr. and Mrs. Newton Chapin, Mrs. Lane Etheredge and her son, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Hartman, and Mrs. M. J. Weimer, who are in Miami; Mrs. Frank Thomson and Mrs. Ellen T. Henshaw, with her son and daughter, at Orlando, and Mrs. Harry M. Willock, in St. Petersburg; Mrs. John M. Milliken is staying in New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Morrison at Pinehurst, N. C.; Mrs. Birney K. McMechen and Mrs. William M. Ingels, at Pasadena; Mrs. Martha M. Jenkins at Colorado Springs, Colo., and Mrs. Henry M. O'Bleness at Arlington, Vt.

* * *

MISS FRANCES HERRIOTT, who is assistant stage manager for "Porgy" at the Nixon Theater, will be guest of honor tomorrow at a luncheon to be given in McCreery's by the Pittsburgh Alumnae Chapter of the Delta Gamma fraternity. Miss Herriott is a Delta Gamma from Drake University at Des Moines, Ia.

MISS FRANCES HERRIOTT, assistant stage manager of "Porgy," was guest of honor at a luncheon given yesterday by the Women's Press Club in the Woman's City Club. In a most delightful way Miss Herriott told human-interest stories of both production and players, giving her audience a behind-the-scenes insight of the Theater Guild play. Miss Marie McSwigan introduced Miss Herriott and at a board meeting which followed luncheon appointed Miss Catherine Patterson and Miss Mary Hay, chairmen for the club's anniversary dinenr next month.

THE originality with which the reviews were given added much to the play review luncheon held yesterday under auspices of the current interests committee of the Twentieth Century Club. Mrs. Charles W. Dahlinger reviewed Eugene Walter's "Jealousy," Miss Elenor Grier chose Philip Lonsdale's "The High Road," Mrs. Jacob S. Payton O'Neill's "Strange Interlude," Mrs. Haines Allen Machesney spoke on the musical production of "The Three Musketeers," Mrs. Frederick I. Merrick "The Age of Innocence," Mrs. Frederick Schaeffer "Porgy" and Miss Eleanor Gillespie, the new Theater Guild play, "Caprice."

THERE was an unusually large attendance last night when the Aspinwall Woman's Club had its annual guest night. Mrs. C. M. Duckwell, in charge of the program, introduced Mrs. M. L. Gardner, who sang, accompanied by her husband. Mrs. Gardner sang, among other numbers, a group of Japanese songs, giving them in costume. The speaker was the Rev. Dr Carl Wallace Petty, who had "The Fine Art of Thinking" as his subject.

MISS EMMA MELLOR CAMPBELL, instructor in English at Schenley High School, will review a number of the latest books at the luncheon to be held tomorrow by the Woman's City Club in the clubrooms, William Penn Hotel.

'28 BIRTH RATE OF STATE SHOWS GREAT DECREASE

The white population of Pennsylvania is headed in the direction of "race suicide," the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health reported today.

The birth rate for 1928 probably will be found to be "much the lowest on record for the state," it says. One of the reasons is the rapid decline in the number of foreign-born women of child-bearing age as a result of immigration restriction, the report says.

Negro births in Pennsylvania have nearly doubled in the last 10 years, but this is attributed to a large influx of Negroes from other states.

The law of nature that in time of war or hardship the ratio of male births increases was fulfilled in the soft coal region during the recent miners' strike. In the bituminous coal counties 111.3 boy babies were born for every 100 girl babies. The ratio for the whole state was 106.8 males to 100 females. In the anthracite mining region, in which there was no strike, the ratio was 106.3 boys to 100 girls.

The bureau says it has compiled birth statistics only for the first nine months of 1928 and has just completed its analysis of the statistics for 1927.

Final reports of team workers in the annual budget appeal of the Young Women's Christian Association of Pittsburgh will be made late today at a meeting in the International Institute, 3525 Forbes street. The campaign originally was to end Monday, but workers decided to carry on until today when they found they were $10,000 short of their $135,000 goal.

DOLORES DEL RIO, LUPE VELEZ INSURED BY STUDIO FOR $250,000

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.

ARTHUR W. STEBBINS, betterr known in the colony as Artie, is recognized as the most successful insurance broker in film circles. If Artie were to add his policies the sum would read like a European debt. He's associated with the local firm of Behrens-Levy Company. This outfit has practically every studio hereabouts insured to the hilt.

When Famous Players' two sound stages recently burned to the ground, a Behrens-Levy representative dashed to the studio immediately. Within 24 hours after the fire Famous was told to cart away the refuse and commence building immediately. They were insured—the two sound stages—for approximately $475,000. The papers estimated the fire loss at $450,000.

Among the stellar lights Artie insured life insurance during his current sojourn in our midst are: Bebe Daniels, $250,000; Mary Nolan, $200,000; William K. Howard, $100,000; Dick Arlen, $100,000; John Farrow, $100,000; Neil Hamilton, $50,000; F. Hugh Herbert, $100,000; Dolores Del Rio, $250,000; Lupe Velez, $250,000. The last two were insured by United Artists, to which company they are under contract.

Mary Nolan.

Original Story Is Film Riddle

THEY do be telling a story about a certain scenarist who telephoned one of the smaller flicker companies in a great pother. He stuttered to the producer that he had a wow of an ORIGINAL story. A sure-fire box office Klondiker. "Another 'Dancing Daughters,'" he admitted modestly. The producer chuckled: "You're too late. We made another 'Dancing Daughters' two weeks ago!" Riddle: What's an ORIGINAL story?

Alice White has a skating outfit that blends charmingly with her blonde beauty. The coat is woolen, belted, with small brown and white checks. The edge is scalloped around the bottom, up the front, around the neck and the pocket flaps. It opens in the front, being held together by only the belt. The skirt is of a deeper brown jersey with inverted pleats across front, knee length. She wears with this a light beige colored sweater, with initials embroidered on the left side. A long silk scarf, vivid with bright colors and with geomatric designs, snuggles around her neck. Each color finishes in a point at the end of the scarf. A tan beret completes the skating outfit.

Mary Brian Learns to Box

MARY BRIAN spends two hours daily in the gym learning something about boxing. Nope, she hasn't any matrimonial plans just yet. Merely getting a fistful for a ring romance with Dick Arlen.

Mary Brian.

Famous folk in our midst: Herman, creator of the delightful Krazy Kat cartoons, and George McManus, ditto for Bringing Up Father. . . . Pauline Frederick lives next door to the Al Christies in Beverly Hills. Yeah, and they're neighborly, too. . . . Bess Meredyth, one of the highest paid scenarists in the biz, being bawled out by her secretary for spending too much money and humbly submitting to a weekly allowance of a mere 50 bucks. . . . Octavus Ray Cohen has arrived to write a talky for Moran and Mack, the Black Crows themselves. Famous Players flirted with Ray Dooley to appear as a Lil' Blacky in this film, but Ray isn't ready yet to go celluloid. She's here now, stopping with husband, Eddie Dowling, at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. Yeah, Eddie's making an out-loud. . . . Vera Gordon and Pat Rooney talking over old times in the Universal lunch room. The vodvil veteran is trying his celluloid wings these days. . . . And—that's all.

MOVIE STAR IN STAGE BILLS

Lita Grey Chaplin, divorced from the film comedian, is in vaudeville and will headline the program in the Davis Theater next week in an act called "A Musical Treat." Rowland Becker and Pat Casey will assist her.

Ed Wynn comes Monday to the Alvin in "Manhattan Mary," the George White musical comedy success in which Mr. Wynn appeared here early last season prior to its Broadway run. With Mr. Wynn there will be one hundred singers, dancers, comedians, specialty artists, and a chorus of 75 girls.

Detmar Poppen was the "singing blacksmith" of Greenland, N. Y., before he discovered that he could get money for singing bass. For 15 years he has been the greatest singer on Broadway; six feet three inches tall, weighing 275 pounds. Now he is Porthos in "The Three Musketeers," coming to the Nixon for one week only, Monday evening, January 28.

FRIENDLY STAR :-: HAPPY MOMENTS :-: IN HOLLYWOOD

The smiling Nancy Carroll, youthful film actress, extends the hand of friendship to Leone Lane, 19-year-old girl, who has made good in pictures.

Now we see Nancy with Jason, one of the gawky fowl from the Cawston Ostrich Farm. Miss Carroll's newest picture is "The Wolf of Wall Street."

Argentinean Star Seeks Honors In America

The first Argentinean motion picture star to bid for honors in America is Mona Maris, known throughout South America as the "Pride of the Pampas," who has arrived in Hollywood to work for United Artists.

Miss Maris, slim, vivacious and speaking English as fluently as she does Spanish, French and German, was brought to America by Joseph M. Schenck, president and chairman of the board of directors of United Artists, who planes to use her in forthcoming productions of his organization.

Miss Maris came to Hollywood direct from Berlin, where she has been appearing in German-made pictures that have enjoyed unusual popularity in South American countries. It is her first visit to the United States.

Born in Buenos Aires 20 years ago, she was educated in England, France and Germany.

Trick Riding Brother Of Star in Pictures

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25. — The acting ability in the Velez family is not confined to Lupe. (And her name is so frequently mispronounced that you may be interested to know it is correct to call her Loo-pee). The little Mexican star has a kid brother known as Emilio Rey, who has taken tests on the Fox lot and is about to have his chance for film fame. The boy is an expert trick rider among other things.

Hurts Prove Fatal to Freeport Miner

Injuries suffered when he was caught under a fall of slate in the Century Coal Company mine at Freeport, caused the death early today, in the Allegheny Valley Hospital at Tarentum, of Aldig Beck, 37, a miner, of Freeport. The accident occurred January 14.

U. S. ASKED TO STOP "TALKIE" MONOPOLY

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Demand that the Justice Department start injunction proceedings to break alleged unfair practices in the distribution of talkie-movie equipment was made today by Abram F. Myers, former chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, who is head of the new Allied States Motion Picture Exhibitors Association.

Myers asked that the government take steps to restrain producers of sound equipment from entering into agreements with movie makers, under which the films cannot be leased for reproduction on machines not approved by the equipment manufacturers.

Myers said these agreements are not substantially different from those held illegal in suits brought by the government against producers of other moving picture apparatus and shoe machinery.

These actions were prosecuted by the Justice Department when Myers was in the anti-trust section and he was instrumental in the preparation of the suits.

Irene Rich Signs For Independent Film

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25. — Irene Rich, not so frequently seen on the screen these days, has signed to appear in an independently produced picture, titled "Shanghai Rose." Irene has been devoting her time to her wealthy husband and her two charming daughters of late, but was tempted from the seclusion of her Santa Barbara home for another fling before the cameras.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THERE will be a Pittsburgh district boy in the lineup when Ed Wynn comes to John Reynold's Alvin next week. Jerry Goff is a New Brighton boy who made good in the big city. A few years ago he was a clerk on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie. He had a good voice and it was with little trouble he engaged under the banner of the Messrs. Shubert. Later he enlisted with George White. Mr. Goff appeared in amateur theatricals here before going on the professional stage. In the early days of the radio he sang for the folks who put on the ear pieces to get KDKA. He is a graduate of a downtown correspondence school and was late for classes but once. Friends still have a picture of him on that memorable occasion dashing for the letter box so he wouldn't be late. The campus of that school was on one of the downtown sidewalks of Pittsburgh. His biography is handed in by Buck Jones, a classmate.

The automobile show here is breaking all attendance records. Veterans in the business say this year's display is the most colorful so far. The manufacturers this season are running to brilliant hues and striking contrasts in the paint jobs. There was only one drawback on the night I attended. The orchestra, very fine, did not play: "I Faw Down and Go Boom." That number is esteemed here, not so much on account of the melody, but due more to the tender sentiment expressed in the lyrics. There is quite a moral, too, in that number. Ponder the title and get the implication. It is a lesson for statesman and artisan. It is the twentieth century version of the old one: "Pride goeth before a fall." The title might have been written by a disillusioned and lisping roller skater.

IN a downtown card room, where ladies entertain their bridge clubs, the attendants were surprised to see seven women draw up to a table and play the niftiest game of draw poker the attendants had seen in years.

In a downtown section is a barber shop, which has been operating since 1914, without a lease. A large company owns the land and reserves the right to take over the premises on short notice. Since 1914 the proprietor has been closing up every night (barring a notable intermission) wondering whether the next day he would be put out.

The shop is operated by an Italian, who in 1917 was a third owner of the place with two other barbers. When the war came all three enlisted and went away. They sold the shop to another Italian. After the war was over the Italian who had purchased the place said to one of the returning partners:

"I am satisfied with the place, but you may have the privilege of buying it back again. You went away to war."

If you hear a staunch American, native-born, yelling something unkindly about a "Dago" think of three barber-soldiers and the man who turned the place back to the original owners.

WHETHER prohibition is succeeding is a matter for debate, but the casual observer is struck with the many places, formerly devoted to the products of Moerlien's and Schlitz, now either empty or turned into other avenues of marketing. There is hardly a city block, where a to-let sign or an altered-store front does not testify to the fact that, regardless of the millions of jokes tending to show prohibition is a myth, slowly, but surely, the frontiers of the drinking world are being pushed back. Private clubs have supplanted the saloon, as everyone knows, but in them the tinkle of the cash register is faint. Proprietors of such places say that business is bad because drinking people now make their own beer and their own gin—and drink it at home. The next time you take a walk, count the sites of former saloons in the village.

BIG CITY PLAN STIRS TWPS.

A delegation from Ross Township and other townships of the northern tier will attend the meeting in Masonic Temple, McKeesport, tonight, called by opponents to the metropolitan plan.

According to township officials they are fearful lest the rural communities be deprived of local self government and that entire control will be placed in a central board of county commissioners.

Boroughs in the northern end of the county are reported unanimously in favor of the proposed metropolitan plan, on condition that powers of self-government are reserved to the various communities.

2 BOYS BITTEN BY STRAY DOG

Two Beechview boys, playing in the yard of the St. Catherine's Parochial School, Broadway avenue, Beechview, were bitten yesterday by a stray dog, according to the Mt. Washington police.

Michael Morobitto, 10, 1625 Canton avenue, was bitten on the left leg, and was treated by a nearby physician. George Joyce, 9, 306 Lonergan way, was bitten on the right hand, but not seriously enough to receive medical attention.

NOT ONE SUN-TELEGRAPH NEWSIE WILLING TO CHANGE

Convincing evidence that Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph newsboys are not dissatisfied with their wages or working conditions, and feel no need of special "protection," was furnished today by the Brushton News Company, 555 Brushton avenue, of which Jacob G. Altmeyer is manager. He reported that not one of the 40 boys served by the company had been influenced by the propaganda to the effect that they could not make a fair profit except by selling some other Pittsburgh evening or Sunday paper than the Sun-Telegraph. Not one has quit.

At a meeting of the boys they pledged loyalty to the Brushton News Company and the Sun-Telegraph, which is the only Pittsburgh evening or Sunday paper that they will handle.

The Brushton youngsters earn good wages. Some have bank accounts.

Walter Paull, of 1123 Brushton avenue, said he had bought a motorcycle with his first earnings as a newsboy.

The Brushton News Company points with pride to a number of its boys who have "made good." Their earnings and their experience gained while selling papers have served them well later in life.

Edward Glenn, one of the company's former newsies, now has charge of the local branch office of a big Chicago tool manufacturing firm. Theodore Glenn has a good position with a Boston machinery company. Harry Averman has a grocery store and meat market in Latrobe.

Concert Tonight To Honor Burns

The one hundred and seventieth anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns will be celebrated tonight by Pittsburgh devotees of the Scottish laureate. A concert, at which will be sung many of Burns' famous songs, will be held at Moose Temple, by the combined choirs of Clan Cameron and the Daughters of Scotia. Afterward, there will be dancing.

British Court Photographer Exhibits Portraits Here

CAMERA ARTIST WHO PHOTOGRAPHS ROYALTY

Richard N. Speaith, London, court photographer to English royalty, in Pittsburgh today, tells of other notables who have been his sitters.

VIEWING ALBUM OF KINGS AND QUEENS

CITY IDEAL FOR PHOTOGRAPHER

Pittsburgh may be foggy and smoky and Pittsburghers may have sooty spots on their linen, but its people have the best complexions of any people in the world—and therefore are ideal subjects for the photographer's art.

This compliment to Pittsburgh and Pittsburghers comes from no less authority than Richard N. Speaight, of London, court photographer to the English royal family and maker of camera portraits of many world notables. He pronounced his encomiums while directing the exhibition of photographs of European royalty at the Fort Pitt Hotel, where he is delivering a series of addresses on the progress of portrait photography.

The distinguished Englishman has made but one picture in America—a portrait of President Coolidge done in the White House several months ago.

Driverless Truck Plunges Into Ravine

A delivery truck owned by the Modern Appliance Company was virtually demolished yesterday when it plunged over a 150-foot embankment into a ravine near St. Patrick street and Arlington avenue. The truck had been parked by George Burke, of 534 Evergreen road, the driver.

Duquesne Legion Asks for Charter

Application for a charter for the Duquesne Memorial Post No. 448, American Legion, was filed in Common Pleas Court yesterday by the following directors: Earl J. A. Goldstrom, Edward N. Foster, Elmer J. Scherr, John Stevens and Elmer W. Lops. Judge Harry H. Rowand set February 15 for a hearing.

Life Underwriters Hear Buffalo Man

Harvey Weeks, general agent of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company at Buffalo, addressed 300 members of the Pittsburgh Life Underwriters' Association yesterday at a meeting in the William Penn Hotel. Lee D. Hemingway, president of the association, introduced the speaker.

TRAFFIC CONTROL STUDY COURSE TO START AT PITT

A night course in traffic control engineering will be given at the downtown division of the University of Pittsburgh for business men, engineers and others who desire to study the problem, university officials announced today.

It will be given by the School of Engineering and will be the only detached course in traffic control given by any university in the country.

Prof. Lewis W. McIntyre will conduct the course. He is a member of the Hoover traffic ordinance committee, the Pittsburgh Better Traffic Committee, vice president of the National Highway Traffic Association and head of the highway and highway transportation work in the Engineering School. President-elect Hoover long has advocated such a course.

Beginning February 16 and continuing for 15 weeks, the course is to be given each Friday night from 7:50 until 9:30 o'clock.

Suspect Held in Three Auto Thefts

Accused of stealing three automobiles on the North Side for joy rides in the last several weeks, Joseph Polky, 20, of 1363 South Side avenue, has been held for court on a larceny charge by Magistrate J. W. Orie in Morals Court. The machines later were found abandoned, according to police.

2 Arrested in Raid On Saloon in Etna

A saloon at 62 Bridge street, Etna, where prohibition agents asserted they bought three drinks of whisky for 20 cents each, was raided by them yesterday. Whisky and wine were seized. Charles Lippert, 42, and John Grybose, 32, were arrested, according to the agents.

Punch Too Hefty, Alleged Scrapper Is Held

John Motora, 35, 368 West Thirteenth avenue, Homestead, possesses a hefty punch, Homestead police say. James Zatyum, 32, 402 Dickson street, Homestead, is in the Homestead Hospital with a fractured skull and a fractured jaw, received, it is said, in a fight with Motora in Dickson street, Homestead, early today

Motora, held to await the outcome of Zatyum's injuries, according to Homestead police, claims he used only his fists in the fight. Police search for some other weapon failed to reveal one.

Sued

DORIS MERCER

Doris Mercer, formerly of Pittsburgh, divorced wife of Sebastian S. Kresge, chain store operator, is named in a suit for $32,000, filed by a detective agency for services bearing on her former marital litigation. She is now in France studying music. The sleuths' bill was $46,000, of which $14,000 had been paid.

Injured Brakeman Found Beside Track

Found beside the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at Corliss Station early today, John Wilson, of 2772 Zephyr avenue, was removed to the South Side Hospital suffering concussion of the brain and fractures of several ribs. His condition is serious. Wilson is employed as a brakeman by the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad. It had not been determined this morning how he was injured.

RUM TESTIMONY FOUND FAULTY

Discrepancies in testimony given the county grand jury and at a hearing before Alderman Thomas D. Jones, in the alleged North Side rum ring conspiracy, were being checked today by District Attorney S. H. Gardner and George P. Langfitt. Other prosecutions may follow, it was stated.

Police Inspector Charles Faulkner, Police Lieut. John J. Lynch, Patrolmen William Moore and M. D. Rosensteel, John Harkins, Martin Burke, John Loebig, Elliott Donnelly, Anthony Puniak and Thomas Oliffe were arraigned before the alderman yesterday and it was admitted that testimony against them was weak. The alderman reserved his decision until Monday.

The testimony of A. J. Berkowitz, former Preble avenue saloon keeper and star witness before the grand jury, varied materially when repeated before the alderman. Assistant District Attorney Langfitt closely checked the two versions given by Berkowitz.

Anthony Puniak, a defendant for whom immunity was promised, is said to have changed his testimony.

Other witnesses were Louise Lipshitz, former Beaver avenue saloon keeper; E. J. Coleman, former Preble avenue saloon keeper; Steve Frankovich, Preble avenue; Harry Lieberman, Beaver avenue, storekeeper, and Charles Heck, West View printer, who testified to printing cards of the mysterious "Joe Green," whisky agent, but who could not identify the purchaser.

Robs Clothesline, New Address Is Workhouse

W. J. Tracey, 36, who lives at 147 South Twenty-seventh street, but who will receive his mail at the Allegheny County Workhouse for the next 30 days, now realizes that in the future ladies' wearing apparel should be carried through the South Side streets by the female sex.

According to the testimony of Patrolman J. Wantje before Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court yesterday, Tracey was seen walking out of the back yard of the home of William Plowden, 2837 Carey way, with his arms full of ladies' wearing apparel. Mrs. Plowden said that she had them hanging on the clothesline.

BURGESS FREED AS ACCESSORY

Dr. Daniel A. Atkinson, burgess of West View, was absolved in Morals Court today of a charge of being an accessory after the fact to a felony in that he was alleged to have dressed a youthful bandit's wounded hand and advised him to "leave town."

Magistrate A. D. Brandon discharged the physician after the City Law Department informed him there was no law requiring a physician to report dressing a gunshot wound. Dr. Atkinson admitted that he should have notified police.

Dr. Atkinson testified he had been called to the home of Mrs. Mary Bender, 2742 Norwood street, North Side, the night of January 15 to dress the wounded right hand of Roy Filmore. Filmore told him, the physician said, that he had been shot while scuffling with "another fellow" for possession of a revolver. Filmore said he lived out of town and wanted to know if it would be safe for him to drive and the physician told him it would, Atkinson testified.

Filmore was held for court on 40 charges Wednesday, one of them being the holdup and shooting of Peter Bubanovich, saloonkeeper, 3834 Sewickley road, the same night his wound was dressed by Dr. Atkinson.

Drys Seize Whisky In East End Store

A store at 103 Carver street, East End, yielded quantities of whisky and wine in a raid last night, prohibition agents said. William Gigante, 20, arrested in the raid, was released on bond.

In the home of Mary Homolitis, 35, at 918 Indiana avenue, the agents said, they found a five-gallon still and 140 gallons of mash which they destroyed. The woman was released on her own recognizance. Steve Balent, 42, and his wife, Mamie Balent, 40, arrested in a raid on their saloon at 28 Braddock avenue, Braddock, were reported released on bail. Liquor was found in the place, the agents said.

Robber Gets $235 As Couple Sleeps

While Mr. and Mrs. Jay Helfant slept undisturbed on the second floor of their home, 6341 Crombie street, a burglar entered their bedroom from the roof of the front porch through an unlocked window, early today. Helfant reported to police. The intruder escaped with $135 taken from Helfant's trouser's pocket and a $100 string of pearls belonging to Mrs. Helfant.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.

The Democrats are having a tough time finding somebody to give the twenty-four million to.

Mellon says: "I don't need it." Coolidge says: "Don't leave it on my doorstep." Hoover says: "My charity distributing days are over. Don't sic' it on to me."

What they should do with it is take $1,500,000 and pay off Raskob, Kenny and Lehmann, get Bishop Cannon a new typewriter and take the other 22 million and establish an endowment fund to take care of senators whose political schemes backfired.

Yours, WILL.

"Don't COUGH Your Energy Away"

Stop hacking Coughs that wrack your whole system

DOCTORS advise coughs should be checked quickly. They sap vitality—put a terrific strain upon the vital organs. A cough can wrack your whole body—tear at the delicate tissues of the throat—leave the muscles of your chest and stomach sore from sheer exertion. Your health demands that coughs be checked, before exhaustion or serious infection sets in.

At the first sign of a cough or throat irritation, take PERTUSSIN. It helps Nature free the air passages of germ-laden mucus, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough. PERTUSSIN has been prescribed more often for coughs than any other advertised remedy.

PERTUSSIN is safe even for small children and convalescents—a good remedy for "coughs that hang on". It is free from dope—does not upset the stomach and can be taken as often as necessary. At all druggists.

FOSTER CHARGE RETRACTED BY WOODSIDE

County Controller Robert G. Woodside today retracted his statement that former Treasurer Samuel D. Foster, now Recorder of Deeds, was holding $47,573.36 due various municipalities in the county from lien taxes collected by Foster during his term as Treasurer.

Woodside has been informed Foster has turned the money over to County Treasurer John Francies.

The statement that Foster was holding the funds was included in a report by Ernst & Ernst, who made an audit of the Treasurer's office for the year 1927, during which Foster was Treasurer. The audit charged irregularities and negligence.

THE butter tub is going because Butler Stores are now selling tub butter in a new and greatly improved way—in Double-Wrapped pound rolls.

You can be certain now of butter that is fresh, rich in flavor and at the right price by always buying tub butter in Land O' Lakes Double-Wrapped Rolls. And in addition you will know that your butter is fully protected from the creamery to your table.

Butler Stores now offer Tub Butter in the New, Convenient Double-Wrapped Roll

Whenever an improvement is made in handling or packing any product, or a new safeguard to health worked out, we are quick to adopt it—for your convenience and protection. This service, we feel, is an obligation we owe our customers.

That's why we have adopted the new form of Land O' Lakes Sweet Cream Butter for all our stores. In this new form, tub butter is cut into full pound rolls by the producers, and protected by a double-wrapper of parchment paper. The delicious Sweet Cream flavor is safeguarded from the creamery to your table.

Insist upon butter that comes to you in the original package because it will be more convenient and health officials say it is safer.

We purchase Land O' Lakes Sweet Cream Butter direct from the producers. Therefore, we can offer it for only a trifle more than ordinary butter that is made from sour cream.

Land O' Lakes is always made of pure pasteurized sweet cream from tested cows in the land o' lakes and sky blue water. You'll love the Sweet Cream Taste.

Tub Butter that is Government Certified

Those who prefer tub butter will be pleased to learn that the new, convenient, double-wrapped form of Land O' Lakes Sweet Cream Butter is Government Certified.

Look for the Government Certificate of Quality in your roll. In every package of Land O' Lakes Sweet Cream Butter — the double-wrapped pound roll as well as the carton of four quarter pounds—you'll find the Certificate of Quality authorized by Uncle Sam.

Before butter is passed as Land O' Lakes grade, it must score 93 or better, the highest score of any widely distributed butter in the United States.

Fruit Cocktail
Mock Roast Duck.
Baked Mushrooms.
Scalloped Tomatoes.
Mashed Sweet Potatoes.
Cabbage and Nut Salad.
Floating Island. Lady Fingers.
Coffee.

A FRUIT COCKTAIL seems to start a dinner off as it should be started off—so we'll cut up some peaches, in their own juice, add candied cherries, and serve the concoction in dainty sherbet glasses.

Mock Roast Duck is most delicious; we'll need two small slices of rump steak, or a flank steak. The meat should be about one inch thick, with no seams, openings or muscle tissues running through it. Season it with a teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper and one-eighth teaspoon of ginger.

Heat three tablespoons of fat drippings in a spider, add a cup of bread crumbs, a tablespoon of grated onion, a teaspoon of chopped parsley, a slice of chopped boiling ham; spread evenly over one of the steaks. Cover with the other steak and sew the edges together with coarse thread.

Now place the mock duck in the spider with a little fat; sprinkle it well with flour, allow it to brown, add a pint of boiling water; cover closely and let simmer several hours or until tender. Remove the strings, place in a hot oven, basting often; let brown nicely and serve hot in its own sauce.

* * *

MUSHROOMS are in their prime, and add flavor to any meal. Select 12 large ones, wash them well, remove the stems, peel the caps and place them in a buttered dripping pan, cap side up. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot over with about two tablespoons of butter, and then add two-thirds cup of cream. Bake for 10 minutes in a hot oven. Serve them on tiny pieces of dry toast. Pour the cream that is left in the pan over the mushrooms, and serve them very hot.

Know how to prepare the mashed sweet potatoes? You very probably do, but for the benefit of the season's crop of brand new housewives, let me give the directions once more! Wash sweet potatoes thoroughly and boil them in their skins until tender. Then peel and mash them. Season with butter, and bake in a pudding dish until brown. Serve hot.

* * *

WE'LL go violently vegetarian, now that we come to the salad. Put a small head of tender cabbage in cold water for an hour. Drain and chop fine. Add a cup of chopped celery, a cup of chopped nuts and a minced onion, and garnish with ripe olives. In case you have a complex against onion in your salad, why, just omit it. But onions are marvelous food, so don't omit them from your diet altogether!

* * *

THE word "canape" is a French term, meaning literally a couch or bed. Now that's a far cry from food, but in a culinary sense, it is meant to be interpreted as a bed on which to rest savory foods.

Usually, a canape is in the form of sliced bread, or crackers, covered with finely minced meats or pastes, attractively served and tastefully garnished.

A dainty canape makes a most delicious tid-bit; and it is warranted to set spurs to any appetite, no matter how jaded it may be!

Olive Canapes—Toast six slices of bread, and butter them. Then cut them into delicate circles. Place on each circle a coiled anchovy, putting a stuffed olive in the center of the coil. Decorate lightly with olives and capers minced very fine, and serve. Or, by the way of variety, this canape may be prepared by frying the circles of toast in butter, and spreading them with anchovies pounded to a paste; then decorate with the finely minced capers and olives.

Indian Canapes—Toast about six slices of bread, butter them, and again cut into delicate circles. Fry the circles in butter. Now spread them first with potted ham, and then with chutney—allow about one ounce of chutney, and a box of potted ham to the six slices of toast. Sprinkle the tops with grated Parmesan cheese. Set in the oven to brown for five minutes, and serve hot.

Lobster Canapes—These are specially delicious. Chop finely lobster meat, and add an equal quantity of the yolks of hardboiled eggs forced through a sieve. Moisten with melted butter and heavy cream, using equal parts, and season highly with salt, cayenne, mustard and beef extract. Spread on sauted circular slices of bread and garnish with rings cut from the whites of hard-boiled eggs, the yolks of hard-boiled eggs, and lobster coral forced through a sieve.

Rose Canapes—Mix a cream cheese with enough cream to soften it well. Put in a small pastry bag, and shape on unsweetened crackers in form of roses. Then sprinkle minced olives over the cheese, and serve cold, on a lettuce leaf.

Tomato Canapes—This is one of my special favorites, and a most popular canape with my guests, too. Blend a cream cheese with half the quantity of Rocquefort cheese. Season and soften with a little cream. Spread on rounds of toast. Cover with a slice of tomato, and top the canape off with a generous dab of mayonnaise.

* * *

OH, the things that could be said about cabbage! A whole book could be written on its mineral value, its vitamin contribution and its palatability.

I won't discuss its health value at length because there's a foolish fancy that really healthful foods can't be palatable. Just let me say that cabbage contains vitamins A, B and C and that is saying a great deal for any one food.

Here is an excellent way to stuff cabbage. Soak a soft head of cabbage in cold water for an hour then boil it gently for 15 minutes. Drain, open the head to the center without breaking the leaves. Mix a cup of boiled rice, a cup of chopped nuts, a tablespoon of chopped parsley and three hard-boiled eggs.

Put a spoonful of this mixture in the center of the head. Fold over the leaves and put in a thin layer of the mixture. Fold over the next leaves and continue putting layers of the mixture between the sets of leaves. Tie the head in a piece of cheese-cloth, boil in salted water

"NANCY DEANE" by ROY L. FOLEY

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Dean, golden-haired, dark-eyed, who has lived her 18 years with David and Margaret O'Day, foster parents, in Washington, learns she is the granddaughter of the wealthy and aristocratic Montgomery Deanes in Pittsburgh, who disinherited her father and do not even know of her existence. Through John Blair, an upstanding young man, she has learned to admire, she secures a letter to Howard Wescott, manager of the Wear Ever Mills in Pittsburgh. On the train she meets Ginger Varden, a style model who takes her to her boarding house and introduces her to her friends. One of these, Vic Flemming, makes love to her and asks her to marry him. She finally securs a job in the knitting mill where Wescott, attracted by her beauty, offers her a place in the office. She is naively delighted, but both Ginger and Vic characterize Wescott as a "big bum." That same evening while Vic, Jerry Durant, Ginger and Nancy are dining and dancing at the Golden Pheasant, Wescott comes in; Vic picks a quarrel and they have a rough and tumble fight and are arrested. The papers are full of the episode; Ginger hails it as good publicity and insists on getting Nancy a job at modeling with Ziegelbaum, her employer. Mrs. O'Day, in alarm at the paper's account of the fight, telephones to Nancy, who reassures her. When Wescott sees Nancy the next morning he acts as though nothing has happened, takes her to lunch to the country, shows jealousy of Vic Flemming and kisses Nancy. She laughs at him and he is greatly astonished. She feels drawn to Wescott and confides in him her story all except the name of her grandparents. He wonders who they can be, but she begs him not to try to discover. She wonders if she is in love with him, all the time recalling John Blair. Wescott takes her motoring and shows his fondness for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVII.

NANCY O'DAY didn't register at Miss Brown's School of Business for evening classes that night. Instead of taking her first lesson in the intricacies of shorthand, toiling over the little shaded strokes, the hooks and the slants and circles, instead of facing the bare walls of a classroom, she found herself trailing over thick velvet carpets in the showrooms of Ziegelbaum's, Inc., rehearsing for a style show to open in a McKeesport theater one week later.

"Keep your head, kiddo, act as haughty and experienced as Queen Liz, and maybe Ziegelbaum will put you on regular," Ginger had advised Nancy when they entered the Ziegelbaum gown shop.

Now Nancy was trying to follow out the advice. Ziegelbaum, a short man with a bald and shiny head, with light gray spats and gray striped trousers had accepted Nancy as a model just from looking at her. He fawned on the girls and it didn't take Nancy long to know that Ginger could "wrap him around her little finger," just as she said she could.

And yet she could see he was going to be a severe master from his talk to the models. These models, all very slim girls, nearly all with amazing haircuts, eyed Nancy with as much indifference as they could assume under their real curiosity.

They were beautiful, every one, and would have been more so if they had not tried to improve the good looks heaven had already given them. They always made it as hard as possible for a newcomer. Ginger, knowing them all, coached Nancy on how to act.

"High hat 'em. Make 'em think they're the dirt under your feet. It's the only way they'll have an ounce of respect for you," Ginger had advised.

But Nancy couldn't have high hatted anyone. She hardly knew what the expresion meant.

Ginger introduced them—Violet La May, Therese Thaddeus, Maybelle Montague, Virginia Vogue, and others.

"What ridiculous names," Nancy thought. When Ginger announced her simply as Nancy O'Day, she felt as though she were dressed in gingham, like a sparrow beside a flock of strutting, brilliant peacocks. As soon as some of the girls started to talk she thought the comparison to peacocks wasn't so far wrong. Like the peacock, most of them had harsh voices, strident and unpleasant.

Ziegelbaum came into the room, rubbing his hands, his bald head shining as brightly as his highly polished shoes. He clapped his pudgy hands.

"Come girls we must hurry," he said, "run along now to your dressingrooms, so? Some wonderful new numbers I have just received from Paris today, an' I want you girls should be careful wid 'em. Yes?"

Nancy heard the tuning of musical instruments somewhere in another room and she asked Ginger, "what's the music all about?" She was excited with her venture, her cheeks were beautifully pink, the real pink of her own complexion. Her skin was creamy white, her hair was just unruly enough to hold attention by its soft naturalness as against the sleek and tightly clipped heads of the other models.

"That, my dear, is the music to which we parade these rags" Ginger laughed.

"You have to get the step, you know. Now don't dance to the music but just put on your society expression and sort of half sway, half float along. Look haughty as h——"

Ziegelbaum was coming toward them.

"So this is my new model?" he said, taking Nancy's chin between his fat thumb and forefinger. "A nice type too, eh, Mees Warden? Just the type I need for my debutante number, wid the bouffant skirt, eh, what?"

Ziegelbaum smirked until Nancy thought his plump cheeks would crack. She noticed that he always said "d" for "th," and "w" for "v." He called Ginger Mees Warden.

"Hurry now. You show Mees O'Day where to dress, eh, Mees Warden?"

The music started up. Ginger grabbed Nancy's hand, pulling her toward the dressing rooms. Ginger parted the curtains and what Nancy saw made her gasp. Just a little gasp because she was learning to conceal her real feelings. She gasped at the state of undress of the chattering bevy of girls before her, all trying to look into several full-length mirrors at once, and nearly all in a startling state of dishabille.

Nancy wasn't used to this sort of thing. She had always dressed and undressed alone in her little white and blue room at home. It was a shock to see so many half-naked girls parading about so casually, as though they were fully clothed.

Few of them paid attention to her entrance, noticed her embarrassment. They took it for granted she had done modeling before. In fact, they weren't interested, except that she was pretty, and prettiness meant competition.

"She won't get to first base in this dump. She's too innocent looking," was Maybelle Montague's verdict.

"Yep, she's just one of these pretty faced babies that aren't so innocent as they look," Violet La May had answered.

"But you can't say she isn't different," Therese Thaddeus had declared. "Remember it's that different touch that makes a gown sell, an' it's the same with a girl. I know some men that would mop the floor for a skirt like that, an' I don't mean maybe. I got one in mind right now."

"Who you got in mind?" Maybelle asked.

"Well, there's Vic Flemming, for one," said Violet, "an' Vic can have them all, if he wants 'em. Me and you too, Maybelle, an' you know it. Vic's got class, and sass, and money. I'd say that as men go Vic's got "it" if men have that too."

Ginger and Nancy walked into the dressing room just in time to hear Violet's opinion about Vic Flemming. Nancy picked up her ears and would have stood there waiting to hear more but Ginger put her forefinger to her lips and gave a knowing jerk to her head.

Nancy was surprised to hear Vic's name mentioned. She wondered if he had much to do with these girls—any girls. She thought of his impassioned kisses at the roadhouse, of his declaration of love, his "you'll marry me, kiddo, girl, say you will.". And now that these other girls were so interested in him it occurred to her that Vic had some good points. She was enough of a woman to feel that a man was more desirable if other women were interested in him.

She didn't want Vic Flemming, really. But she would just like to let these supercilious, snippy girls, who, by their own confession were interested in him, know that he had proposed to her only a few nights ago.

"Here you are, kid, shed the blue serge and put on this piece of French dessert."

Nancy whirled around to see Ginger holding "The Debutante," the dress that Ziegelbaum had spoken of. It was a pale blue gown, the kind of a dress for a Cinderella to wear at the Prince's ball.

"It was just made for your type" Ginger said, "hurry. I got to doll up in a snaky black velvet rag. More of the vamp stuff."

She disappeared and came back a little later with a long tube of a gown, the train lined with bright green satin.

"E-e-f you pl-e-e-ze ladie-e-s, hurry, eh?"

Ziegelbaum stuck his bald head between the curtains just as Nancy was slipping out of her street dress. His beady eyes fastened on her creamy white shoulders for an instant, then he pulled the curtains together with such force that Nancy thought the pole would go crashing down.

Just as Nancy got into "The Debutante" the curtains parted again and a showy girl in a leopard coat came hurrying in. Someone cried: "Hello Boots, what kept you so long?"

"Boots" flounced down into a chair and opened an evening newspaper, and said:

"Spose you've all read the big news about Vic Flemming and that millionaire guy Wescott fighting out at the Golden Pheasant last night. Where's Ginger?"

She stood up and looked around her, knowing that Ginger could tell the whole story, probably adding the details missed by the newspapers.

To Nancy's surprise, not one of the girls besides Boots had read a word about the affair. She didn't know it then, but she was to learn later that these girls never looked at a newspaper unless there was a sensation to claim their attention. Many of them never got out of bed until afternoon and were so rushed with engagements and work that they seldom had a minute to read.

When Ginger came back out of another dressing room, asking, "Who called?" the models were crowding around Boots, listening to her read from the evening paper. It was the same old story, only differently told, that Nancy had so fearfully read in the gray dawn that very day.

How different the whole thing seemed now, after a day with Howard Wescott.

Boots dropped the paper and immediately Ginger became the center of interest. They wanted to know every detail. Some of them knew Wescott, Nancy gathered. Nearly all knew Vic Flemming. They wanted to know who the girl was that the row was over, what she looked like. Nancy stood with her back to the wall, watching the half clothed group before her, all of them more interested now in Ginger than in the racks and heaps of expensive finery.

"Women may be crazy about clothes but this looks as though they were crazier about men," she thought.

Ginger was equal to their demands. She told the story just as it was printed, but when the other models wanted to know who the Nancy O'Day was, she simply said:

"Oh, a little friend of Vic's."

They seemed not to have caught Nancy's last name when Ginger had introduced her. All except Maybelle.

"O'Day? Say, ain't that the name of the new girl you just brought in?"

Nancy had to admit it was, and in no time they pressed closer and closer until Nancy thought she would smother. They seemed like a lot of wolves going to devour her. They did devour her with questions. At once they dropped their attitude of indifference. They became chummy, all at once. Violet put her arm around Nancy's waist, and in a voice dripping with honey, she said:

"Tell us all about it, new girl. This is SO exciting."

"E-e-e-f you pl-e-e-ze girls——"

Ziegelbaum stuck his head in the doorway again. When he saw all his models clustered around Nancy, he immediately guessed that he was missing something, parted the curtains and came in. The girls didn't seem to mind, though some of them were still very much in negligee.

"Oh, Mr. Ziegelbaum," Maybelle began, "we've got a celebrity in our midst and we didn't know it. The new model is the girl Howard Wescott, the millionaire, and Vic Flemming had a row about at the Golden Pheasant last night. The papers are full of it."

Nancy wished that the floor would open and swallow her. She looked around for Ginger. She needed Ginger's hard boiled manner to cope with these people. Ginger, until now on the outer rim of the circle that surrounded Nancy, forced her way through, and stormed:

"You girls beat it. How interested you got all of a sudden when you heard Miss O'Day knows some of your boy friends. Well—"

His patience with waiting for the models had been exhausted and he began threatening them with dismissal if they didn't hurry into their gowns so the rehearsal might begin. The music started up outside.

"M-e-e-s O'Day you are ready," he said, "while the others are getting ready will you pl-e-e-ze go out and walk once for me across the room in that le-e-tle debutante?"

Nancy walked over to the curtain and while Ziegelbaum held it for her, making an elaborate bow, she straightened her shoulders, threw back her head in the haughtiest manner possible, touched her fingers ever so lightly to the crisp maline of her skirt, lifted it, ever so little, and walked out into the long, green carpeted room before her. She tried to keep time to the music, not to dance, as Ginger had warned her.

The room seemed endless. She was thankful it was a rehearsal, that only the musicians were there to see. She knew now, what stage fright was. There was no turning back.

Down, down the length of the room she walked, reached the opposite wall, pivoted as she had seen models do in the movies, and started the long, long trail back toward Ziegelbaum.

"I'm terrible," she said. "Terrible!"

But the expression on Ziegelbaum's face said something different: "You are lovely. Ze Debutante, she sell like crazy," he beamed.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Marion and Her Stepfather Are Up to Something!

"WHERE are you people going to be this afternoon just before you take the train?" Mr. Underwood asked when we had come downstairs after Dicky's inspection of the hotel suite and were leaving for the afternoon's shopping.

"At the Penn Station, Long Island side," his wife returned with a grin.

"I mean the last port of call before that."

"At Lacy's. We're only going to one other store before, and it's farther up town."

Mr. Underwood consulted his watch and made a mental calculation. "That train leaves at 4:30. We'll be at the Thirty-fourth street entrance of Lacy's, the big one, at 4 and wait until you come out. You'll need a strong arm with your parcels, if I know wimmen, and I think I do."

"All right," she agreed, "but if we don't finish, we intend to stay at the hotel tonight and finish up tomorrow."

A look of almost boyish disappointment flashed into Mr. Underwood's eyes, but his comment expressed only cheerful assent.

"That would be wise, of course," he said, "but we'll be there with shoes shined 'n everything at 4 o'clock."

"I wonder what Harry's up to," Lillian said speculatively as we settled ourselves in a taxi for the shorter journey which she had decided could be managed in the time mapped out for our shopping. "He has something up his sleeve, I know, some surprise or other he's planned for us—I know that little boy look on his face."

There was an indulgent tenderness in her voice which I was glad to hear—I welcomed every bit of evidence that she was finding happiness in the return of her recreant husband. Then I caught the furtive glance which Marion sent her mother from behind the fashion magazine which she and Mary were sharing, and my ease of mind fled precipitately.

For there was something in that sullen glance and in the knitted eyebrows above it which chilled me because they were so foreign to the usual expression of Lillian's winsome daughter. There was a subtle touch of malice in the glance, also, like that of an angry small boy planning some spoil-sport revenge. I decided to watch the young girl carefully during the afternoon, and find out, if possible, what was going on through her mind.

It did not take me long to discover her plan. I happen to know that she prides herself upon being able to make as quick decisions concerning her clothes as does her mother. But this afternoon nothing suited her. If the size of the suit or frock was right, the color was wrong, the shoes hurt her feet or were too large, and the hats were not becoming.

"I'll treat you, Marion, to a movie and a special banana split when we get home," she said.

"I guess you'll have to do it right here in the city," Marion replied, and there was a "smarty" note of triumph in her voice which made me want to shake her. "I haven't a suit or hat or gloves or shoes yet for my trip down to the school, and I never can select them in an hour, so I guess we'll have to stay in the city tonight."

I had suspected that she had been purposely delaying things so that whatever surprise her stepfather should have prepared at 4 o'clock would be spoiled by the revelation that the shopping was not completed.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Sign Full Name

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am secretary and stenographer of a firm and compose and sign all business letters. I sign my name "D. Brown." I am married and I know it is not correct to use Mrs., and it does not seem quite correct for me to use Dorothy Brown, although when most of my correspondence is answered it is directed to the attention of Mr. D. Brown.

IT is very embarrassing for a person to receive a letter signed D. Brown and then write to Mr. D. Brown (as he naturally would), only to discover later that the person is not a "Mister." It would be better for you to sign Dorothy Brown, I think.

On Chicken

DEAR. MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been reading your column for a long time, and have gained many helpful pointers. There is one question that I am puzzled about, and that is: Is it proper to take chicken in your fingers when you are eating it? Of course, there are different ways of doing this, but I mean if it is done in a dainty fashion, is it all right? MISS S.

NO, it isn't ever proper (except when you are alone) to take up the chicken in your fingers, And the reason is that it just can't be done "in a dainty fashion." No matter how dry the chicken is, it is bound to soil your fingers, and this, in turn, soils the napkin on which we wipe our fingers. Sitting opposite a person who is eating chicken in his or her fingers isn't a pretty sight! Only the Goops eat chicken with their fingers!

The Cover Charge

DEAR. MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am entertaining a few friends at dinner and dancing in a very nice but popular cafe. Will you please inform me just what a "cover" charge covers? Having done all my entertaining in one of the clubs to which we belong, these troubles are foreign to me.

2. How should my invitations read if I wish to inform a certain young man I wish him to call for a certain young lady, and should she be informed as to her escort in a similar way? The affair will be formal, and I will also expect acceptances or regrets.

3. Will this stationery be all right to use? H. I. D.

THE term "cover charge" is used to designate the sum arbitrarily named by a restaurant to "cover" only what is really the entrance fee. That is, you are charged that amount for being given a place at a table. It permits you to dance usually, but does not cover any food or drinks.

2. The best way would be to write a note to the young man and tell him what your plans for his "escortage" are, and then write to the young lady and tell her that she is to expect ——— to come for her to take her to the party.

3. Yes, your letter paper is excellent—white, plain, generous-sized and of splendid texture.

No Shower

DEAR. MRS. BEECKMAN:

If a girl has eloped and her parents have not entertained any of her friends in honor of her being married, is it proper for her girl friends to have a shower for her, the shower to be a subscription one? M. A.

SINCE the girl has chosen this unconventional form of wedding, I think that it is much better for her not to plan any of the parties that are customarily associated with conventional weddings. Parties given after elopements simply serve to emphasize the unconventionality.

It would show better form if the girls wait until she is settled in her new home and then plans to give a tea for her girl friends. For her to think in terms of "showers" seems a bit like courting a "begging party."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, January 26

THE sidereal operations for this day enhance all opportunity for patient toil and diligence, steadfastness and fidelity to be substantially recognized and compensated. These may be bestowed by elderly persons or institutions. But there are likewise some omens of danger through fire, law, theft or slander or fraud.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of rewards for patience, perseverance and responsibility. Industry and enterprise are encouraged, but there are some of besetting dangers through law, fraud, theft, fire or slander.

A child born on this day may be industrious and hardworking, faithful and persevering, but it may need direction into ideals of truth and integrity. It should exercise caution as to personal safety also.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

On Love—And Other Trifles

THE usual "misunderstanding" starts with the first kiss, which the girl regards as "just the beginning"—and the man regards as the beginning of the end.

* * *

Love is a sentimental "jag." The remorse and the headaches may follow, but while the glamor lasts, you say and think sublime things that would never occur to you when cold sober.

* * *

Those must have been dull days, before prohibition, when "ladies" never drank cocktails, much less went in for spangled cocktail jackets and jeweled flasks.

HELEN ROWLAND

* * *

It is hard to say which suffers more on a legal holiday: the woman whose husband hangs around the house and makes trouble and criticisms, or the woman whose husband goes out and makes big whoopee.

* * *

To a man, a decade is just 10 years—but to a woman it is the gulf between youth and henna.

* * *

Nowadays the average girl has no more regard for a wife's proprietary rights in her husband than the average laundry has for the personal ownership of handkerchiefs.

* * *

When a man runs away from temptation in his twenties it is pretty safe to predict that at forty he'll be hanging back waiting for temptation to OVERTAKE him.

* * *

The kitchens of the world are wet with the tears of young wives whose enthusiasm for cooking has been quenched forever by a scornful sniff.

* * *

Funny how all a married man's graceful ballantry to women suddenly subsides the moment his wife divorces him and puts him back into circulation!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

When a Baby Fails to Gain Weight

NOTHING can be much more discouraging to the mother than failure of the baby to gain weight. Worse than this, however, is to see the little one wasting away.

DR. COPELAND

There are several causes for failure to develop. Perhaps the most serious one, because it is a defect in the constitution of the child, is a weakness dating to birth.

We speak of those troubles with which we are born as "congenital" defects. Some of the wasting ailments of babies are due to congenital causes.

Among such is congenital heart disease. This may show itself by enlargement of the heart, or by failure in its normal action.

Many a wasted or undernourished baby is in that condition because of the parent's neglect of the ordinary rules of hygiene. It isn't pleasant to say this, but it is a fact. I know, however, that such neglect is not wilful. It comes from ignorance.

Really there is no excuse these days for ignorance in the upbringing of a child. There are so many agencies, as well as highly trained physicians, that no mother need be without the best medical advice.

If your baby does not gain weight do not fail to find out why. Don't ask the neighbors. Consult a good doctor, or go to a hospital clinic or baby health station. Get the very best advice you can find.

The foundation of health is laid in childhood. What the adult is to be depends to a very considerable extent upon the care given the infant. Never forget this.

In one talk with a well-informed person the mother can learn the simple rules of hygiene. When they are applied to the upbringing of the child, all will go well.

Improper feeding is a common cause for failure of development. The breast milk may lack the growing elements. Of if it is fed from a bottle, the food given the baby may not be prepared properly. What may seem like a trifling change in the method of feeding may start the child on the road to health.

All the time I am telling you about the dangers of infections. Just as localized or general infections may impair the health of adults, so they may undermine the health of a baby.

Tuberculosis, abscess of the ear, pus conditions of the kidneys, chronic bronchitis—any one of these and others may be responsible for failure of growth. Chronic stomach trouble is another factor of importance.

Every baby should be weighed regularly. A record should be kept and the greatest care used to make sure there is satisfactory growth.

At birth the average baby weighs about 7½ pounds. The healthy child is likely to treble in weight during the first year, reaching 20 or 21 pounds on the first birthday. Unless there is a gain of at least four ounces a week after the first week, you should look for a reason.

Wasting is a bad sign. If you do not observe the proper increase in weight and appearance of the baby, consult somebody who can advise you.

2.—What would you advise for very oily hair? Two days after washing it will be as oily as if it had not been shampooed.

2—The general condition of the health has a great bearing on the condition of the scalp and hair. With better general health you will probably notice quite an improvement throughout your entire system. A tonic is most helpful.

S. K. Q.—Is hair dye harmful to the hair?

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

CABBAGE, DUTCH FASHION

SHRED a head of cabbage fine and boil in salted water, uncovered, for five minutes, then drain. Put two tablespoons of butter and a large chopped onion in a saucepan, cook slightly. Add the cabbage and two large tart apples, sliced. Cook on back of stove, stirring occasionally. Add one-half cup cream or milk.

* * *

CABBAGE WITH SOUR SAUCE

CUT a small head of cabbage into eighths, then soak in cold water. Boil in salted water 20 minutes. Beat an egg until it is light, add it to a cup of thick cream. Put four tablespoons of oil and four tablespoons of vinegar, mix and add two tablespoons sugar. Stir constantly until it reaches boiling point then stir it into egg and cream. Put all in saucepan. Add drained cabbage and heat over fire until boiling point is reached.

* * *

CINNAMON BUNS—Sift 2 cups of flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon of salt and 2 tablespoons sugar together. Rub in 3 tablespoons of butter, add ½ cup of top milk, and mix well. Roll on a floured board to ¼ inch thickness. Brush well with butter—allow about 2 tablespoons of butter for this—2 tablespoons of sugar and a teaspoon of cinnamon. Roll like a jelly roll and cut in ¾-inch slices. Put cut side down on a greased pan and bake in a quick oven for 15 minutes (425 degrees F.). Serve hot. This recipe makes about a dozen buns.

* * *

CHEESE STICKS—Sift a cup of flour, ¼ teaspoon of baking powder, and ½ teaspoon of salt. Cut 3 tablespoons of butter well into it, then add a cup of a grated bite-y cheese, then 4 tablespoons of ice water and a dash of cayenne pepper. Mix well, then roll on a floured board as thin as can be handled. Cut in strips 5 inches long and ¼ inch wide. Bake on a greased biscuit sheet in a moderate oven. Care should be taken to keep the sticks from becoming too brown.

* * *

CUP CAKES—Cream 4 tablespoons of shortening, add a cup of sugar gradually and mix thoroughly. Beat 2 eggs well until very light, and stir into the shortening and sugar. Measure the dry ingredients—consisting of 2 2-3 cups flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon of salt—and sift twice. Add ½ cup milk and the dry ingredients alternately to the shortening, the sugar and egg, mixing until smooth. Add a teaspoon of vanilla. Put into greased pans and bake in a moderate oven for from 20 to 25 minutes. Ice with orange icing, if you like.

* * *

HONEY FUDGE—Boil 2½ cups of sugar, ¼ cup of honey and ¼ cup water to the soft ball stage. Pour one cup of the syrup on the beaten whites of two eggs, stirring meanwhile. Boil the remainder of the syrup until it makes a hard ball in cold water; then combine the two, stirring briskly. Add a cup of peanuts, and stir until it begins to thicken. Then beat until it hardens, pour on a buttered pan and cut in squares.

* * *

HONEY POPCORN BALLS—Stir 3 tablespoons of honey, 2 cups of sugar, ½ cup of water and add 2 tablespoons of apple vinegar together, and boil until it hardens when dropped into cold water. Then pour over 2 gallons of popped corn, and mix well. Dampen the hands in cold water and form the corn into balls.

* * *

LOBSTER CUTLETS—Chop the lobster very fine, add a half cup of cream, one tablespoon butter, salt and pepper to taste, one tablespoon of flour, three well-beaten eggs, one teaspoon chopped parsley. Bring all ingredients to the boiling point, but do not boil. Then put one side to cool. When cool, mold into cutlets and dip in egg and bread crumbs; fry in hot fat. Place a small claw in the end of each cutlet. If you prefer, use shrimp or any cold cooked fish instead of the lobster.

* * *

PEANUT ICE CREAM—Grind peanut brittle through a food grinder and sprinkle lavishly over your ice cream servings. You'll find the taste of your new-flavored ice cream novel and delicious.

* * *

MOLASSES CAKE—Cream together one cup of butter and one cup of sugar. Add 3 eggs, well beaten. Now add a cup of molasses, a cup of cold coffee, 3 cups of flour into which a teaspoon of soda has been sifted, and salt to taste. Then the spices, a rounded teaspoon of cinnamon and ¼-teaspoon of cloves. Bake in a moderate oven with whipped cream on top.

* * *

APPLE BUTTER—Wash and remove all decayed or discolored spots from the apples. Core and slice the fruit. To each gallon of sliced apples add three quarts of sweet cider. Then cook the apples with the cider until they are tender. Pass through a sieve, and to the pulp add a pound of brown sugar, a teaspoon each of ground cloves, allspice and cinnamon. Cook until thick, then put in sterilized glass or stone jars, and seal. This is a wonderful spread for the children.

* * *

CRANBERRY STRUDEL—Roll a pie crust into an oblong sheet a quarter of an inch thick. Mix together a cup of brown sugar, a half cup chopped seeded raisins and four cups of chopped cranberries; spread the mixture over the pastry. Roll as for a jelly roll and fasten the ends securely. Place in a greased baking pan and bake in a slow oven 45 minutes. Cool; remove from the pan by cutting in two-inch squares; dust with powdered sugar.

* * *

HONEY DROP COOKIES—Two eggs, 1 cup honey, ½ cup butter, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1½ teaspoons caraway seed, pinch salt, about 3 cups flour. Beat eggs, honey and butter together. Use enough flour to make a stiff dough, about three cups measured after one sifting, with the baking powder sifted in. Drop with teaspoon on buttered tin. Bake until brown.

* * *

COFFEE CAKE—Cream half a cup of sugar and one-third cup of shortening, then add a beaten egg. Beat for a few minutes. Add ½ teaspoon of salt, a scant cup of milk, and, lastly, 2¼ cups of flour, sifted with 2 teaspoons of baking powder. Weather Conditions.

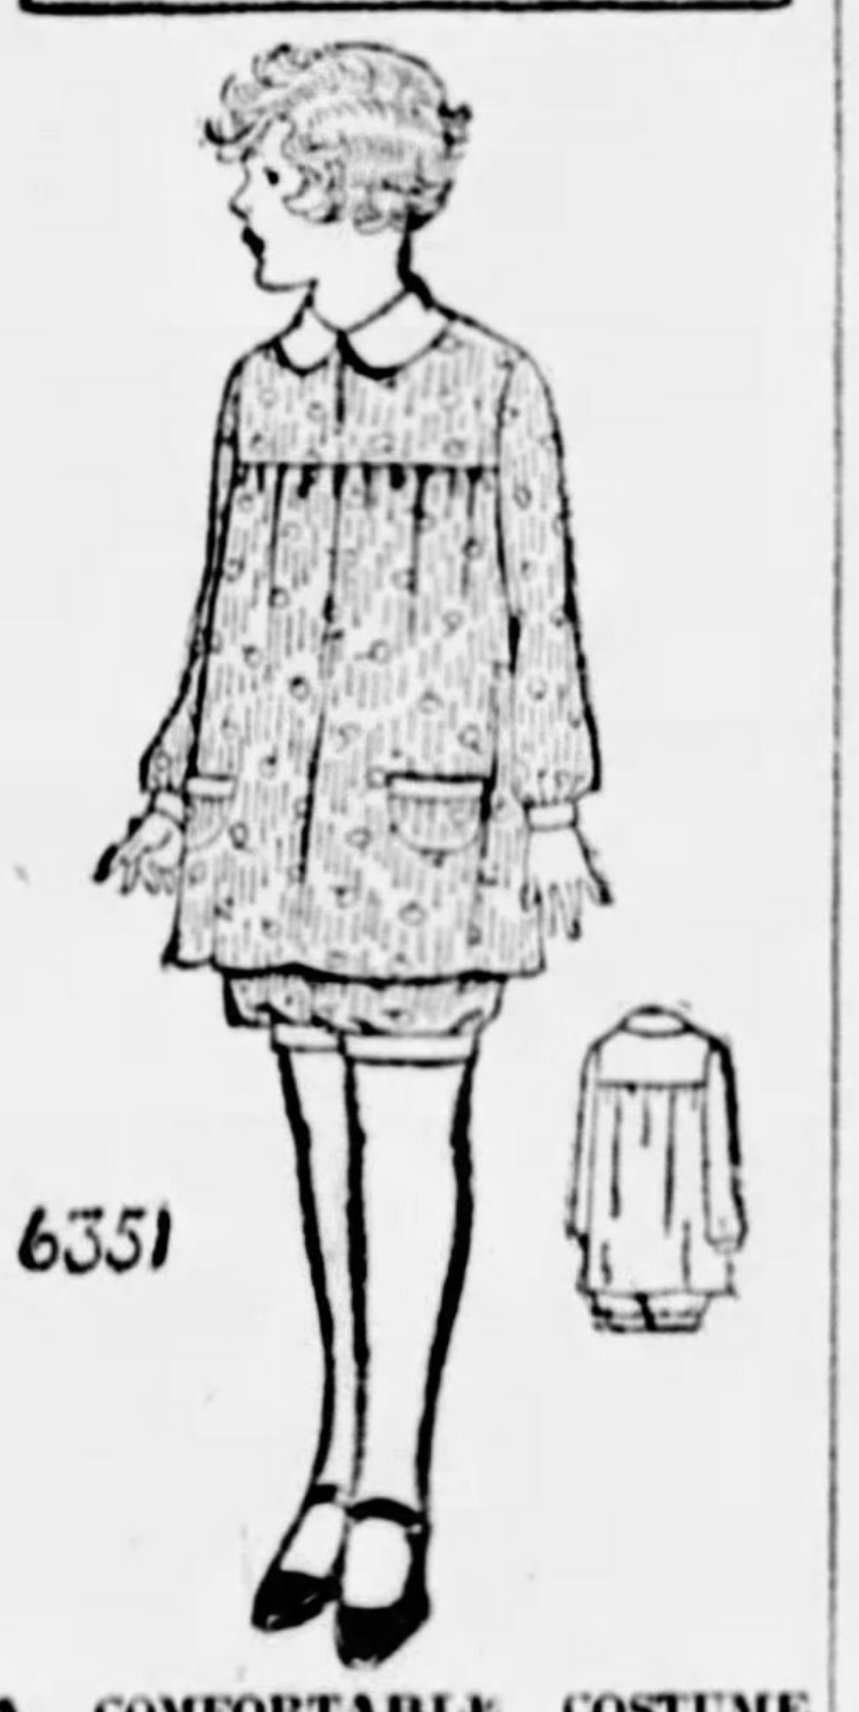
The disturbance that appeared over Texas yesterday morning moved up the Mississippi valley. This morning it is centered over upper Lake Michigan, lowest barometer reported was 29.16 inches, at Green Bay, Wis. The disturbance produced rain, sleet and snow over the entire eastern half of the country. The fall was generally light, but heavy in Southern Indiana and Southern Illinois. The disturbance will pass this section far to the north, therefore, not much more rain is expected in this district. Following the rainstorm the skies are clear over the Plains states with low temperatures. The zero line extneds as far south as Northern Kansas and Missouri, and over the border states the temperatures are from 20 to 30 degrees below zero.

River Conditions.

The precipitation was generally light over the district, and much of it was in the form of snow and sleet. Consequently the runoff will be light, and no material rise in the rivers is expected. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.0 feet; Dam No. 2, 7.9, and Dam No. 6, 15.4. The dams are down.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A COMFORTABLE COSTUME FOR SCHOOL OR PLAY

A dress with bloomers is ideal for the little girl of kindergarten or school age. The model here portrayed has a square yoke gathered. A soft round collar finishes the neck edge above a slash and dear little pockets trim the front. The sleeve is full at the wrist where it joins a band cuff. The blomers, in regulation style are finished with leg bands. Printed zephyr was chosen in this instance, with facings of crepe on collar, pockets and band cuffs. Light weight woolens are recommended for warmth; pongee or repp, cotton broadcloth, and linen are also good.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. To make the dress for a 6-year size will require 3¼ yards of 36 inch material together with ¼ yard of contrasting material for facings on pockets, collar, cuffs and leg bands.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR: WCAE HAS NEW COMEDY FEATURES

WINCHELL OF BROADWAY HEADS KDKA PROGRAM

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

"GUS AND LOUIE," a new feature from WCAE at 9:30 o'clock, impresses us as something that listeners will like. "Gus" is the affluent proprietor of the village garage and his partner, "Louie," has an aspiration to play the big bass horn in the village band. We can visualize a little comedy in this presentation.

Two well-known performers will appear before the microphone. They are Henry Burr, tenor, and Walter Winchell, chronicler of things Broadwayan. Burr will be heard over WCAE at 8 o'clock, while Winchell will make his second appearance with the Hudson-Essex Challengers over KDKA at 10:01 p. m.

MORE ABOUT ELEPHANTS

Elephants cause more curiosity at a circus than any other feature, according to "Uncle Bob" Sherwood, old-time clown, who will speak during the Dixie Circus over KDKA at 7:30 o'clock.

"Only a Rose" from "The Vagabond King" will be given as a soprano solo and "Clap Yo' Hands" will be a chorus number on the Quakers' concert at 8:30 o'clock.

Smalle and Robertson will give a "Medley of Old Timers" on the Wrigley Review at 9 p. m. The orchestra will play "Slavonic Dance." Pre-war numbers will be offered on the Philco Hour at 9:30 o'clock.

Al Bernard and Billy Beard will sing "Just the Type for Me" at 6:30 o'clock through WCAE.

VARIETY AT WJAS

There are two places they can travel—to the British Isles at 6:45 or to the seacoast of Georgia with May and Bob at 9 o'clock. Or, better yet, they can hop a train and go several places on the Then and Now affair at 8:30 p. m.

Just one glance at the "Winter's Night" program at 10:02 o'clock sends a chill down the spine.

But if fans are looking for love, inspiration and the moon, and they want to forget about the slush that has been on Pittsburgh streets the last few days, they should have the dials properly fixed for WJAS at 10:30 o'clock.

ON A DIAL VISIT

If listeners are inclined to "roam the dials" tonight they may find lots of good things at stations outside the city.

An old fiddlers contest is the attraction at WOS at 9:10 o'clock and the Police Quartet will take time off for a short broadcast from WBAP at 10:45 p. m.

Drdla's "Serenade" will be heard on the dinner concert from WLW at 6:30 o'clock. Ted Weems and his orchestra will be heard from this station at 10:30 p. m. and again at midnight, followed at 12:30 a. m. by the Gondolyrics in "LaPaloma," "The Old Refrain" and Massenet's "Meditation."

At 11 o'clock WJZ, WLW, WRC, WHAS and KSTP will offer "Marche Militaire" and Reverie from "Suite Algerienne," both by Saint-Saens, Larghetto from "Symphony No. 2," by Beethoven, and Grieg's "Solveig Song" will be other selections.

Article by Hamp To Be in Sunday Sun-Telegraph

The first of a series of personally signed articles by popular radio stars will appear in Sunday's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Charles W. Hamp, popular entertainer at KDKA, writes of his first experience in a broadcasting station, back in 1923, and in his own inimitable style discusses radio as an entertainment. Readers will enjoy this new feature, which will be found in the regular radio section.

This story concerns a young girl whom everyone considers very quiet and bashful and who has had very little opportunity to know men. Clarke Deal Recalled
Sale Price Only $100
Wagner Brings $2,200

Game Lures McCreery
Good Hockey Prospect
Sharkey Looks Winner

CORBETT-MITCHELL ANNIVERSARY

THE vast changes that have taken place in baseball, particularly with regard to the prices paid to minor league clubs for young players of promise, were brought out forcibly yesterday during a visit paid to Pirate headquarters by John J. McCloskey. That veteran diamond figure, several years ago a Pittsburgh scout, who has managed clubs in almost every league in the country, and who is now pilot of the Akron (O.) team in the Central League, dropped in at Forbes Field for a social call on President Barney Dreyfuss, and while the two were fanning over old times they revealed the details of the deal that brought Fred Clarke into the big show.

Fred Clarke

Back in 1894 President Dreyfuss was operating the Louisville National League Club, and McCloskey was manager of the minor league club that held title to Clarke's services. After a series of conferences an agreement was finally reached calling for the sale of Clarke to the Louisville club for the princely sum of $100, and McCloskey was accused of pulling some high finance later when he demanded $100 more before he would deliver Fred to the Colonels.

MODERN fans, accustomed to seeing big league clubs paying from $50,000 to $100,000 for outstanding minor league youngsters who may or may not make good, will find it hard to believe that a player of Clarke's caliber ever was put on the block for a sum that would not buy much more than a score card in present-day baseball.

Just how much a recruit with the ability of Clarke, and at the age of only 21, as Fred was then, would bring in the market today is a question. Even thinking about it is enough to make the average fan's head swim. "And that wasn't all," said President Dreyfuss, in discussing the deal, "for less than three years later, or in 1897, we bought Honus Wagner from Paterson for $2,200. That was the highest price ever paid for a minor league ball player up to that time. Just try to imagine what a player like Honus would cost today.'

ACCORDING to reports from Boston, there is a prospect that James E. Gaffney may come back to baseball. Friends are urging him to make an offer for the National League Club in the Hub if other business interests will not prevent him from returning to the diamond sport.

It was through Gaffney that the Boston club got its nickname. Under the presidency of Arthur Soden the Hubites were known as the Beaneaters; under George and John Dovey as the Doves and under W. Hepburn Russell as the Rustlers. When Gaffney became president of the club in 1912, to remain until he sold out to Percy Haughton and associates in 1916, the team was called the Braves because of Gaffney's former connection with Tammany Hall and the nickname has stuck. Gaffney still owns Braves Field, which is merely leased by the present owners of the club.

James E. Gaffney

ANOTHER well-known baseball figure of the past who wants to hook up with the game again is your old friend Tom McCreery, of the Beaver valley. McCreery has been engaged in other lines of business for many years, but always has kept in close touch with the diamond sport, and now he expresses a desire to come back to it as a major league scout or in some other capacity. Tom broke into the majors as a pitcher for Louisville in 1896, but was shifted to the outfield on account of his hitting ability. He batted .351 in 1896, and finished above the .300 mark in three other seasons later.

McCREERY, who also played in the infield at times, remained with Louisville in 1897. He started the season of 1898 with the Giants, but in June was released at his own request and joined the Pirates. Clarence Beaumont displaced him in center field here in June of 1899, but McCreery was carried as utility man until the end of the 1900 race.

In 1901 he was with Brooklyn, playing between two pretty fair outfielders named Willie Keeler and Jimmy Sheckard, until displaced by Harry Dolan in August. Tom was sent to Minneapolis, was recalled by Brooklyn in July of 1903, and in September was sent to the Boston Nationals, with which club he finished the season and wound up his major league career.

JUDGING from the eagerness that other clubs have shown to get him at any cost, one of the best young prospects in the minor ice leagues has been landed for the Pittsburgh hockey team in the person of Speeder Wasnie.

That promising wingman, now on the Pirate reserve list, is a member of the Newark (N. J.) club, and is regarded as the best player in his league, according to Sprague Cleghorn, brother of the Pittsburgh skipper, who is manager of the team.

Sprague Cleghorn

NEW evidence of the favorable impression that Wasnie has made upon good hockey judges in the majors comes to light in a report that Les Canadiens offered two players and a bundle of cash for him, and that the Black Hawks also have tried to purchase him. The boy was tried out by the Hawks two years ago, but was not yet ripe and was turned loose. Sprague Cleghorn declares he is now ready for the big show and predicts that he will make good. Wasnie is of rugged build, and is said to be a hard player to stop, a fast skater and a fine shot.

ODIE CLEGHORN has made several efforts to induce the Newark club to turn Wasnie over to the Pirates at once, but Sprague has refused to let the recruit go, saying that he is his whole team, and that he will be kept until Newark no longer has a chance in the race.

However, the Pirate management hopes to have Wasnie on hand for the final games of the National League season. This, it is figured, will give the local club an opportunity of getting a good line on him, and also will enable the lad to become acquainted with Pittsburgh's style of play, so that, if he makes the grade, he will be able to step right in at the beginning of next season. It will save any experimenting with Wasnie next fall, Odie reasons.

EVERYTHING considered, the chances appear to favor a victory for Jack Sharkey over K. O. Christner in tonight's heavyweight fistic argument in New York. It all depends on whether or not Sharkey will be able to avoid making his usual mistake fighting the wrong way.

Christner is tough, can take it and has a dangerous punch, but

COLUMBUS GETS NEIS

PITT READY FOR ARMY TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER

Johnny Irwin's Carnegie Tech basketeers will get their second crack at a Tri-State Conference team tonight. The Tartans are hosts to the invading Titans of Westminster, the same Titans who are experiencing such difficulties in holding their place in the Little Six. Geneva, present Conference ruler, was beaten by Carnegie here two weeks ago in the only game Tech has won in two years.

Westminster rambled through the campaign a year ago and emerged with the championship in its possession. Some sensational performances during the first part of the race enabled the United Presbyterians to come through, as the going became exceedingly rough as the season waned.

TITANS IN-AND-OUTERS

So far this year, Westminster has only been partially successful. After walloping Grove City at Grove City, the Blue and White ran into trouble aplenty at Meadville, and only upset the sophomore Allegheny team by a 27-26 score. Duquesne was defeated in a protested game and then Geneva downed the champs, 18-15, at Beaver Falls last week.

Inasmuch as Westminster is known to have a powerful scoring aggregation, when on, the visitors will be favorites over Tech tonight. Carnegie's fine second-half showing against Pitt Wednesday night has caused the stock of the Plaid to take a rise. The contest should be a close one.

PITT ABOUT READY

PITT is just about ready for the Army. The Panthers displayed an improved brand of basketball against Carnegie Tech the other night, principally because the boys passed better and worked the ball in close with far more dispatch and cleverness than they did against West Virginia. Charley Hyatt took eight shots at the hoop all night and dropped in five of them. He passed the rest of the evening.

Coach Carlson will not be able to release a starting lineup until game time tomorrow. It is possible that the combination which is selected to take the floor against the Soldiers will be different from any that has been used by the Golden Cats so far this year. Rube Anderson may get the job at center, and Les Cohen can be shifted to a forward, benching Paul Zeyfuss. Zeyfuss, a fine player, has been unable to get started this year. He went on the Western trip, suffering from a heavy cold, got off to a mediocre start and hasn't been able to hit his stride.

SOLDIERS STRONG

The Army will endeavor to protect and add to a nine-game winning streak against Pitt. Besides, the Cadets would like to secure revenge for the defeat suffered on their own West Point court last season. Middlebury, Columbia, McGill, Princeton, Bucknell, Dickinson, New York University, Lehigh and Delaware have fallen before the attack of the Soldiers so far.

FROTH

MESSRS. SHAUGHENCY, Schnupp, Yerina, Harpster and Sweet of Carnegie Tech, were sensational in the role of ushers at the last Pitt-Tech game...... They had a perfect record of not finding anyone a seat but themselves ....Though the entire crowd assisted Capt. John Dreshar and friend upon arrival......Don Harrison of Pitt, wishes to deny that he has ordered the Pitt band to play "The Star-Spangled Banner" every time an Army man starts a shot tomorrow night.... New York's verb rodeo will be resumed tonight......K. O. Christner and Jack Sharkey, the gab champs, meet......May the best infinitive win.........Henry Levy looks more like Jack Dempsey every day......Both are still walking on their toes, too.......Is there any good excuse for cheer leaders?......Especially at a basketball game?......Adios.

Hornet, DeMolay Ice Sixes Clash Tonight

The DeMolay and Hornet ice sextets are to meet in a West Penn Amateur Hockey League game at Duquesne Garden at 7:30 this evening. The Hornets, eager to maintain their position among the league leaders, are expected to show plenty of fight and are favored to grab the decision.

ROSIES-CELTICS TOUR HERE IS SUCCESS

By JULIUS LEVIN.

DRAWING capacity crowds in every city in which they have appeared on their present exhibition tour, the Cleveland Rosenblum-Celtics have contributed much toward reviving interest in local professional basketball activities. Every team fortunate in closing negotiations with the famed American Leaguers not only has realized a good profit, but has treated its supporters to one of the finest attractions staged in this section.

Three more exhibition games in this vicinity remain on the Rosies' schedule before they head South to meet the best professional teams below the Mason and Dixon line. Tonight Manager Rose takes his big leaguers to Washington, Pa., to engage the crack Moose team of that city. The Moose quintet this season has met and defeated some of the best teams in the Tri-state district and it hopes to make a favorable impression against the Ohioans.

DRAW BIG CROWDS

That the Rosies are drawing capacity crowds is shown by the favorable reports received from every town in which they have appeared. In Cumberland last Sunday a capacity crowd turned out to see them in action against the Caseys and as a result more than $400 was Cleveland's share of the receipts. The next night in Altoona the management was forced to turn away more than 500 fans who were unable to gain admittance, while Tuesday's game at Homestead also drew a crowd, this in spite of the bad weather. The game with the Goldensons Wednesday likewise attracted a colorful turnout to the South Side Market House. Last night the Rosies played in Uniontown, tonight they appear in Washington, while tomorrow they will be the attraction at Butler.

Butler always has been a hot-bed for professional basketball and preparations have been made to handle a capacity crowd for the Rosies' battle. The Butler Armco team, including Whitey Littell in its lineup, will be the opponent of the Rosies.

VANITIES IMPRESSIVE

Forced to play independent ball due to their inability to obtain a franchise in the Pioneer Girls' League, a loop they helped to organize, the Goldenson Vanities nevertheless are compiling a brilliant record.

The South Side girls, who have been playing together for a number of years, are without the least doubt one of the finest feminine teams operating in this vicinity, thanks to excellent coaching of Kit McNamara, former University of Pittsburgh star.

The Goldenson Vanities are evading no opponent in an effort to meet the strongest clubs in their class. Standing out in the fine showing of the team has been Mary Good, whose excellent work at forward has contributed immensely to the Vanities' success.

The Vanities are ready to meet all first-class teams at home and abroad. Games may be arranged by writing Helen Kasputis, 1226 Carson street, or calling Hemlock 2558.

PERRY HIGH WIN TODAY WILL AID SOUTH HILLS

PERRY HIGH SCHOOL has it within its power to do South Hills a big favor today. South Hills and Oliver are tied for lead in Section Two of the City League and Perry plays Oliver this afternoon on the Perrysville floor. If Perry can score a victory, Oliver will fall from grace and South Hills will rule alone, provided the Lyonsmen win their game against Carrick.

In Section One, where there are three teams in a tie for the lead, Schenley can ruin Peabody's chance of sticking up among the elite by taking the East Enders. If Gross' team comes through, South and Fifth will be tied for the lead and Schenley and Peabody will divide second place for the time being.

But if Peabody wins, and the boys seem to think it will, then the East Enders will slip into uncontested possession of the lead, with four games won and one lost.

ALLEGHENY MAY CLIMB

In addition to the Perry-Oliver and South Hills-Carrick games in Section Two, Allegheny and Langley will clash in a contest that seems bound to afford the North Siders an opportunity to climb to a higher position in the race.

All in all, it looks like an exciting afternoon for the high school basketballers.

There is action aplenty carded for the old W. P. I. A. L. The feature game appears to be the Duquesne-Homestead tussle at Duquesne. The quintets seem to be evenly matched, with Duquesne enjoying a slight edge as far as tonight's contest is concerned because the game is to be played on the Duke floor. Bill Campbell's team is a clever one, and with the Section Seven title dangling as the prize, is a hot shot to come through.

BRIGHTON-BUTLER MEET

New Brighton and Butler will meet at Butler in a Section Three game of much importance. A victory for either club will carry with it practical assurance of the title. Latrobe and Uniontown are booked for a battle in Section Ten that should pack 'em in. Waynesburg, defeated by Monessen Tuesday in Section Five, will try to get started again by downing Donora. Waynesburg will be forced to function tonight without the help of Coach Zook, who has been called to his home in Illinois by the death of a sister.

Mickey Cochrane Balks at Trade

PHILADELPHIA Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Mickey Cochrane, star catcher of the Athletics, expressed no desire today to be traded to Boston or another American League club. He wants to stay with the A's.

Cochrane, who has returned his contract unsigned said," I hope my present disagreement with Connie Mack will soon be settled. I want to be with the boys when they start for the southern training camp."

Reports from Boston said, the American League's most valuable player of last year, would go to the Red Sox in exchange for big Ed Morris, pitcher, and Ira Flagstead, an outfielder.

Rex Beach Meets Rice in Golf Final

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Rex Beach, the novelist, will meet Grantland Rice, the sports authority, today in the final match of the annual Writers' and Artists' golf tournament here. Rice is defending champion.

Beach went into the finals by elimating Jefferson Machamer, the cartoonist, 2 and 1. Rice advanced over A. W. Schepp, of St. Louis, three and two.

Billy Evans May Attend Gruber Banquet

Billy Evans, veteran major league umpire, sports scribe and now business manager of the Cleveland Indians, may be one of the honor guests at the testimonial banquet for John H. Gruber, dean of the local baseball writers, to be held on the night of February 14 in the William Penn Hotel.

In answer to an invitation extended him by the committee, Billy said his plans for next month were indefinite because of the large amount of traveling he has to do, but he will try to shape up his affairs so he will be able to be on hand.

CELTICS' FRONT LINE STRONG

By TOM BIRKS

TOM EDWARDS, genial mentor of the Pittsburgh Celtics, came to bat last evening with the remark that the forward line that will oppose the Corinthians at Leslie Park tomorrow in the national amateur cup will be the fastest front line ever operated in Western Pennsylvania.

Well, that is quite a boast, but Edwards seemed sincere in his statement. Of course, the fans are well acquainted with Jimmy Dunlop's speed, but Hones' leading of the line will be something new for Lawrenceville fans. The young junior from the Chartiers Valley League played one game with the Celtics and it is understood he played a good part in its victory over Pittsburgh.

Tri-Boro fans show just as much interest in the appearance of the Donnelli brothers at Swissvale on Saturday when they oppose the Union Switch and Signal defense.

Fontela has been playing a wonderful game in goal, and seems to divine just where the ball is going. Tomorrow, however, he will be facing Buff Donnelli, the greatest soccer football shot ever to wear an amateur boot. Buff makes all goalkeepers look alike and the Heidelberg contingent, while admitting Fontela is a real goalie, expects Buff to dent the net aplenty.

Manager Balsarini also stated last evening that Berky Jones, Western Pennsylvania's only Olympic player, will be at center half. Many rumors have been going the rounds that Jones had departed for Cleveland to play with Slavia. This was true to a certain extent. Berky went down to Cleveland when the Slavia representatives promised him a job. Jones was wise, however, and refused to sign until the job was a realty. Slavia never came through with the job and Jones boarded the next train for Pittsburgh.

Both the Leslie Park and Swissvale games are sure to play to the largest crowds of the season. Swissvale, led by Jack Thomas, is keyed for its clash with the Green and Gold Tornado from Heidelberg, two years national champion. Much rivalry will be on tap when the Celtics and Corinthians tangle. The Celtics and Union Switch openly boast their entry into the next round—well, we will see.

PROFIO BEATS YOUNG RUDY

Profio's knockdown of Rudy in the seventh, when the latter took a count of nine following a hard right to the head determined the result. Both fighters took and gave a lot of punishment.

Young Guido, of Sharon, was knocked out in the second round by Allen Beatty, staging a comeback after a long layoff, in a scheduled six-round affair. It was a hard right to Guido's midsection that did the work. It was thought for a time the blow was foul; investigation proved it to have been fair.

Jack Unglo, of Etna, was beaten by the more experienced Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, in six rounds, while Jimmy Morrow, of Aliquippa, lost the opener to Harry Spencer, of Washington, Pa.

Arrest Three Who Poisoned Horses

HAVANA, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Vandals at an early hour yesterday entered the stall occupied by Prinella and Sundance and administered a dose of chloral to them. The outrage was discovered shortly after and a search was instituted for the culprits. Three men were later arrested. One of them was said to have admitted the deed. They were turned over to the local police.

The horses were burned about the mouth, but not of a nature to impair their racing ability and veterinary surgeons report they will recover. They were entered in the second race yesterday, a Cuban-owned affair, and as a result the race was declared off and another substituted. The men arrested are Cubans who have been employed as rubbers by different trainers here and in the states.

FLUKE GOAL PAVES WAY FOR CHAMPIONS' WIN OVER LOCAL SIX

By CARL W. SHATTO.

JOE MILLER, Pirate goalie, is convinced that a sphere rather than a disc should be used for a puck in hockey. When a round object hits a smooth surface it invariably bounces straight ahead, but when a round, flat piece of hard rubber hits the ice it is liable to bounce any way except backward.

Goalie Joe gained first-hand information on the deceptiveness of a bouncing puck at Duquesne Garden last night when Benny Leonard's ice Pirates battled the world champion New York Rangers, for it was a wayward bounce of the rubber disc that gave the invaders their first goal and paved the way for the 3-to-1 triumph which they scored over the Pittsburgh club.

The freak bounce, which bruised the feelings of some 5,500 local fans, marked the finish of a home run drive by Bun Cook, flashy New York wingman, just 51 seconds before the close of the second period. The Rangers had one man in the penalty box at the time and were playing a defensive game. Cook gained possession of the puck near the New York cage. He didn't want it in his territory because the Bucs were attacking vigorously in an effort to cash in on their advantage in man power, and so he slammed it toward the Pirate end of the rink before he reached center ice.

PUCK BOUNCES IN

High and far the disc soared, but neither so high nor so far that Goalie Joe couldn't see it, and he stepped right into its path as it dropped at his feet. And then came the bounce! Imagine Miller's embarrassment when the disc, hopping at a tangent, jumped right by him into the cage!

The goal was scored on one of the longest drives in the history of hockey, and it was the deciding factor in the fight. The locals, trailing, had to cast discretion to the winds, and when a team has to throw a defense man into the attack the opposition generally gets a golden scoring chance. The Rangers got their chance after 12 minutes of play in the third period, when Thompson stole the puck from a band of advancing Pirates, and skated down on top of Miller. Joe deflected Thompson's shot, but Oatman, following his mate down the ice, took the puck on the rebound and flicked it over the prostrate Pirate goalie for tally number two.

COTTON TALLIES

About a minute later Cotton and White duplicated the Thompson-Oatman act for the Pirates' only goal. White carried the disc into scoring territory and brought Roach, Ranger net guardian, down with a low shot, and Cotton, following Tex in, captured the puck on the rebound and lifted it over the prostrate goalie and into the net.

Another long shot, by Bourgault, netted the champions their third goal, one and one-half minutes before the close of the game. He started his drive from out beyond the blue line, and Miller—well, Miller just missed it.

The Ranger victory nipped in the bud the Pirate spurt of two straight wins, and kept them from gaining on Boston and Detroit, the Bucs' money berth rivals, who were idle.

The battle, as was expected, was saturated with fast, thrilling action from start to finish. Frederickson playing under the severe handicap of a badly gashed cheek, gave an exceptionally game exhibition, and almost every man on the local club broke through to make a strong scoring bid at one time or another.

W. & J. ELECTS 'JAP DOUDS '29 LEADER

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 25.—Forrest (Jap) Douds, of Rochester, Pa., recognized as one of the outstanding collegiate line players in the nation, has been elected captain of the Washington and Jefferson College football squad for 1929.

He received three-fourths the vote of the eligible letter men as required at the local institution. Due to this ruling, a deadlock existed for some weeks with Don Malcolm, of Indiana, Pa., and Bob Secrist, of Vandergrift, Pa., also actively in the field. Secrist withdrew when a new attempt was made to select a leader and Douds was chosen.

Douds had the distinction of being utility lineman on Grantland Rice's all-America team this year and was given an equal high rating by other critics.

Douds' election was popularly acclaimed by the student body. He ranks as one of the greatest linemen in the history of football at W. & J., being considered on a par with Wilbur Henry and Russell Stein who were named all-America tackles by the late Walter Camp, Henry being termed as one of the greatest in all-time history in football.

During the past season, Douds was handicapped in all the major games as a result of a leg injury suffered early in the season and a skyrocket mishap last Fourth of July which nearly caused a permanent injury.

Despite his crippled condition he played brilliantly. He came to W. & J. from Bellefonte Academy.

RICKARD and the RING

By JACK DEMPSEY,
World's Greatest Ring Idol

Jack Through With Ring

IF TEX RICKARD had lived, the chances are that I would have climbed through the ropes again in September for the last fight of my career, and with that battle marking Tex Rickard's farewell as a fistic promoter.

But Tex has gone from us. All things have changed. The secret pact that we had made ended with his tragic passing. My conditional promise to fight again so that he might perhaps realize his final ambition of "just one more million dollar gate" is automatically shattered by the tragedy that took him from us.

And so my attitude again is the same as it was after that Chicago fight in 1927, when I put Gene Tunney on the floor for 14 or more seconds and still was unable to regain the lost crown: "I'm through."

No one took me seriously at the time I made that announcement—except Tex. Then, because of some odd twists and strange twirlings of fate, my pal, who alone believed that I meant to quit the game became the most insistent of all humans in the world that I should one more don the mittens and go back to the ring wars—as something of a friendly favor to him.

Immediately after I lost the second division to Tunney, Tex asked what my plans were. I told him I was going to retire; that every ring man had to quit sooner or later and realizing that my best years were behind me, I was going to quit.

Tex made no dissenting remark. In fact, he agreed that my course was a sane one; that retirement at a time when I had all my faculties and all the money I might need was wise.

Proof of how he felt about my determination is that he dealt me out of the picture in 1928. He knew I meant what I said about quitting; never tried to coax me back—until after the Tunney-Heeney financial flop last July. And then there was a change—a mighty one in Tex and his ideas concerning my future.

FAILURE WAS BLOW

That venture was the first real failure of Tex Rickard's promotional life time. It hit him a jolt; one much harder than he ever was willing to concede. The money loss meant nothing. The hurt came to his pride; it hurt him to think that, with a world's champion in one corner, an international ringman in another, and with wealthy New York to draw from, the loss was about the greatest in modern ring history.

Tex communicated with me almost immediately afterward; he told me he had something "mighty important" to talk about, and we arranged for a little pow-wow. And the first words that Tex popped at me were: "You're going to fight again." "No, I'm through," I said.

"You're going to fight again," Tex insisted, looking me squarely in the eye. "You've got to fight again—for my sake."

"Listen here," he went on. "I'm tired of this promoting thing. If that show (Tunney and Heeney) had gone over, I might be announcing my own retirement right now. But it was a bust—and I'm not quitting this business with a failure as my finish. Understand? I've got to put on another million dollar show before I quit. And, with you in one corner, I can do it."

I started to reiterate that I was through; that I didn't care to keep on until I ran the risk of getting "punch drunk." Tex, impatient, broke in on me:

"Another dozen fights won't make you 'punch drunk'—and all I'm asking is that you fight one more for me next year—1929. You've got to do it."

"What do you mean—that stuff about you're going to quit?" I asked, my curiosity being aroused by that rather surprising statement.

Tex answered:

"I'm tired of the game—too much work and worry and fretting. I've got my wad—got enough to last a lifetime. I'm not as spry as I used to be—and not so hopped up any more about this racket. I'm getting pretty close to 60. A feller's got to slow down sometime or other—and I'm going to do that as soon as I can put on another million dollar show and shut up those fellows who are kidding me about the Tunney-Heeney bloomer."

Tex was never a sustained talker. He would go along for a paragraph or two and pause and make you think he was all through. But if you didn't interrupt he would pick up the story and go on. So I said nothing. Tex chewed his cigar, looked out the window at the light sunshine, and resumed:

WANTED TO QUIT

"Remember telling me that I ought to do some playing, take a rest and get some fun out of my money? That's what I figured doing if that fight had been a success. It wasn't. I've got to put over another winner—then I can quit. And I tell you I want to quit."

Again Tex paused, then went on:

"I've bought myself a home in Miami, yard and trees and flowers and the ocean and all that. I've got a yacht. And I've got the finest little wife and the most wonderful baby in the world. I want to spend my winters in Florida—without worrying or working. I want to loaf and have some fun and enjoy my little family. Can't do it while I'm in the game. So I'm planning to get out—but I tell you I won't get out until I've put over another million dollar show. I've got to do that or I'll never be happy."

Tex kept banging away on that subject—and tried to get me to promise I'd fight for him again in September, 1929. I kept on saying: "No." But Tex was insistent. So I finally compromised with:

"Let me think it over and I'll let you know later."

During the fall of 1928, when much of my time was spent in and around New York, Tex brought up the subject repeatedly. He wanted a flat promise from me. I explained again and again how I felt about trying a "comeback." But Tex always tried to talk me down.

I'd tell him that perhaps the final bout among the 1929 contenders for Tunney's vacated crown would coax out a $1,000,000 gate. Tex would shake his head. Then I'd hazard the guess that Tunney might change his mind and fight some more. But Tex would shake his head to that.

OFFERED JACK $600,000

He offered me terms that were in the neighborhood of $600,000 if I'd sign up. I told him "no." Then he said that if I didn't think he was liberal enough I could practically write my own contract. He was willing to go to any sane, business-like extreme to get the promise from me in the hope that by fighting again I might help him to stage that "one more million dollar gate."

But I stood pat against it. The money end was attractive—tremendously so. But I'd rather pass up $10,000,000 than to go into a fight merely to get a loser's end. I wasn't sure then—nor am I now—that I could make the grade for a winning battle against the best man in active harness today.

When I was leaving for Los Angeles late in the fall to spend the holidays in my home town, I dropped around to say goodby to Tex. Again he brought up the subject. But this time in a different, far more different way.

"I'm not talking to you now as Tex Rickard to Jack Dempsey," he said. "I'm talking as one pal in a tough spot to the only other feller in the world who can help him out. I want you to promise to fight for me again—to fight next September—(1929)—will you do that, Jack, and help me out so I can put on one big show as my windup and then quit the game and take it easy and just loaf and play around the rest of my life?"

Tex Rickard was actually pleading to me—as a pal—to help him put over one more gigantic pugilistic success so that his prestige would be regained, his ambition realized and the way made clear so that he could fade out of the hectic promotional picture and go into the glad, happy life in the companionship of his wife and baby.

There was but one answer when Tex put it that way—and I made it when I said:

"Okay, Tex, but I'm making the promise only conditionally. If the contenders can't draw you a million-dollar gate and if nobody else can do it, I'll do a comeback this year for you, provided that I can prove in a little preminary training that I'm still good enough to have a chance to beat anybody from Tunney down the line."

"Thanks, Jack," said Tex simply. He extended his hand, and so the pact was made. I was to fight anybody that Tex Rickard might name in September, 1929, provided no one had been able to draw a $1,000,000 gate up to that time—and provided I could get into fair fighting shape once more.

He was wearying of it; wanted a rest, wanted home life and the companionship of the wife and child that he idolized. Both of us—Tex and I—were to pass out of the game together with that last fight.

Tex has gone—forever—from earthly things. The pact that was ours was broken by his death. My promise—made to help out a pal—automatically becomes void. And so, now, I am swinging back to that old resolve of mine, made that September night in Chicago: "I'm through as a ring man."

CHRISTNER FIGHT TONIGHT NO ROMP FOR SHARKEY

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

OF the two fights—Jack Sharkey vs. K. O. Christner, in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight, and Jack Sharkey vs. Young Stribling, at Miami Beach, Fla., February 27—the first interests me most.

I never cared much for Stribling as a fighter. He always has been too much of a wrestler with a show folks' background and a penchant for picking on suckers and folding up before anybody who could go more than a couple of rounds with him.

At one time I had a great deal of faith in Sharkey's chances of becoming heavyweight champion, but he has dissipated it with his in-and-out performances. He still may go on to reach the heights, but I won't get much of a kick out of the achievement against the job lot of performers now in the running for that honor.

Christner is the fellow who does appeal to me and for several reasons. One of them is his age. He is 34 years old. Another is his confidence after making such a belated start in a tough racket. Another is his ability to take punishment and keep going and always remain dangerous with that right-hand punch that he throws. He demonstrated that he has the competitive spirit by taking everything the highly-touted Knute Hansen was able to toss at him and then batter down the Dane in their bout in Cleveland.

ON form and experience, Sharkey should be a cinch to beat the aged virtual ring novice when they clash tonight, but don't be surprised if he has his hands full. He should be able to box rings around Christner, but he probably won't be content to win this way. He'll want to step in and mix, and therein lies his danger. Sharkey is not the hardest fellow among the heavyweights to discourage. If he finds he cannot hurt the former rubber worker of Akron and is shaken up a bit in the exchanges, he probably will do some tall and sloppy fighting and almost anything may happen.

In less than two years of fighting, Christner has knocked out more than 40 opponents, has traded punches with Jack Dempsey in the latter's training camp at Chicago, and, on the whole, has set himself up in business as a rugged fellow. He can do the sport world a favor by beating Sharkey or holding him so close that that Sharkey-Stribling thing down South will turn up its toes and die a natural death.

OVER in New York they are explaining the defeat of Jimmy Braddock by Leo Lomski on the ground that he has developed a Jack Delaney complex which causes him to lay back and wait for openings for his right-hand punch. He didn't do much leading against Lomski and failed to follow up his advantage after dazing Leo a few times with the right that broke Pete Latzo's jaw and knocked Tuffy Griffiths kicking. Braddock will have to get out of that rut or he'll find he's gone as far as he ever will.

Lots of folks who knew John Gruber, dean of the local baseball scribes, 'way back when will be among the thousands of guests at the testimonial dinner in honor of the veteran, to be held by the local chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America at the William Penn Hotel on the night of February 14. John was one of the city's first sports editors and was then, as he remains today, a colorful figure in the sports life of the community. There'll be quite a bit of reminiscing when his old cronies gather around the festive board with the notables who will be on hand for occasion. Tables of 10 are being reserved by John L. Hernon, chairman of the committee, who may be reached by calling Montrose 4715. Checks, at the rate of $5 per plate, may be addressed to him at P. O. Box 218, Pittsburgh, Pa. Get your check in early and be sure of a place.

Moe himself is a featherweight mixer. Others are Frankie Susnell, formerly of Rochester, Pa., a brother of Nick Susnell; Ace Martin, a middleweight; Roy Ryan and Young Harry Greb. Martin recently scored a victory over Al Birch, of Detroit, in a hard six-round bout during which both visited the floor.

EMMETT ROCCO MEETS GROSS IN GARDEN

Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight, gets his chance to show on the big time in the semi-final to the Jack Sharkey-K. O. Christner bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight, with Jack Gross, southpaw of Philadelphia, as his opponent.

Rocco has been fighting a lot of the stars among the second-flight heavies and feels he is ready for any of the topnotchers. He originally was matched with Knute Hansen, but the latter had to pull out and Gross was substituted for him.

YANKS APPEAR BEST BET IN A. L.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Will the Yankees of 1929 win a flag this season to equal the record held by the Giants, who won four pennants in a row beginning in 1921?

The way the roads are right now, the world champions stand a fine chance to catch up with McGraw; moreover they will have an opportunity to annex another World Series banner which would constitute a new record. The winning of an inter-league title by the Yankees this year would make it three out of four. No team has yet reached such heights.

Miller Huggins this week received encouraging news regarding Tony Lazzeri, who was out much of last season with a bad arm. Tony has taken treatment for the injured member with satisfying results; his report to his boss is to the effect that the Italian will be O. K. in the coming campaign.

Herb Pennock, recognized as one of the greatest lefthanders in the sport, who had to leave the field of action with a lame arm during the progress of the last fight, also is reported on the mend.

And then there is Wilcy Moore, righthanded recruit who voluntarily retired after sustaining some arm trouble. Moore, too, says he has improved so much that he wants to swing into action again. All of these points are big assets, but there are some liabilities.

Third Baseman Joe Dugan, one of the best of the Yankee money performers, has gone. The departure of Dugan makes the infield appear uncertain, although Lyn Lary, Oakland star, may prove to be the key man. Lary is a shortstop for whom the Yankees paid a heavy price.

With all rivals considered there appears to be none who deserve to be placed ahead of the present leaders in the predictions for the 1929 flag. The Athletics alone look like dangerous competitors.

Long's Sport Comment

lacks boxing skill. If Sharkey boxes him, Jack ought to win on points easily, but if he commits the blunder of trying to slug with the Akron mauler he will be in danger of running into a knockout. It's a pretty good bet that he'll fight the right way this time. Besides, if the promoters of the Sharkey-Stribling affair at Miami Beach did not have reason to feel sure of a Sharkey victory tonight they never would have allowed the New York match to be carried out.

Jim Corbett

WHILE Sharkey and Christner are preparing to enter the ring, veteran ring followers today are carried back on the wings of memory to a heavyweight fight that took place 35 years ago this afternoon. On January 25, 1894, Jim Corbett stopped Charley Mitchell in the third round of a fight at Jacksonville, Fla. It was Corbett's first ring appearance after he took the championship from John L. Sullivan on September 7, 1892. The Jacksonville bout was a grudge affair on Corbett's side. He said he had been grossly insulted by Mitchell in the lobby of a Bowery theater in New York, only the arrival of a squad of plain clothesmen from police headquarters preventing a rough-and-tumble battle at the time.

MITCHELL continued to abuse Corbett in the newspapers, with the result that Corbett jumped at the chance to meet the English champion, when Joe Vendig, a New York sporting man, offered to arrange a fight for Jacksonville.

In the second round, after Mitchell had hurled another insult at the champion, Corbett knocked him down and aimed a blow at his head while he was on the floor. Mitchell claimed a foul, but the referee and stakeholder, Honest John Kelly, feared there would be gun play among the tough gamblers at the ringside if he deprived Corbett of his title, so he refused to allow Mitchell's claim.

MITCHELL, past his prime and in poor condition, was counted out in the third round, whereupon Kelly leaped out of the ring, and made a dash for the railroad station and locked himself up in the drawing room of a sleeping car.

The explanation of his quick getaway is that he still carried the purse and side bets and feared a holdup. Not until the train was well on its way to New York did he hand over the prize money to Corbett and his manager, who were aboard the same rattler.

Seek Bankruptcy Scandal and Traffic Chaos Cures.

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK is addressing itself in earnest to finding and testing remedies for two evils which long have afflicted America: Traffic congestion and bankruptcy scandals.

Perhaps other cities may learn something from New York's experiments.

DISCLOSURES reveal that numbers of receiverships have been shamefully conducted. An investigation now under way indicates that laxity and worse in handling the affairs of bankrupt concerns will be proved to have been disgracefully widespread.

Everybody has known for years that receiverships have often been doled out as political plums. In far too many instances the main aim has been to enable political favorites to make what the late Tim Sullivan called "honest graft." Many a receiver has become rich, not by handling things with a single eye to the best interest of creditors, but by handling them in the interest of himself and his friends.

ALL THIS is wrong, totally wrong. Every year more than 20,000 failures occur in American business. The liabilities involved range from $300,000,000 to more than $600,000,000 annually. Occasionally there are single failures entailing many millions of dollars.

That affords some idea of the magnitude of the possibilities for graft. It is notorious that creditors of bankrupt concerns rarely receive any substantial part of their legitimate claims. The usual thing is for assets to melt amazingly. It is not uncommon for the greater part of a bankrupt's assets to be swallowed up by legal fees. It is also not uncommon for creditors to have to wait heartbreakingly long before anything whatsoever is turned over to them.

THE Federal Court in New York has just taken the important step of naming a large bank as receiver and announcing that other bankruptcy cases coming before it will be turned over to the same institution. As a consequence, the bank is setting up a special department to administer the affairs of failed concerns.

This experiment doubtless will be watched closely by courts, bankers, lawyers, business men and others all over the country. There is every reason to expect that the results under this new method will be distinctly better than they have been under the old haphazard, politically tinged method. It can be taken for granted that there will be nothing savoring of graft in the bank's handling of the cases entrusted to it. Presumably, thoroughly capable legal, financial and business talent will be employed to effect the most satisfactory settlements possible and to effect them with reasonable promptness.

TO TACKLE the increasingly grave problem of traffic congestion, New York has just appointed the most influential and comprehensive organization ever established. It includes the heads of such bodies as the New York State Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' Association of New York, Fifth Avenue Association, Broadway Association, Retail Dry Goods Association, Lower Manhattan Industrial Association, Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, Queens Chamber of Commerce, Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York, Central Mercantile Association, New York Board of Trade, Citizens Street Traffic Committee.

THIS organization's recommendations are almost certain to be adopted, no matter how farreaching some of them may prove. It has become so impossible for automobiles and trucks to move in New York with anything approaching reasonable speed, that the citizens have been exasperated and are prepared to indorse desperate remedies.

If one were to attempt to figure the loss incurred by traffic delays in the metropolis alone, the figure arrived at would be unbelievable. Men whose earning power runs into five or six figures find themselves compelled to twiddle their thumbs every second or third block when they travel by automobile in the busy sections of the city, and the humblest users of transportation suffer equally.

THE probabilities are that no one measure can be discovered to remedy the evil, but that many different devices will have to be resorted to. Should New York succeed even half-way in evolving a remedy, it would be worth billions of dollars a year in money and infinitely more in increased peace of mind and happiness.

BULLS GO WILD IN FRENZIED MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The bull party went on its most violent rampage of the new year on the stock market today, bidding up dozens of issues 5 to 17 points to new high ground. Trading was in enormous volume during the first two hours, indicating that total sales might cross the 6,000,000 mark, but moderated after midday, and the ticker, which had fallen considerably behind the market, was able to catch up with trading.

The wild trading of the morning was in response to overnight news developments, including the moderate increase in brokers' loans, and the resumption of dividends on Bethlehem Steel common and the company's excellent earnings report for the last quarter. The increase in brokers' loans, amounting to $48,000,000, was under the most conservative predictions. That the total would reach a new peak had been taken for granted.

Distinctly pleasing to Wall street was the sweeping improvement of over 9 per cent in the New York Reserve Bank's reserve ratio, carrying it to 80 per cent, less than 1 per cent under a year ago, when total brokers' loans were about $1,600,000,000 less than at present.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent, but became scarce at that rate, which was a factor in checking the pace of trading. The day's news was rather meager. Several oil companies in the mid-continent area followed the reductions in crude prices announced by Carter Oil yesterday. Stewart Warner directors proposed a 2-for-1 split-up. Governors of the stock exchange recommended a 25 per cent membership increase. New bond offerings for the week jumped to nearly $120,000,000 from less than $37,000,000 last week.

Johns Manville and Underwood, Elliot, Fisher led the upward swing with gains of 17 and 16 points, respectively. Union Carbide, Radio and General Electric mounted about 11 points. Nash Motors jumped nearly 10 to record price in an enormous turnover. American Smelting, By-Products Coke, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Wright, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, National Cash Register and Mathieson Alkali were bid up about 5 to 7 points. Montgomery Ward firmed up after an early loss. Columbia Graphophone was a soft spot, losing 3 points.

Hasty profit-taking in the afternoon reduced the gains of Johns Manville and Underwood Elliott Fisher by 5 and 6 points. U. S. Steel fell off 2 points from its peak, and National Cash Register 4. Operations for the advance were pushed forward in other sections of the list, however, Dupont (old), mounting 11 points, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Allied Chemical, Commercial Investment Trust, and American Machine and Faundry, 7 to 9 points. The closing was strong. Total sales approximated 5,200,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—Increased anxiety about winter killing of domestic winter wheat, did much today to make wheat prices averaging higher and to broaden out trading. All deliveries of wheat were selling within a fraction of a season's top quotations, with corn and oats both excelling the season record high figures. The latest government snow map showed a general lack of adequate snow covering throughout the winter wheat district, immense areas being notably bare west of the Missouri River and in the greater part of Illinois, Ohio and Indiana.

Wheat closed firm ⅛ to 1⅝c net higher, corn 1¼ to 1⅝c advanced, oats ⅛ to ⅝c up, and provisions varying from 2c decline to a rise of 12c.

In addition to reports of widespread frigid temperature and other unfavorable crop conditions prevailing in domestic winter wheat territory, leading trade authorities asserted today that grain and provision markets are broadening rapidly on increasing belief in the value of farm commodities as expressed in current prices. In this connection, it was stated enlarged buying in volume sufficient to absorb profit-taking was evident, and that grain especially was feeling the effect of greater public interest, and was taking a large share of the speculative buying which so long was pronounced in the stock market.

Aggressive buying of corn today appeared to be based not only on sympathy with wheat strength and on continued unfavorable crop advices from Argentina, but also on upturns of more than $1 of late in hog values. Talk was heard that farm feeding of corn to livestock would be augmented. Reports were also at hand that sales of American lard and bacon in Central Europe have increased 15 to 25 per cent over 1927.

BOLT LEAPS FORWARD TO NEW HIGH RECORD

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt went into new high ground again at the start of business on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today with demand for the stock showing the same persistence noted throughout the movement which began more than two weeks ago.

Renewed strength in the shares today followed a late upturn yesterday when it moved ahead to above 82 after having rested for a few days around 80 to 81. There has been no official announcement as yet as to the company's plans, but the Street generally believes that Screw and Bolt will take over the Colona Manufacturing Company. Bulls on the stock continue to discuss the new propeller which Screw and Bolt will manufacture on a royalty basis. The blade has several new features which have won the approval of the government engineers as well as the Wright Brothers. Screw and Bolt's earnings for 1928 will make a very favorable comparison with the previous year, when approximately $5 a share profit was shown for the common stock. It is said the company is in a position to retire its funded debt from surplus cash.

There was very little change in the local fuel stocks. Lone Star was handled around 70, off a fraction, while the Arkansas Gas issues were practically unchanged. Traders played around with San Toy Mining, one of the penny stocks, and boosted it a few cents in the forenoon dealings. The stock at 23 cents showed an advance of more than 15 cents a share from the level at which it was selling when the present activity began last week. There are rumors that the company is planning to pay another dividend. San Toy paid 1 cent a share a year ago or so when the stock was selling in the open market at 3 to 4 cents a share.

QUARTERLY NET OF BYERS CO. SETS RECORD

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE A. M. Byers Company reported greater net income in the quarter ended December 31, 1928, than in the corresponding period of any year in the company's history.

Net, after all charges, for the three months was $420,703, compared with $259,171 a year ago. Although the period for which the report has been made is usually the poorest in the year, net was greater than in the three months ended September 30, when $303,962 was shown.

Earnings for the quarter were equivalent to $1.56 a share on the 200,000 shares of common stock after deducting dividends on the $6,108,800 of 7 per cent preferred stock.

BYERS' fiscal year starts on October 1 so that the three months' statement gives the present accounting period an exceptionally good start. October was the biggest month from an earning standpoint since August, 1927.

A continued high rate of sales, in addition to reductions in costs through the use of the new Aston process and other economies, made the exceptionally good profits possible.

Preliminary work, such as the laying of railroad sidings at the new plant at Ambridge, is well under way. Actual construction will be started within a short time. Contracts have been let for the foundations, the steel work and the cranes.

THE Bethlehem Steel Corporation in the fourth quarter showed one of the greatest improvements in earnings of any steel producer. In conjunction with the announcement of a resumption of dividends on a $4 annual basis on the common stock the company made public the fact that fourth quarter net income was $6,399,348 or $2.58 a share.

This compared with net of $4,272,528 or $1.43 in the third quarter and $2,371,371 or 37 cents in the fourth quarter of 1927.

The increase in earnings came late in the year so that net for 1928 of $18,585,922 was less than $28,922,638 reported for 1927 and $20,246,167 in 1926. Net for the year was equivalent to $6.52 a share, which covers the new dividend rate by an ample margin.

Bethlehem Steel has just completed an expansion program which should make important operating economies posible in the present year.

THE steel industry in general is doing well. Operations in the Pittsburgh district are maintained at 85 per cent of capacity. Prices of finished steel are firm except for some shading of quotations on plates, galvanized sheets and rolled strips.

The automobile industry is getting production of new models into a good volume. Buying of steel in this district has been heavy with frequent rush orders. The demand for automobile sheets has been so great that some mills have been compelled to decline orders. Automobile makers have also been buying increased tonnages of bars.

THE seamless tube mills are operating at nearly 85 per cent of capacity. Welded pipe is not being made in such great volume, although some improvement has been noted.

Scrap prices have been on a continued upward trend. With heavy melting steel at $20 delivered in this district the cost is less than that of pig iron. The placing of pig iron on the open market by two steel mills has resulted in further weakness of Bessemer pig iron which has declined to $18 a ton.

Although there is little to complain of at present in the steel business, the upward trend which started last summer appears to have reached a peak. It is likely that the industry will remain on an even keel for the next month. Operations will continue good as mills fill the orders booked at the end of 1928.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 4 to 10 points. The active months showed net losses of about 8 to 12 points in the early trading under liquidation of January promoted by circulation of notices estimated at about 9,500 bales. There was also liquidation in later months accompanied by complaints of a poor spot demand.

March eased off to 19.91c and July to 19.56c, but there was trade buying around these figures which, with covering, seemed sufficient to absorb early offerings. Trading tapered off and the market looked a shade steadier by the end of the first half hour. Prices rallied 4 or 5 points from the lowest.

Private cables said that hedging and scattered liquidation of tired holders had been taken by trade calling in Liverpool.

Liquidation continued later in the morning and bulges of 4 or 5 points from the early decline were not fully maintained. The market was rather unsettled and barely steady around midday, when March was selling at 19.93c, and July at 19.57c, or about 6 to 8 points net lower. The last sale of the maturing January contract, in which trading ended at midday, was at 19.98c, or about 5 points above the prevailing price for March.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The raw sugar market was easier today. A sale of 25,000 bags of Cuban for February shipment was reported at a decline of 1-32c or on the basis of 3.80c for spots, duty paid.

The raw sugar futures market opened at 1 point advance to 2 points decline with some covering of the near positions. Later deliveries were off under liquidation and trade selling. The more liberal offerings in the spot market seemed to check aggressive buying, however, and an easier tone developed later under selling by houses with Cuban connections. Prices at midday were lower.

The market for refined was unchanged at 5.10c for fine granulated.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Stewart-Warner Two-for-One Split.

Stewart-Warner Speedometer Company stockholders will be asked to approve an increase in authorized capital stock to 2,000,000 shares, $10 par, from 600,000 shares no par value, of which 1,200,000 shares are to be issued in exchange for present shares on the basis of two for one. It is also proposed to place the new stock on a $3.50 annual dividend basis. Four quarterly stock dividends of 2 per cent each, subject to approval of the proposed increase in stock. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the present stock, payable February 15 to record February 5, was declared. The name of Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation will be changed to Stewart Warner Corporation. The company reports for the year ended December 31, 1928, net income totaled $7,752,532 after depreciation, federal taxes and all other charges, equal to $12.92 a share on 599,990 shares of no-par stock, comparing with net $5,210,053 or $8.63 a share in 1927. For the quarter ended December 31 net income amounted to $2,275,557, equal to $3.79 a share, against $1,863,640 or $3.10 a share in the preceding quarter, and $1,011,421 or $1.69 a share in the fourth quarter, 1927.

Steel Leads Fast Market.

Overnight gains of 3 to 6 points in leading industrials, stimulated by excellent earnings statements of Bethlehem Steel, especially for the fourth quarter, and the $48,000,000 increase in brokers' loans against expectations of a possible $100,000,000 expansion, gave the whole market a bullish appearance today and caused some hurried short covering. Bank statements reflected marked improvement in the Federal Reserve condition. The incident of most importance to the trading fraternity was Steel common's opening as 189, against last night's close at 183⅞. This convinced the market followers that Steel's recent upturn was a real move and that subsequent declines had been technical developments made necessary by the volume of stock brought out by the rise to 189. Following the high opening today, the stock went forward easily to 192, where it halted again as the more conservative traders thought things over and decided that the pace was too fast. Nash Motors dashed up about 20 points from yesterday's low, and a similar gain was recorded in Johns Manville. American Smelting and Refining was the leader of the copper and metal division, although its move was pretty much an individual affair, as several of the other recent favorites in the copper section displayed a somewhat heavy tone. This was due, no doubt, to switching of the big traders into the new spotlight stocks. American Sugar pushed toward its former high on dividend hopes. The directors meet in February, but it is by no means certain that the stock will be restored to the dividend column. Earnings would permit resumption of payments, but the industry is rather dislocated and had not yet had time to reflect the discontinuance of official crop restriction in Cuba. Rails stood aside as the industrial leaders monopolized the market, although Canadian Pacific reflected the same steady buying noted earlier in the week. The stock hurdled the 250-mark easily and was firm above that price. A few months ago this issue, regarded as one of the best of the rails, was available under 200. The C. P. R. has valuable mining interests in Canada in addition to its enormous real estate and timber holdings.

Expanding Oil Output.

Some oil producers seem to be running amuck again, with an average daily production of 2,644,200 barrels, a gain of about 11 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. That is the reason for yesterday's cut in mid-continent crude prices and that the oil shares are making no response to the biggest bull market in history. But developments over the last few weeks would lead one to believe that something definite in connection with oil conservation is likely to develop. The oil situation looks bad at the moment, but to many it is not as bad as it looks. In fect, there has been some good buying of the better grade oil stocks on the theory that before the next six months things will happen that may result in more stabilized oil conditions.

Magnolia Cuts Under Carter.

New prices on crude oil, undercutting the reductions on lower gravities announced yesterday by the Carter Oil Company, were posted today by the Magnolia Petroleum Company for Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas, excepting the Texas Panhandle. The Magnolia Company met the Carter cut on gravities between 32 and 44. Magnolia's prices for oil 31 degrees specific gravity range from 6 to 10 cents a barrel below those of the Carter Company. The two companies post the same price, $1.08 a barrel, for crude of 32 to 32.9 gravity with a 3-cent differential on grades up to 44 degrees. Magnolia Petroleum Company is a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New York. Carter Oil is one of Standard of New Jersey companies. Prairie Oil and Gas Company and Sinclair refining have posted lower prices for mid-continent crude oil similar to those quoted by Carter Oil.

Nash Motors.

Nash Motors assumed the leading role in the automobile group, running up to new high ground for the year, above 118. In the year ended November 30, last, Nash reported a balance of $7.62 a share for its stock, against $8.30 the year preceding. The position of the Nash product in the mind of motor car buyers is entirely different from a year ago, due to the success of new models placed on the market last summer. With continued demand for cars such as the company has experienced in the last six months, earnings for the shares should set a new high record in the current fiscal year. With additional plant facilities, Nash will be in a position to handle a far greater volume of business than it could last year, when deliveries were greatly behind orders.

Pennsylvania Railroad.

The National City Company has prepared for distribution a brief analysis of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Regarding last year's earnings and the prospects for 1929 the report says: "The road's 1928 gross earnings were considerably below those of 1927 in each month up to October. This was due to the general slackening of business during the period and also to the fact that in the early months of 1927 there was a strong demand for export coal to supply the shortage in Great Britain due to the miners' strike. In October and November, however, Pennsylvania's traffic registered an abrupt change in trend in comparison with 1927. This resulted in an increase in gross revenues of 7.8 per cent and 5.5 per cent, respectively. These increases in gross, plus the increased efficiency, contributed to a net increase in net railway operating income of 35.8 per cent in October and 38.9 per cent in November. Such income for the 11 months of $110,704,000 represented a gain of $9,077,000, or 8.9 per cent, over the corresponding period of 1927. Based on this we estimate that Pennsylvania earned $7.20 per share in 1928, which, plus its estimated contingent interest as stockholder in the undistributed earnings of affiliated and other companies, would bring it up to $8.40 per share. December traffic reports indicate a comparable increase in earnings for that month. Moreover, the shippers' advisory boards that in general cover Pennsylvania's territory, have predicted an increase of 6¾ per cent in car loadings for the first quarter of 1929."

Schwab, Stutz and San Toy.

Changes in the management of Stutz Motor are accepted in the Street as confirmation that Charles M. Schwab is out of the company. Schwab is understood to have had a big block of the stock at the time Alan Ryan, son of the late Thomas F. Ryan, cornered the shares and sent the price sky-rocketing to around $700 a share. It was said that Schwab refused to sell his stock out of regard for young Ryan. However the latter was beaten and his fortune swept away when the New York Stock Exchange authorities struck the issue from the list and a settlement was arranged at figures which meant practical ruin for Ryan. Later the stock went on the Curb and sold off to almost nothing. Recently it has shown some life, but never appears able to get very far. It was said, however, that Schwab retrieved a lot of his Stutz loss in the venture in Chicago Pneumatic Tool in which he obtained a large interest. This also, incidentally, was said to have been more of a friendship affair than a straight out business proposition on Schwab's part. Chicago Tool has made good with a vengeance and has been one of the sore spots of the market for professional bears for several years. San Toy Mining, the local penny mining stock in which there is a flurry at present, also has a Schwab angle. Old-timers here recalled today that Mr. Schwab was said to be a big holder of the stock when it was organized more than 20 years ago. It was brought out around $1 a share and later went up about 30 per cent. Subsequently it dropped back and was down around 2 to 3 cents for a long time with no takers. Pittsburgh gobbled up the stock as it did many mining issues in those days and it is quite likely that certificates will be resurrected from many a dead wood portfolio if the present move continues.

To Probe Commodity Exchanges.

A special committee was appointed today by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to inquire into futures trading on produce exchanges, particularly in wheat and cotton. The purpose of the study will be to determine the effect of such trading on prices, apart from the normal influences of supply and demand, and how the system can be made to best serve economic purposes. The committee is expected to recommend measures for the regulation of these operations by the exchanges themselves. William Franklin Gephart, vice president of the First National Bank of St. Louis, is chairman of the committee, which also includes Sydney Anderson, president Millers National Federation, Washington, D. C., and Julius H. Barnes, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, New York.

BUGS BAER Says

NEW YORK has put on 400 more crossing cops.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

The situation is serious in New York City. Every night at 8 o'clock, 1,000,000 people suddenly decide to go to the theater.

As the man in the air said, "If that's an underslung chassis, then I am an overslung pedestrian."

The skipper of a Fifth avenue bus radios to his garage, "SOS. I have run aground on a fat pedestrian."

But the man who invented the theater stagger plan shouldn't forget that the hospitals are still playing matinees.

We have a few simple recipes which will ease off the traffic situation. They have not been endorsed by the Life Extension Bureau.

You may paint it red or green. But it's still a mole.

If you have any better ideas than these, don't send them to us.

News Pages Reflect Life But Paper Is Many-Sided

A newspaper, first and foremost, is a NEWS paper. It is not a medium of special propaganda of any kind. While a good newspaper conducts various departments of an entertaining, uplifting, informative and educational nature, embracing many things, from sports to science and religion, its primary mission is to spread the news and to be of assistance to the community in what it considers a wise and temperate use of its power.

This statement is prompted by a minister-correspondent who comments on the editorial ''If Only Every Boy Could Understand the Truth of Jaworski's Last Message,'' which the correspondent states, ''is very fine.''

Jaworski, he quotes from the editorial, ''pleaded with newspaper men to do something to keep the wandering feet of youth off the crooked pathway that leads to destruction.'' Then he comments ''What a burden falls now on the newspaper world! Too much the modern press, so marvelous in many ways, is a slam, bang, smatter, sneer.''

The implication is clear. Our good correspondent forgets that the first mission of a newspaper is to spread the news. He forgets that spreading the news, which the people pay for, included the news, most sordid news, on which the editorial he cites was based, and that the sale of the news to the people makes possible giving them in addition many things in a newspaper that compare with the best that is in their libraries. It is not all ''slam, bang, smatter, sneer.''

The news is what sells the paper. Only a small part of it is sensational. It ranges from the reflection of life in the daily happenings amidst our people to activities of the bootlegger and the reformer, the actor and the scientist, the newsboy and the financier, all in their respective specialties, as well as a thousand and one other things. It is the mirror of our life and we all have the liking for looking into a mirror.

Sometimes the mirror reflects unpleasant things. To keep silent about them would be dishonest to the reader. The Sun-Telegraph has a very lively appreciation of its obligations and is making an earnest effort to print all the news, decently and clearly. Besides the news there are innumerable features—no paper anywhere has such a choice selection. While you are here, look about you on this page. You see a passage from the Bible, science, philosophy, gentle humor, reflection, epigram, wisdom, a gesture to poesy and many other interesting and valuable things worth reading, all outside of our own special editorial column, in which we attempt, in our own weak way, to criticize, counsel and guide, perhaps not with the greatest sagacity but certainly with the best intent for the welfare of all.

Court Record Is Made In Clearing Crime List

Dismissing two panels of jurors because there were no cases to be heard, Presiding Judge James B. Drew commented that for the first time in memory the criminal courts of Allegheny County were up to date. The court had caught up with an accumulation of cases, some pending for years, and found itself in the position of waiting for work. Having straightened out the jam, the court will keep up to date by having the grand jury assemble monthly hereafter.

Judge Drew deserves credit and thanks for speeding up court procedure through innovations he put into effect on being assigned presiding judge by the Criminal Court last September. His own service in the assignment room evidently has been marked by celerity, since the record established speaks for itself.

Allegheny High Is Safe But Will Get Attention

Eventually old Allegheny High School will be either new Allegheny High School or the old school so modernized as to structure as to make it rank with other institutions of its class so far as safety, comfort and educational advantages to pupils are concerned. This regardless of any decision as to fire hazard or protests of youngsters relative to conditions of which complaint has been voiced in their name. The decision, by the way, is that the building is not a fire menace.

The Board of Public Education is too much alive to the needs of our children to warrant any suspicion that whatever is wrong at Allegheny High will not be remedied as promptly as may be. Indeed, the record of the administrative department shows the matter has been under consideration and that further study was under way when ''the lid was blown off'' as a result of an address by a student, report of which came before the board.

Nevertheless the student spokesman and the student body reveal that they are of the kind of youth that we admire. They have a commendable interest in themselves and in their school, and reflect it courageously in their action.

Tales That Are Told

Matchless

SIDNEY was only 17, but he had the airs of a man of 70. Sauntering down the street, he took out a cigaret, only to find he had no matches. So he made for a store and asked for a light.

"We don't give matches away," he was told rather rudely by the man behind the counter. "We sell them."

"How much?" asked Sidney.

Worked Either Way

"Well, and what did you dream about?" asked his father.

"I dreamt that you gave me a pedaling motorcar, daddie," began the small boy, "and mummie gave me a big box of soldiers."

"But you know, dear, that dreams always mean the opposite."

"Oh, yes!" The youngster was undismayed. "But, then, I shall get the soldiers from you, an' mummie'll give me the motor."

Miss Bright-Eyes

IT was between the dances. They were sitting in a secluded corner.

"You have wonderful eyes," he murmured.

"Yes?" she inquired, expectantly.

"They are like stars," he went on. "They are so very bright."

Then he fumbled in his pocket and drew forth a glittering object.

"They are so bright," he said again, and thrust his watch before her. "See if you can tell me the time in the dark."

Non-Alcoholic

"No, sir," he returned; "it's raining water!"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

SOME guys have a queer idea of honesty. They talk a lot about how honorable they are, and they won't gyp the socks off you unless they think nobody will ever hear about it. Well, it was one of that kind of honorable guys that was arrested for a hotel proprietor. They had him up before the county prosecutor, and were making out a warrant to get him cooped up right, and he kept pleading that his good reputation would be ruined and he never done anything wrong in his life.

"I was going to pay the hotel bill. I never intended to leave town without paying every cent of it," he says.

"Sure they did, but that only shows how honorable my intentions was. I was going to pay my bill, even if I had to steal a little something to sell so's I'd have the money to pay with!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WETTEST New York yet.

Any one is free to wallow now.

WE HAVE LET DOWN BARS WHICH WERE NEVER LET DOWN IN THE DAYS OF THE SALOON.

We have let them down because, at first, that letting down seemed an adventure.

A splendid gesture of defiance toward tyranny!

But now the adventure has become a habit—a demoralizing habit which is undermining the dignity and force of the United States government and the decency of its citizens.

You can't FORCE people to be decent by laws.

THERE IS ONLY ONE THING IN THE WORLD THAT WILL KEEP A MAN OR A WOMAN FROM WALLOWING AND THAT IS INDIVIDUAL PRIDE.

We have forgotten that there is a difference between pigs and people.

WHAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS IS A REVIVAL OF THAT OLD-FASHIONED INSTITUTION OF GENTLE FOLK.

Make people proud to be ladies and gentlemen.

SOCIAL OPINION IS INFINITELY MORE IMPORTANT IN MOLDING CONDUCT THAN CONGRESSIONAL LEGISLATION.

The mean look of a neighbor, a cut on the golf links, a snub in a club, a bawling out in the office will do more to bring a weak man or woman to his or her senses than a million laws.

Don't give wallowers laws—
GIVE THEM THE DOG-EYE.

Stop trying to make people dry.

Try to make them ladies and gentlemen instead.

Expect them to be ladies and gentlemen.

THE WINTER STARS

By Garrett P. Serviss

AS we face southward in the middle of a winter evening the huge dark bulk of the earth under the North Star behind us hides the gleaming center of the Milky Way universe to which we belong, an amazing capital of stars so remote that its infinite multitude of lights throws but a glow upon the background of space.

But in compensation we behold above the southern horizon the most brilliant assemblage of nearer stars that the sky anywhere presents to the eyes of this world. It must have been the recollection of this sight which led the Psalmist to write that "the heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament sheweth his handiwork!"

It is a daunting sight to one who knows how little a thing the earth is and how humble the sun amidst the blazing array of his superiors. But, in the feeble grasp of our minds, tired with straining to comprehend uncovered immensity, these mighty suns become flashing and sparkling jewels scattered on the velvet counter of the night.

* * *

Below the Pleiades, to the east, burns Aldebaran with the hues of a flaming apple-blossom. Its color is unique among the stars and a world illuminated by its rays would glow forever in a rosy fingered dawn.

Above is white Capella, pinning the northern hem of the glimmery scarf of the galaxy, and below to the left shines great Orion, attended by his stellar magnificoes, Betelgeuse and Rigel, and with his matchless sword-belt of triple mater stars:

The bright white star Rigel, at the southwest corner of the quadrilateral figure outlining the constellation Orion, may be the greatest of all known suns in the universe, at any rate it is probably 18,000 times more luminous than our sun! If it took the place of our sun the planets would be shriveled into cinders.

* * *

Its reddish rival beyond the upper side of the three-starred belt is Betelgeuse, the first star to have its diameter directly measured—30,000 times as great as the sun's diameter.

Below the belt hangs a hazy object which a telescope magnifies into the strange luminous cloud called the Orion Nebula. But the whole constellation is involved in nebulous matter. It looks like one of nature's greatest sun-foundries. The modern doctrine is that these diffuse nebulae shine by excitation from the stars embedded in them.

The most brilliant individual object in the sky is found by drawing an imaginary line through the three belt stars and continuing it far toward the southeast. It is Sirius, the "dog-star." The real hue of its light is a slightly bluish-white, but when the air is a little unsteady it flashes all the colors of the rainbow. Sirius is hundreds of times fainter in reality than Rigel, which has the same color, yet it looks much brighter than Rigel, because Rigel's distance is over 60 times that of Sirius and its apparent brightness is proportioned inversely to the square of the distance.

The bright star Procyon, higher than Sirius and east of Orion, is another first magnitude winter gem, and still higher appear the twins, Castor and Pollux, in the constellation Gemini, which is the celestian palace of the midsummer sun. Earth has no fairer sight than these regal stars in and around Orion scintillating on a sparkling winter night above a snowy landscape.

Bible Passages

Christ Appeareth

(John 20; 11-23)

BUT Mary stood without at the sepulchre weeping: and as she wept, she stooped down, and looked into the sepulchre.

And seeth two angels in white sitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain.

And they say unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? She saith unto them, Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

And when she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus standing, and knew not that it was Jesus.

Jesus saith unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou? She, supposing him to be the gardener, saith unto him, Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away.

Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She turned herself, and saith unto him, Rabboni; which is to say, Master.

Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not; for I am not yet ascended to my Father; but go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father; and to my God, and your God.

Mary Magdalene came and told the disciples that she had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken these things unto her.

Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

And when he had so said, he showed unto them his hands and his side. Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord.

Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you.

And when he had said this, he breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghost:

The Rhyming Optimist

With Morning

WITH morning's sky of pearl and rose
Where faintly still the last star glows,

The little breeze comes softly now

And flutter up on joyous wing
To greet the morning's blossoming.

With morning dancing up the east,
Night's chains are loosed and hope, released,
Springs forth again to laugh, to feast.

Those brilliant banners of the dawn
That mock the shadow-hosts withdrawn
Signal a message: "Up and on!"

And as the rosy pageant takes
Its upward way while dawning breaks,
In souls an answering morning wakes!

A Tottering Throne

By Herbert Kaufman

OLD KING COAL is desperately sick, and threatened with dethronement to boot.

Competition has served notice that he must put on his thinking cap or abdicate.

Efficiency is reducing fuel consumption—making more steam with smaller shovelfuls—electricity is getting increased energy out of less tonnage—water power is underselling his markets—and crude-oil burners are snatching his furnace customers.

So many English miners are out of work that unemployment has again reached the peak figures of 1926, when starvation nearly fomented revolution.

A few years back, statistics turned pale at estimated reserves of anthracite and bituminous; they warned us that supply could not long fill demand, but conceived no method to avert the shortage.

The world has no fixed values or habits.

Style changes its mind overnight, snips skirts and locks, banishes corsets and casts the petticoat and hairpin into the discard.

Innovation is a merciless force. The path of progress is strewn with the bones of dead trades and ventures.

The half-tone sounds the knell of wood engraving. The garage closes the blacksmith's shop, just as the kerosene lamp stranded the whaling fleets and vehicular tunnels begin to retire the ferry boat.

Mexico quit gathering cochineal, a hundred thousand families and two million acres of indigo plantations lost their occupation and India was swept with bankruptcy when aniline dyes demonstrated their superiority and economy.

Improvements will be served regardless of cost.

Carry a second bow-string. Develop a side line. Or you'll be in the same fix some soon day.

PARIS—My first impression of Paris years ago was the obvious—that of an intense gaiety. Its clatter and squeak seemed the sweet treble of exultant childhood, of an irresponsible light-hearted people at play. Subsequent visits lessened this, until today it was one of haunting melancholy.

Paris is pleasantly appealing, but to me infinitely sad. Americans who have lived here long and love the city often feel the same way. The visitor for the first time is not touched by this breath of long ago—of perruques, farthingales, hoop-skirted ladies and illustrious kings gathered in the dust.

The stranger observes only the perky midinettes, the gay singing hum of the boulevards, the ripple of flashy shops and the charm intime of sidewalk tables. Yet to me this vitality is of the despairing, "Eat, drink and be merry" sort, an effort always to shake off the shadows.

To enjoy Paris to the fullest, one should never peer into its past. I was reminded of this sharply today in crossing beautiful Place de la Concorde with its background of gorgeous flowers and spiraling birds in the Tuilleries. Under the influence of a resplendent sun, the world was rose-colored.

Yet before I had reached the other side, there came a memory of old ladies knitting as bloody heads fell into the guillotine baskets. Always—the shadows. One should not perhaps be affected by such memories, but most of us are, and the longer one lingers the more pronounced they become. Voice—Get out then!

The engaging simplicity—the naivete—of the French, too, somehow has a tinge of pathos. A venerable hotel valet de chambre on my last visit showed me in the shy manner of the bourgeoise a three-masted ship he was fashioning inside of a bottle for a grandchild.

I simulated enthusiasm, and two hours after my arrival there came a gentle rap on the door. It was the old valet, who with trembling hands unwound many strips of cloth and displayed the almost completed ship. All his leisure has been devoted to this bauble. "It is all I can leave him," he said, with moving tenderness.

Paris speaks a different language to everyone. She—Paris is never "it"—is like Caesar's wife, all things to all men. I have been lyricizing its gloom, with all the drinking bazaars there are open, too, and into the room came Jimmie James, Hank Wales and Raymond Carroll, the newspaper correspondents. I spoke of my reaction—and if looks could kill! They declared it was the only city in which they never became depressed. And went laughing down the hall, singing something about "the senile old fossil from Rouen," and calling back from the elevator: "Keep out of the night air and take care of your rickets!"

* * *

There is much in France, however, to banish reminiscent gloom. After nine months, an increasing prosperity is sharply noticeable. It is considered today the most prosperous of all Europe. While this is the dull, after-holiday season, shops and cafes are filled. There is a pre-war dressiness. And prices for Americans are sky high, often higher than in New York. Outrageous is the word!

* * *

I have a habit of burying my head in the bed pillow at night in the manner of an ostrich. Some day I suppose I'll suffocate and then where will you be? In my hotel the pillows are encased in a heavy fishnet-like covering, and all day I've been traipsing around looking for all the world like a waffle gone wrong.

* * *

In the hotel garden some stone masons are having lunch. Each has a chunk of varnished bread, yellow rat trap cheese and a flagon of red wine. Nearby are school boys in their perelines or short black capes—like so many crows—just watching. It is a phase of French curiosity to watch people eat. Pedestrians stop before you at sidewalk tables and frankly peer into your dishes. And one snooping son-of-a-gun at an adjoining table at the Closerie des Lilas a night last winter eyed a gorgeous plum on my plate rapaciously, then reached over and speared it.

* * *

And I'll kiss a pig smack on the snout if my mother-in-law and I today didn't see a man stop on the Rue Royale, extract a vanity case from his pocket, hold the mirror to his face and use a powder puff. I never felt so manly and virile before.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Some brothers are so devoid of manhood that they will threaten to commit serious offenses if they are not given the money they ask for.

To accede to the demands of such a man is merely to delay the time when he will bring disgrace upon the family and himself.

But there are many such, and even older men who are willing to live on the efforts of the women members of their families.

Even a spark of manhood would not consider living on the income provided by a woman's work, and an able-bodied man who does it, is about as abject and low a piece of humanity as exists today.
